SPANIARDS REVOLT; PRIEST GIVES ARMS

Insurrectionary Movement in Four Provinces, to Which Troops Have Been Sent.

TO STOP SUNDAY'S PROTEST

Clericals and Opponents Arrange for Counter Demonstrations—Papal Nuncio Ready to Leave.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Aug. 4.—An insurrectionary movement has, it is reported, started in the Basque Provinces—Biscay, Alava, and Guipuzcoa—and in the adjoining Province of Navarre.

The Government is dispatching troops to the scene of the trouble.

In spite of the prohibition placed by the Government on the proposed manifestation of the Clericals here next Sunday, the organizers are actively pushing their preparations. They declare that the manifestation will take place even if the people are forced to come to San Sebastian on foot from the various outlying districts. They add that they will be responsible for order if they are not provoked by the Anti-Clerical factions.

The leaders of the movement warmly criticise the Government for compelling the railroads to refuse to furnish special trains, and they have decided to send a telegram to the King protesting against the Government's attitude. This message will be sent to England, where the King now is, by way of Bayonne, for fear that it might be stopped in Spain.

The Carlist Deputy Felin has issued a proclamation to the Carlists urging them to send a delegation to take part in the manifestation, "to show their adhesion to the Vatican and crush the attempts at de-Christianization."

MADRID, Aug. 4.—The Government has learned that a priest in one of the Basque villages is distributing arms to the populace.

An investigation has begun and troops have been ordered to that territory.

The Government will also dispatch troops and adopt extreme measures to prevent the proposed clerical and anti-clerical demonstrations at San Sebastian next Sunday. A renewed formal prohibition of the proposed manifestation was issued to-day by the Minister of the Interior.

The organizers of the clerical demonstration nevertheless persist in their plans, and great apprehension prevails.

The clerical papers publish further articles of extreme violence against the Government. The organizers of the anti-Governmental demonstrations have, in circular letters to the clergy, urged them to incite their congregations to refuse obedience to the prohibition of the demonstration.

The civil authorities are considering legal prosecutions against the organizers of the proposed Catholic manifestations.

The Minister of the Interior has gone to Bilbao to settle the strike.

BARCELONA, Aug. 4.—A collision in which weapons were used occurred in the streets to-day between Carlist adherents of Don Jaime, Pretender to the throne of Spain, and Republicans.

One of the Republican faction was wounded with a knife.

The police charged the fighting crowds and dispersed them.

ROME, Aug. 4.—Mgr. Vico, the Papal Nuncio to the Spanish Court, received instructions from the Vatican to-day to be ready to leave Madrid at a moment's notice in case of an unfavorable issue of the negotiations.

This preparation for a complete rupture of diplomatic relations between Spain and the Vatican would indicate that little is hoped from the answer to the Spanish note which Cardinal Merry del Val is now drafting.

Although the Vatican is earnestly trying its best to avoid a complete break with Spain, Cardinal Merry del Val fears that Señor Canalejas will be forced, in order to satisfy his extremist supporters, still further to accentuate his anti-Catholic policy, and the Cardinal is preparing for the worst.

The report is again in circulation that Cardinal Merry del Val has expressed his intention of resigning his post as Papal Secretary of State after the settlement of the controversy between the Spanish Government and the Vatican. The report is not confirmed.

ASK MRS. LONGWORTH'S AID.

W. C. T. U. Members Also Want Her to Join Anti-Cigarette Crusade.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 4.—Members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union here are anxious to induce Mrs. Nicholas Longworth to discourage cigarette smoking. Friday they will hold meetings at the home of Dr. Sarah Siewers, President of Walnut Hills W. C. T. U., at which, according to Dr. Siewers, they will probably indorse the action recently taken by "Lucy Page Gaston, President of the National Anti-Cigarette League, who directed that a committee wait on the daughter of ex-President Roosevelt and present a letter asking that she quit smoking cigarettes, or at least publicly deny that she does so.

Similar action may be taken by the Central Woman's Christian Temperance Union, of which Mrs. John Robertson is President, next Wednesday. The matter is also to be discussed at the outing of the Susan B. Anthony Suffrage Club to be held the latter part of next week.

Congressman and Mrs. Longworth have declined to discuss the matter in any of its phases.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 4.—"I certainly do not respect a woman who smokes," said Mrs. Emil Seidel, wife of the Socialist Mayor of Milwaukee. "I do not think, however, the Christian Endeavor societies are doing quite right in asking Mrs. Longworth to refrain from smoking. I think they are taking somewhat of a liberty. Mrs. Longworth will in all probability ignore the letter."

WILHELMINA'S HUSBAND HURT

Prince Henry's Collarbone Fractured in a Cycling Collision.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Prince Henry of the Netherlands, Queen Wilhelmina's consort, has had to postpone his visit to Brussels owing to a fractured collarbone sustained in a cycling accident. The details are given in an Amsterdam dispatch as follows:

The Prince Consort came in collision with a young lady who was learning to ride. Early in the evening, it seems, a woman standing by her cottage saw a lady cycling up to her. She asked for water and said she had collided with a gentleman who had suffered a heavy fall from his bicycle. She ran into him, she said, at a corner where she had not room to avoid him.

After his fall the gentleman asked her in a kindly way, "Did you hurt yourself?" His right arm was stiff and painful.

Some one then borrowed the lady's bicycle and went for help. A motor car and a doctor were hurried to the spot and the Prince was taken to the Queen Mother's palace.

The royal family wishes no inquiry made as to the identity of the woman cyclist.

BATTLE ON NEAR CEIBA.

Gen. Christmas Lands with Troops—Our Consulate Full of Refugees.

Special to The New York Times.

MOBILE, Aug. 4.—News received here from Ceiba is to the effect that a general alarm has been sounded and that all the Government troops are rushing to quarters. The dispatch goes on:

"We expect to see the town attacked any moment. The British warship Scylla is entering the harbor.

"The situation is one of great uncertainty and anxiety. The American Consulate is filled with refugees. Among them are Dr. Layton, the United States Marine Hospital Surgeon; his wife, and his mother; Dr. Francisco Matuke, and Col. Gallardo.

"The Government has formally demanded of the American Consul that he surrender Dr. Matuke, but has refused.

"There are, altogether, about 2,000 Government troops in and around Ceiba, and intrenchments are being thrown up three miles east of the town. It is said that both sides are well prepared, and a serious engagement is expected. The Governor will lead the Government troops in person. He desires to avoid fighting inside the city, so that no foreigners will be hurt and outside complicatons will be avoided.

"Business is at a standstill and the streets are all carefully guarded, while mounted men patrol the beach. Every one must have a good reason for being on the streets after dark, otherwise he is taken to headquarters and examined.

"Many reports are current here as to Gen. Bonilla's movements. One report says he has landed near Puerto Cortez. Another is that he has landed not far from Ceiba and will soon advance on this town.

"There was a well-authenticated report to-day that an engagement was taking place on the coast about seven miles east of here between the Government troops and a large revolutionary force under Gen. Lee Christmas, who attacked the Government forces from barges and boats anchored in the offing. He was said to be using rapid-fire guns, handled by fifty Americans.

"A later report says that Christmas effected a landing with his forces."

BARONESS FORCED TO WORK.

"Waif" Adopted by Mrs. Ladenburg Child of Former Miss Coudert.

It became known yesterday that the supposed "waif" which Mrs. Adolph Ladenburg of Newport adopted several days ago was in reality the child of the Baron and Baroness Breunig, who are living in reduced circumstances with their five other children in Belmar, N. J.

The Baroness Breunig, who before her marriage was Miss Amy Coudert, sister of the members of the noetd law firm of Coudert Brothers, is now earning a living for herself and her family by soliciting advertisements for a magazine. Her husband is an invalid, and it is understood will be incapacitated from helping her support their children for at least a year.

Miss Coudert's first husband was the Marquis de Choiseul Pfaslin. After his death she married Baron Breunig.

None of the members of the Coudert family was in town yesterday.

COLER BUYS COUNTRY SEAT.

Acquires Site Near Schenectady and Will Build Next Spring.

Special to The New York Times.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Bird S. Coler, formerly President of the Borough of Brooklyn, has purchased from Alexander T. Knowlton, through Sam M. Strong, a local real estate broker, a tract of 121 acres along the Mohawk River, near Rexford Flats, about four miles east of this town. The tract lies directly opposite the Knolls, owned by Willis T. Hanson, President of the Union National Bank, and the price paid was upward of $20,000.

Mr. Coler intends to build a fine house on the property next Spring. It is reported also that he intends to take steps to induce wealthy friends to construct Summer bungalows nearby. The site borders on the Mohawk River, which is used by the new State barge canal, and it would be possible for craft to reach it by water from New York.

HURT BY MRS. HYDE'S AUTO.

She Was Driving When It Struck Vehicle and Merchant Was Thrown Out.

Special to The New York Times.

BABYLON, L. I., Aug. 4.—Sydney Brown, a local merchant, is lying seriously ill at his home here with concussion of the brain, as a result of being thrown from his wagon this afternoon when it was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Richard Hyde, wife of Richard Hyde, the theatrical man.

The accident was due to a tire bursting, and was unavoidable. It occurred in front of the country home of Mrs. Annie S. Arnold. Mr. Brown is past 60 years of age, but still it is thought he will recover. Mrs. Hyde did all that was possible for the injured man.

STUDENT AND DEAN HAVE A FIST FIGHT

Syracuse Senior, Disgusted with Delay in Granting Diploma, Lights Cigar with It.

OFFICIAL RESENTS ACT

Blows Follow and Both Have Black Eyes—Prof. Nugent Has One, Too, After Student Calls.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Herbert William Faus Syracuse, '10, finally obtained his delayed diploma in a blaze of pyrotechnics up on the University Settlement known as Piety Hill this afternoon. When order again finally reigned there emerged a half-burned diploma, which Faus purposes to keep as a souvenir, and at least two black eyes—one belonging to Faus and the other to Prof. Paul Cook Nugent, department of civil engineering. Dean George H. Shepard of the College of Applied Science is reported also to wear some facial abrasions as reminders of an unusual session.

Herbert William Faus was one of the most popular men in Syracuse University. He took a four years' course in applied science and was unusually prominent in the social, literary, and fraternal life of the university. He was a member of the Phi Delta Theta college fraternity, Phi Kappa Alpha, a senior class society, and a large number of other college organizations.

He was also manager of class football teams, Vice President of the senior council, member of the athletic governing board, and one of the shining lights of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet of the university. He is the son of wealthy parents of Elysburg, Penn. This year he was Commodore of the Syracuse navy.

Faus should have graduated in June, but he did not receive a diploma with the rest. Faus says Prof. Nugent had it in for him for the four years and discriminated against him. It appears that Prof. Nugent warned Faus several times times that he was devoting too much time to matters other than his studies.

The result was that in June Chancellor Day refused to grant Faus his diploma till certain back studies had been made up. So Faus, instead of going home, remained over to study. He made up his back work under Prof. W. P. Graham, finishing it to the latter's satisfaction a few days ago.

It is necessary for the College Registrar to have certified records of the students to whom diplomas are granted. Prof. Graham left for his vacation in Canada recently, and, as Faus understands, Graham left word with Nugent that Faus's back work had been made up. Prof. Nugent refused to certify, however, though Faus says he admitted to him that the work had been made up.

After waiting two days Faus wired to Prof. Graham, who returned a message certifying him, so this afternoon he called at the office of Dean Sheppard and at last received his diploma. After getting the paper Faus relieved himself of some vitriolic language about Syracuse University.

"Just to show you how much I value this diploma of your cheap institution," he told the dean, "I'm going to light this cigar with it."

Dean Sheppard laid aside his glasses.

"I would advise you to attempt no such thing," he said.

Calmly the Pennsylvania student struck a match, set fire to the diploma, and proceeded to light his cigar. Then things happened.

Faus says Dean Sheppard hit him first in the nose. From its present appearance somebody did, for it is on the bias this evening.

Somebody hit him in the eye, too, for it is black to-night. But Faus, who is a little fellow, did his share and reports are that he gave the Dean also a black eye and some cuts. The Dean yelled loudly for the police and called upon a couple of spectators to telephone, but the instrument was not used.

When the mêlée was over Faus announced that he should call at once at the home of Prof. Nugent and thrash him. He left the office and proceeded to Nugent's home. Calling him out upon his porch he said things to him, and then there was a mix-up. Prof. Nugent was down town to-night with a black eye. Nugent, who would make about three of Faus physically, explained to the correspondent that a window fell on his eye.

Faus says he is satisfied and is going home. He says he will frame the diploma for a "den" ornament. There's about half of it left.

Prof. Nugent wouldn't talk. Dean Sheppard contented himself with the statement that Chancellor Day, who is away on his vacation, would be notified of the occurrence. The university rules empower the Chancellor, if he wishes, to revoke degrees given. So Faus may lose his C. E.

COLIN STEWART A SUICIDE.

Insomnia Drives Rich Pasadena Hotel Owner to End His Life.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 4.—Fearing insanity as a result of a prolonged spell of insomnia, Colin Stewart, a wealthy man of Pasadena, killed himself this morning in his apartments at the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena.

His wife and a son, aged 22, went down to breakfast at 8 o'clock, leaving him ailing, and when they returned a half hour later he was dead, with a bullet in his brain. He had made no threat of suicide, but for seven days he had been gradually failing in health.

The dead man was 55 years old. He built the Hotel Maryland, in which he lived, and designed it himself to suit his own tastes. He was one of the founders and a recent President of the Annandale Golf Club, and golf was his favorite diversion.

THOUGHT FIRST OF HER DOLL.

Little Girl, Run Down by a Street Car, Forgot Her Own Injuries.

Edna Fette, 4 years old, of 3,069 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, thought only of her baby doll last evening when she was lifted out by an ambulance surgeon from under the truck of a trolley car of the Fulton Street line, which had run her down in front of her home.

"Baby, go to sleep," her own baby lips said drowsily to her broken and torn doll, which was placed beside her in the ambulance, after Dr. Duff had, in sight of a large crowd, amputated the little girl's left arm. In order to release her from under the car he had crawled under it on his hands and knees. Pending his arrival men on hand feared to try to get her out for fear of injuring her further.

The child, attentive to her doll, was crossing the car tracks when the car struck her and she rolled under the fender. She was dragged for fifty feet. Seeming not to feel any pain she called constantly for her "Baby." Last night in St. Mary's Hospital it was said the "little mother" would probably not reawaken from her sleep. She was badly injured internally.

MRS. JESSE TYSON WEDS LIEUT. COTTEN

Wealthy Baltimore Widow and United States Army Officer Married in England.

FEW AT THE CEREMONY

Bridal Couple Spending Their Honeymoon on a Motor Tour—May Not Return Here for a Year.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 4.—Information has been received in Baltimore from Seven Oaks, Kent, England, that Mrs. Edith Johns Tyson, the wealthy widow of Jesse Tyson, was married to Lieut. Bruce Cotten, U. S. A., of North Carolina, yesterday afternoon.

The ceremony was performed at Tunbridge Wells, in the parish church, by the Vicar, and was exceedingly quiet. The only persons present were a few intimate friends of the contracting parties. Following the ceremony Lieut. and Mrs. Cotten went in the motor car of Mrs. Douglass Wesson, a friend of the couple, and they will spend their honeymoon motoring about England. Later they will visit a number of places on the Continent, and it is possible they will remain in Europe a year before returning to America.

Mrs. Tyson sailed from New York for the other side with a party of friends on last Aug. 9. At the time that she departed there was considerable talk of her probable marriage to Lieut. Cotten. Shortly after Mrs. Tyson sailed Lieut. Cotten, who was then stationed at Fort McHenry, announced that he would also visit England. He sent in his resignation to President Taft and took a steamer from New York.

INJURED IN "HOBBLE" SKIRT.

Mrs. E. Van Cutzen, While Alighting from Runabout, Falls on Pavement.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 4.—Mrs. E. Van Cutzen of New York, while alighting from her electric runabout in front of the Casino this afternoon, tripped and fell to the pavement, bruising her hands and face and cutting her lips slightly. Her foot caught on the steps in some manner. As she was wearing a "hobble" skirt, she was unable to save herself, and she fell prone upon the pavement, striking her face. There were several persons standing at the entrance to the Casino, and they ran forward, but Mrs. Van Cutzen's face had struck the pavement before they reached her. She was assisted into the office of the Casino.

After resting a moment she declared that she was not injured enough to call in a physician, and went to her cottage on Ocean Avenue.

Mrs. Van Cutzen was wearing at the time of the accident a linen dress, the skirt of which was almost the extreme of the hobble model.

Upon several occasions society women have tripped upon their "hobble" skirts while alighting from their motor cars, but have always managed to save themselves from a fall.

TRIES TO CONVERT SHERIFF.

Gayly Dressed Man Arrested for Board Bill Presses Tract on Officer.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 4.—Harry Harvey Harkey, a striking looking individual, wearing pink socks, a bright red bow tie, a black frock coat, and a straw hat, who says he is the head of the Harry Harkey Company, dealer in coffee and tea, with headquarters in Duane Street, New York, was to-day released from the Greenwich lockup, where he had been detained for twenty-four hours after turning over a pawn ticket on a watch in payment of a $6 hotel bill.

Almost the first question Mr. Harkey asked the Sheriff, who came to arrest him, was, "Are you a Christian, Mr. Sheriff?" The Sheriff's answer being unsatisfactory, Mr. Harkey thrust a tract into the officer's hand and earnestly recommended that he read it. Later he explained to the Sheriff that he was doing a big business, but Arbuckle and other big concerns were "out after him with their hammers." Asked what he did with his money he replied that he gave it to the Lord. This morning he sent for the Rev. W. B. Waller, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, and upon his release the minister lent him enough money to get to New York with.

SAVE BOY FROM THIRD RAIL.

Seven-Year-Old's Brother and Flagman Shocked in Pulling Him Away.

In their efforts to save Paul Knotta, 7 years old, of 2,362 Pacific Street, Brooklyn, from being burned to death last night by a powerful electric current which shot through his body from the third rail of the Canarsie division of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Railroad, his brother Nickolas, 11 years old, and Stephen McCormack of 39 Hemlock Street, a flagman, almost lost their own lives.

The boy stumbled over the third rail at New Lotts Road and Vesta Avenue, and there was a sizzling and flash of electric flame as the current passed through him. He fell on his face with a scream. His brother, who was near, tried to pull him out of danger, but was knocked down by a bad shock. Another boy was also shocked. McCormack, the flagman, attempted to grasp the imperiled child by the foot to drag him off the rail, and was hurled off his feet. Finally he managed to shove the boy away from the rail with a stick.

The little fellow, unconscious, was badly burned about the face, chest, and hands, and was taken to Bradford Street Hospital, where his condition was said to be serious.

The boys were returning from Jamaica Bay, where they had been swimming, and were walking along the tracks when Paul stumbled.

SEVEN SUFFOCATED IN A JAMAICA FIRE

Polish Families Trapped While They Slept in a Frame Tenement in Rockaway Road.

OTHERS ARE BADLY BURNED

Whole Hospital Staff Turns Out to Give Aid to the Injured at Early Morning Blaze.

A spiral of smoke crept up through the flooring of a two-story frame dwelling house at the corner of Liberty Avenue and Rockaway Road, Jamaica, L. I., early this morning. It swelled out into the room and presently a tongue of flame followed up through the fissure where the smoke had entered.

An hour later the fire had been put out, but seven persons, including two women, had been suffocated to death by the volume of smoke which pursued the first tiny spiral and enveloped the victims, all of whom were trapped in their beds.

The fire burned for some time before it was discovered. At first only smoke, in ever-increasing volume, entered the rooms where the victims were asleep. It crept in slowly, gradually filling the atmosphere with an acrid odor which at last awakened the sleepers.

They sprang from their beds to find themselves completely surrounded by a yellow suffocating cloud. Outside it was dark and within there were no lights burning. Even the windows could not be seen, for the blanket of smoke prevented the starlight from penetrating into the room.

The panic-stricken folk staggered about the rooms striving to find doors or windows, but the positions in which their bodies were found later showed that they had been unsuccessful. In their night-clothes the bodies were found in the centre of the room or, in some cases, near to the windows, but not one had succeeded in finding his way through the clouds of smoke to a window or doorway through which safety might have been found.

Meantime neighbors had discovered the fire from outside the house and had turned in a fire alarm. Then they ran to the burning building and tried to rescue those who, they knew, were within.

With the arrival of the firemen a second alarm was turned in, bringing more apparatus to the scene where the house now was only a mass of flames. Already the first comers among the firemen with the help of residents of the neighborhood had succeeded in entering the sleeping compartments in the house, and there they had discovered and had succeeded in bringing to the street the bodies of the dead.

They were not burned, but not a spark of life remained in any. Some apparently had been smothered in their sleep, never having awakened to a knowledge of their peril. Others, from the position in which their bodies were found, evidently had made desperate efforts to get out from the building.

The burned building was used as a tenement by several Polish families. In the house there were probably, all told, about a score of persons. Those on the upper floors were awakened before the smoke had overcome them, and they rushed screaming and in their night-clothes from their rooms seeking to get down the stairs and to the street.

The stairs, however, were quickly made impassable by the clouds of smoke which ascended as though up a chimney, and some of the tenants of the upper floors reached the street only by jumping from the windows to the sidewalk below. Many were hurt in this way, and many more were brought from the house by the firemen, some of them unconscious from burns and from inhaling smoke.

Three ambulances were summoned from St. Mary's Hospital and another one came from the Jamaica Hospital. The whole surgical staff of the latter hospital hurried to the scene also. A field hospital was established on the sidewalk nearby the fire, and there the injured inmates of the house were hurried as fast as the firemen assisted them to the street. Many were burned, but more suffered from inhaling and swallowing smoke.

The police reserves from the Jamaica Station were hurried to the place, for the whole neighborhood was aroused, and the near-by streets were packed with residents in various states of disattire.

It was early morning before the last of the injured had been taken to the hospitals and the streets were once more quiet.

SUICIDE MAY BE MASON.

Man Supposed to be Philip Becker Shoots Himself in Wilmington, Del.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 4.—A man, supposed to be Philip Becker, aged 53 years, and believed to be a member of Mecca Temple, Mystic Shrine, committed suicide in the Central Hotel, Delaware City, last night after removing all marks of his identity from his clothing. He was found seated in a chair in his room to-day with a bullet through his right temple.

The man had been in Delaware City three weeks, apparently on an outing. He used hair dye, and yesterday, after saying the preparation affected his brain, said he would go to Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, to-day for treatment. The pistol with which he ended his life was found there by him, having been left in the room by a previous guest. Grand Master Mode of the Delaware Masons will communicate with the officers of Mecca Temple in an effort to identify the suicide. He left this note on a bureau addressed to the Masonic fraternity:

"I am a member of the Masonic fraternity and have committed no crime. Please see that I am decently buried."

Twenty-three dollars in money was found upon him. Harry J. Guthrie, Secretary of the Wilmington Board of Education and a Mason of high standing, met the man at Delaware City on Tuesday and had a long talk with him. The stranger did not divulge his name, but led Mr. Guthrie to believe he was a member of Mecca Temple, New York. To residents of Delaware City he said his home was in the West. It is believed, however, that he was a New Yorker. He was well dressed and evidently well connected.

J. EDWARD SIMMONS DEAD.

President of the Fourth National Bank Passes Away at Mohonk Lake.

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 4.—J. Edward Simmons, the New York banker, died here at 1 o'clock this morning.

He was President of the Fourth National Bank of New York, President of the New York Clearing House, President of the State Chamber of Commerce, President of the Panama Railroad Company, and an officer of many corporations. His home is at 28 West Fifty-second Street, New York City.

DR. COOK IN COLORADO?

Said to be Resting in Mountains—Bradley Has a Home There.

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 4.—The Denver Post prints an unconfirmed report that Dr. Frederick A. Cook of north pole notoriety is spending a vacation in the mountains near Glenwood Springs.

J. R. Bradley, his former financial backer, has a Summer home there.

AT 72 HE SAVES GRANDSON.

Aged Man Plunges Into the Water and Rescues Three-Year-Old.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 4.—Thomas, the three-year-old son of Principal C. A. Sheppard of School 18, wandered to the wharf in Culver's Lake to-day and fell overboard. His screams were heard by Peter Gunderman, his grandfather, who plunged overboard. Notwithstanding the fact that he is 72 years old Gunderman swam to the child, and after a hard struggle got him back to the dock, where both were dragged from the water.

BALLINGER DENIES REPORT.

Says Conference with Crane Did Not Concern His Resignation.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 4.—Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, while en route to Seattle, wrote the following note to The Associated Press:

"Please say for me that reports to the effect that Senator Crane's conference with me had to do with the suggestion that I resign are without foundation.

"Our conference did not in the slightest degree relate to myself or any matter affecting me.

"Very respectfully,

"R. A. BALLINGER."

CHINA ORDERS TWO CRUISERS.

Will Revive Naval Colleges, Secretary of American Legation Reports.

SEATTLE, Washington, Aug. 4.—C. D. Tenney, Secretary of the American Legation at Peking, has arrived from the Orient and reports that China has ordered two cruisers of 3,000 tons constructed in England for training vessels and will revive the Foo Chow and Tien Tsin Naval Colleges.

Prof. Tenney, who has been many years in China, and was formerly head of the Pei Yang University, said the new army organization was nearly effected. There was now more rapid progress than at any time in China's history, he said.

"Not in the days since China entered the progressive era have the affairs of the United States, its trade, and its people been regarded with the favor that now prevails," said Mr. Tenney. "American enterprises in the empire are flourishing. The number of resident United States citizens is steadily growing. The opening of several institutions recently have added a large number of young Americans."

JOYCE LOSES LICENSE.

Talking with McGraw, He Forgot to Close on Time.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4.—"Bill" Joyce, the former major league star player, lost his saloon license yesterday because he became so engrossed in conversation with Manager McGraw of the New York Nationals that he forgot to close his Sixth Street place at the stroke of midnight on Saturday, July 23.

At his hearing before Excise Commissioner Caulfield Joyce admitted that he kept open until 12:30 A. M. on that occasion, but denied that he sold a drink after 12.

McGraw and Sam Crane, a New York writer, were in Joyce's barroom when the town clock struck 12. Crane wanted another drink, Joyce testified, but he did not get it, and all he and the two guests did until a policeman came in was to talk baseball.

ONLY TARRED THE SIGNS.

Jersey Man Failed to Remove Objectionable Notices and Must Stand Trial

FREEHOLD, N. J., Aug. 4.—Instead of removing a number of alleged objectionable signs, as he had promised to do, James M. Allgor of Seabright covered them with tar and feathers, Prosecutor Applegate told Judge John E. Foster today, whereupon the court withdrew the promise to quash indictments against Allgor, and he must stand trial.

Allgor bore grudges against Mayor P. Hall Packer, Charles D. Halsey, Frank McMahon, and others, so he is charged with having painted their names on his fence with improper remarks beside them.

When indicted he was told that if he would remove the signs he would not be prosecuted, but photographs were produced showing that the "removal" consisted in covering them with the material signifying contempt.

TAXI METERS FOUND WRONG.

Inspectors Stop Several Under New Law from Doing Business at Hotels.

The new Bureau of Taximeters began its operations yesterday, and examined a number of hotel cabs. Several cabs with fast registers were ordered back to their stables.

The Inspectors have taken a garage at 244 West Forty-ninth Street, which will be used for condemned taxis. Every cab which shows more than 40 cents due for the first half mile and 10 cents for each of the quarter miles after that will be sealed, and the proprietors will be warned that they are not to be used again till they have been regulated properly.

At one of the leading hotels last night there were just four cabs in sight, and two young men were about to hire one of them. But the inspectors came along at just that moment, and finding every one of the meters fast ordered the taxicab out of commission.

BIG MOOSE, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Vice President James S. Sherman on his arrival here to-night from Utica received a telegram saying that his name had been mentioned by Senator Gore at Muskogee as one of those interested in the $3,000,000 McMurray Indian contracts. He gave out this statement:

"The story that comes to me about the charges made by Senator Gore at Muskogee to-day is absolutely without the slightest shadow of foundation."

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 4.—Vice President James S. Sherman was named to-day as one of the prominent political leaders alleged to be interested with J. F. McMurray, a MacAlester attorney, in getting a fee of more than $3,000,000 from manipulation of lands of the Indians in Oklahoma. United States Senator Thomas P. Gore, the blind statesman, appearing before the special House Committee appointed to investigate his charge that a bribe of $50,000 had been offered to him to cease his opposition to the scheme, testified that the would-be briber had said Mr. Sherman was connected with it and remarked: "This is lots of money you see." Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, who has Indian blood; Congressman Bird S. McGuire of Oklahoma, and others were also named in the same way.

Jake L. Hamon, formerly Chairman of the Republican committee in Oklahoma, was declared by Senator Gore to have offered the $50,000 bribe. Hamon was also accused by Congressman C. D. Creager of having approached him with an offer of a bribe. Clerks of Senator Gore also declared that attempts had been made by Hamon and McMurray to influence them. Congressman McGuire was declared to have occupied a suite in a Washington hotel with McMurray and Hamon.

Taft Refused to Approve Contracts.

Testimony was given as to attempts to get President Taft to approve the McMurray contracts, but he was said to have declined on the ground that the fees were not just.

Senator Gore said that at noon last May 6 he had a thirty or forty minutes conference in his office in the Senate office building with Hamon and that he had then received the offer of from $25,000 to $50,000 to stop certain legislation pending in Congress so that $3,000,000 might be paid to McMurray and his associates. The money was to represent "attorney's fees" of 10 per cent. of $30,000,000 to be paid by a New York syndicate for 450,000 acres of coal and asphalt lands now owned by the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians. According to the Geological Survey these lands contain mineral deposits worth $160,000,000.

Congressman Creager said on June 16 last he had been invited by Hamon to meet him in a private room at the Occidental Hotel in Washington. Having gone there, Mr. Creager testified, he was informed he could have a substantial "interest" in the land deal, if he would withdraw his opposition to the approval of the McMurray contracts.

Asked the question: "Were any figures mentioned as to how much you were to receive" Mr. Creager replied: "No, I did not let it go so far as that. I made it plain that I was not open to being influenced in that way."

Inquiry Ordered Suddenly.

The committee, which opened its hearings to-day, was authorized by the House in the closing hours of the last session of Congress, after Senator Gore the day before had created a sensation with his bribery charge in the Senate. The Senator learned that the Senate conferees had agreed to a provision which might be interpreted to compel validation of the McMurray contracts by the Secretary of the Interior and the President and that this provision had gone through the Senate in his absence. He was balked in his efforts, and then made his charges of attempted bribery and declared that he had been informed that members of the Senate and House were involved in the scheme. The result was the adoption by both houses of a provision that the McMurray contracts should not be valid unless approved by Congress and the authorization by each of an inquiry into the charges.

The Senate made no provision for the expenses of its committee, but the House did, and thus the House members have gone to work first.

The committee is headed by Congressman Charles H. Burke of South Dakota, Chairman, and is composed of Congressmen Philip P. Campbell of Kansas, Charles B. Miller of Minnesota, John H. Stephens of Texas, and E. W. Saunders of Virginia.

Gore Tells His Story.

Senator Gore was the first witness called after the committee met. The bribery offer, he explained, followed his opposition to the approval of the McMurray contracts.

Explaining what led up to his opposing the approval of the contracts with the Indians, Senator Gore in his testimony asserted that as far back as 1905 he wrote a letter to Senator La Follette calling attention to the great wealth of the coal and asphalt lands owned by the Indians. He said the United States Geological Survey had estimated the minerals to be worth $160,000,000. In 1905, he said, McMurray had obtained contracts with the tribes of Indians for the sale of the lands on a 10 per cent. basis.

In 1908 President Roosevelt had registered his disapproval of the contracts. In the same year McMurray obtained contracts individually with 10,000 Indians, there being at that time no law against the execution of contracts with individual Indians. It was this condition that aroused him to introduce a resolution in Congress declaring that all Indian contracts must be approved by Congress before they became valid.

"McMurray then came to my office," said the Senator. "I told him I had no objection to just attorneys' fees, but that I thought 10 per cent. on land valued by the Government at $160,000,000 certainly was too high. Also I said 10 per cent. on $30,000,000 was too high, as I was informed that a New York syndicate was ready to pay the latter amount for the lands.

"I said I saw no reason why the Indians should pay attorneys' fees in this instance at all, since the Government by treaty already had agreed to dispose of the land and give the Indians the full profit. I wrote letters to the President and to various other officials describing what I called an attempt to plunder and rob these Indians.

"A great many interests were at work in promoting contracts. The first I knew that former Senator Long was acting in behalf of McMurray was one day when I walked into the office of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger. I began to protest against the contracts, and was told not to talk so loud, as Mr. Long was present, and he was interested in them.

"I had introduced in the Senate a resolution, requiring that all contracts made with Indians should be approved by Congress before they became valid. On May 5 last the committee having it under consideration instructed Senator Hughes of Colorado to report it favorably.

"The very nevt day, Jake Hamon of Lawton, Okla., came to my office and said he had a telegram to visit me, and he was interested in the McMurray contracts. He then explained he wanted me to withdraw my bill, or at least have it reported unfavorably. It seems he did not know it had already been reported favorably.

Mentions the Man Higher Up.

"When I scoffed at the offer of a bribe even if it were raised to $50,000, as Hamon suggested it might, my visitor went on to say other members of Congress were interested in the contracts. He said Senator Curtis was interested, and Congressman McGuire of Oklahoma was interested, and then he mentioned the name of a man higher up in the Government. I was appalled when I heard that name. I held up my hands in astonishment and said: 'Is it possible that a person so high in the United States Government could lay himself open to such an imputation?'

"'Well,' replied Hamon, 'this is lots of money, you see. You know, there is a lot of money in this thing. If you say the word I will arrange for the $50,000. There will be no checks in this deal, and no marked money. It will be all new, clean money.'

"Hamon said: 'There's a lot of money tied up in this deal, and a big fee for somebody.'"

Senator Gore did not mention Mr. Sherman in his initial testimony, but in opening the cross-examination Congressman Burke took up the subject.

"In your conversation with Mr. Hamon," said Chairman Burke to the witness, "you stated he named a very high official that he said was interested in these contracts. You omitted his name."

"I say again that I should very much prefer not to name it," said Senator Gore. "I am, however, subject to the will of the committee."

"The committee is here to get the facts, and we must have all this conversation," said the Chairman.

"He suggested that Vice President Sherman was interested in the contracts," replied the Senator.

Taft Refused His Assent.

Thomas H. Owen, counsel for Mr. Gore, interrupted. "In that connection," he said, "you spoke of an article appearing in a Kansas City newspaper that two gentlemen had called on the President. I wish you would say who was mentioned in that article."

"In the newspaper of April 14," said the witness, "Vice President Sherman and Senator Curtis were named as having called to discuss the segregated coal and asphalt lands. I think before the Senate met the next day the information came to me."

Senator Gore explained that he believed Vice President Sherman was favorable to the contracts, and a short time later he introduced a resolution in the Senate that would require further action of Congress before the contracts could be approved.

E. P. Hill, an attorney for the Choctaw Tribe of Indians, asked the Senator what he knew of President Taft's attitude toward the McMurray contracts.

"I think some people interested in the contracts went to see the President on April 28," said the witness. "The President stated that former Senator Long had already submitted the matter to him and that Mr. Long's clients, meaning the McMurray interests, might have their day in court. I think the President said everybody might have his day in court, but that it would take a good deal of argument to convince him that the amount of fees asked for in the contracts ($3,000,000) was just. In fact, I think the President made it plain he was opposed to the contracts."

Senator Gore had testified that an employe of the Department of Justice had told him that another employe or an official in that department was interested in the contracts. He was asked to name his informant.

"That I could not do," replied Senator Gore. "The matter was imparted to me in confidence and I regret that it was mentioned here at all."

"Now, Senator," interposed Congressman Campbell, "don't you think it unfair to go as far before this committee and yet not tell all you know. You know we are here to learn the truth and we would like to have all of it made known."

"No, I would rather not," was the reply. "It is well known that heretofore employes of that department have lost their positions for giving information and I would rather that this feature of the investigation be dropped."

C. B. Ames, counsel for Mr. McMurray, asked Senator Gore as to the relations existing between himself and Hamon. He said these relations had always been extremely friendly, and he frequently had business deals with Hamon, which entailed loans of money.

"Do you regard Hamon as a truthful man?" asked Attorney Ames.

"In most cases I do, but I think he would deviate a little on occasions."

Creager Also Accuses Hamon.

Congressman Creager did not take the stand until late in the day. Asked if he had ever met Hamon, he replied:

"Yes, I met him by appointment at his rooms at the Occidental Hotel in Washington. He invited me there, saying he wanted to talk over a little matter. At that time efforts were being made to have the President approve of the McMurray contracts. I already had gone on record as being opposed to their approval. Well, when I got to the hotel, and was sitting in a room with Hamon, he began to urge me to withdraw my opposition. He suggested I might have an interest in the contracts."

Congressman Miller—Were any figures mentioned? Did he say how much interest you might have?

Mr. Creager—No; I did not let it go as far as that. I made my language pretty emphatic that I was opposed to the contracts and would not be influenced.

Congressman Stephens—You mean to say that you regarded the offer of such a character as to arouse your indignation?

Mr. Creager—Yes; that's it. I regarded it as an offer to influence my attitude toward the contracts. It was even suggested that I call together all the officials I could and defeat the measure, opposing the approval of the bills.

Congressman Miller—What kind of rooms did Mr. Hamon and Mr. McMurray have at the hotel?

Mr. Creager—Oh, three or four front rooms. Representative McGuire of Oklahoma occupied part of the Hamon and McMurray suite. I met Hamon later at different times. When he heard I was coming to testify before this committee he urged me not to. He expressed the hope that I would make no statement before this committee.

Gore's Assistants Approached.

References to invitations to "frog leg" banquets and to alleged assertions by Hamon that Senator Gore was "going back on his friends" were made in the testimony of D. F. Gore, private secretary and brother of Senator Gore. He stated that he was in his brother's private office at noon on May 6, when Homan appeared.

"I stepped into an adjoining office and left the Senator and Hamon alone, except that once in a while I went in and out. When they quit talking in about thirty or forty minutes Hamon came out into my room.

"'Well,' he said, 'Dick, the Senator is getting awfully hard on his friends. I want to make a lot of money, Dick, and I don't care how I make it.'

"I did not know then what they had been talking about, but when Hamon left the Senator said he had been talking about the McMurray contracts and Hamon had offered him $25,000. The Senator said Hamon offered to increase the amount.

"That's all that was said to me about the matter at that time. Later McMurray came to me and said he was sure the Senator did not understand those contracts, and he wished he knew some way of making him understand. He invited me to the hotel to talk it over, so I could tell the Senator. He also wanted to know if I would attend a frog-leg banquet, which he was arranging. I declined all of these invitations."

J. Leroy Thompson, stenographer to Senator Gore, testified he also was in and out of the Senator's room when Hamon was present. He, too, was invited to the frog-leg banquet, he said, but declined

Congressman Campbell—How long were the Senator and Hamon at conference together?

Thompson—About thirty or forty minutes. When Hamon came out I overheard him say he wanted to make a lot of money, and he did not care much how he made it.

Q.—Did you hear anything that was said at the conference? A.—No; I did not. Usually when Hamon called I heard everything that was said. There never before had been any effort to conceal it. But this time it was different.

Q.—In what way was it different? Did Hamon act differently? A.—Yes; he appeared not to want to say anything when I was in the room, which was quite opposite from his usual manner.

That the Choctaw Indians who had protested against giving 10 per cent. attorney's fees to McMurray had been asked to rescind their action formed the substance of testimony offered by W. A. Durant, a Choctaw Indian and a member of the Oklahoma State Legislature.

Durant asserted that at a Choctaw council meeting a resolution had been passed against the McMurray contracts. Later, he said, a number of persons had gone out into the Choctaw Nation, urging the Indians to sign a document declaring themselves in favor of the contracts, but most of his tribe maintained their opposition. The committee then adjourned.

Senator Curtis to-day sent a telegram to the committee denying that he was in any way interested in the contracts and offering to appear as a witness. Chairman Burke said Senator Curtis would be subpoenaed to testify.

Hamon Denies Everything.

Mr. Hamon to-night declined to discuss Senator Gore's charges and said he would not make any statement except in response to categorical questions. The following interview then took place:

Q.—Did you offer a bribe to Senator Gore? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you offer to give him an interest in the McMurray contracts? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you offer to bribe Congressman Creager? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you offer him an interest in the McMurray contracts? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you mention to Senatore Gore or to any one else that Vice President Sherman was interested in the approval of the McMurray contracts? A.—I never mentioned such a thing to any one.

Q.—Did you say Senator Curtis was interested in the McMurray contracts? A.—I did not.

Q.—Are you yourself interested in the approval of the McMurray Contracts? A.—I am not.

While submitting to the questioning, Mr. Hamon laughed heartily. While, as he said, he was not disposed to consider Senator Gore's charges as a joke, yet he declined to show any anxiety over the developments of the day.

Mr. Hamon declined to answer other questions, saying he expected to appear before the committee, when he would tell all he knew. Mr. Hamon is an attorney of Lawton, which is also Senator Gore's home town, and is 37 years old and married. Aside from Republican Chairmanships, he has been City Attorney of Lawton and has practiced law in Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas.

Mr. McMurray, in an interview, said:

"I have never approached any one in this matter except upon its merits. I took the contracts in good faith. I believe they are legitimate and the compensation is not too great. Practically all the Indians in the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations want their land sold. I do not know anything about the incident of which Senator Gore and Congressman Creager speak. I have gone to them many times, but I went to them in person, and did not send an agent."

SURPRISE IN WASHINGTON.

Gore Had Given No Hint That Sherman Had Been Mentioned.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The one feature in the testimony of Senator Gore at Muskogee to-day that came as a surprise to Washington was his mention of Vice President Sherman's name in connection with the McMurray contracts, which provide for $3,000,000 in fees from the sale of Indian lands. Though the other names did not get into print at the time every member of Congress and every newspaper man interested in politics knew when Senator Gore made his bribery charges on the floor of the Senate on June 24 last that the other Senator referred to by him was Mr. Curtis of Kansas—himself a half-breed—and that the Representative referred to was Mr. McGuire of Oklahoma.

There was no suspicion concerning the Vice President, and a review to-day of what Mr. Gore said then shows how scrupulously he refrained from imputations against the presiding officer of the Senate. As a member of the House, however, Mr. Sherman had been criticised for his attitude toward Indian matters. He was for a number of years Chairman of the House Committee on Indian Affairs, and as such he stood before the public as sponsor for most of the Indian measures that became law. His position was unique in that not being a Westerner he should have held so prominent a post in regard to Indian matters.

The one name Mr. Gore mentioned on the floor that day was that of the lawyer, McMurray, and when Senator Bailey and others suggested that for his own sake and for the honor of the Senate the other names should be given, Mr. Gore replied that he would do so when a proper investigation was instituted.

Mr. Gore's charges were made the day before Congress adjourned. Having failed to get an investigation of the Indian claims handled by McMurray's law firm, whereby it hoped to secure enormous fees under contracts with the Indians, Mr. Gore had inserted into the General Deficiency bill as a Senate amendment a clause providing that none of these contracts should be valid until approved by Congress. In conference the provision was so changed that all individual contracts had at once to be carried out, leaving the President discretion only as to the amount of the fee—almost entirely wiping out the effect of the amendment Mr. Gore had secured.

This House substitute Senator Hale, as Chairman of the Senate Committee on Appropriations, accepted through misapprehension, having been told that it was satisfactory to Mr. Gore. In the absence of the Oklahoma Senator from the floor the substitute was adopted, and not until he came in, a few minutes later, did he suspect what had happened. Then he launched into his denunciation of McMurray.

He did not tell on the floor what he later told to the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES, that the substitute for his restrictive amendment had been handed to Chairman Tawney of the House Committee on Appropriations, according to Mr. Tawney's statement to Mr. Gore, by McGuire. His charges led to the adoption of his original provision and the present inquiry.

The McMurray firm was already well known here for its activities in Indian matters. It had once attracted National attention by winning a claim for a lawyer's fee of $750,000 with an expense account of $350,000 more from the Indians. It was to head off further fees of that sort that Mr. Gore made his charges and inserted the amendment.

Senator Gore's veracity has never been questioned, so far as known here. He has fought strenuously against "the interests," even though his championing of "the people" has sometimes led him to be criticised as a demagogue. His abilities as a phrase maker have given him a tremendous hold on Chautauqua audiences.

Mr. McGuire has not figured prominently in the life of the Capitol, but Senator Curtis is perhaps, second to Mr. Crane of Massachusetts, the best whip on the Republican side of the Senate. His forecasts of votes are considered unfailing, and his qualities as a "good mixer" are admitted by all.

SHERMAN IN ADIRONDACKS.

Refuses to Discuss Charge on Telephone—Arranges Speaking Tour.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Vice President Sherman, who went to Big Moose Lake to-day, refused this evening to discuss over the long-distance telephone the mention of his name in connection with the $3,000,000 Indian land fee. On account of a storm the line was in bad order, and Mr. Sherman finally declined to risk discussion of the subject when uncertain of being correctly reported. He was understood to say that the charges were false, and that he did not know Jacob Hamon, the man quoted by Senator Gore. Mr. Sherman may have more to say to-morrow, when he has read Gore's evidence in the newspapers.

Mr. Sherman went to Big Moose Lake this afternoon intending to remain there until Monday with his wife, who is at Covey's Camp recuperating from the illness that overcame her in Washington just before Congress adjourned. She will soon be able to come to her home.

Among his friends and business associates here the charge against Mr. Sherman was considered as something unpleasant but not conclusive. As Mr. Sherman was long Chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs in the House, he was probably familiar with the McMurray contracts.

Before taking the train for Big Moose Mr. Sherman entertained Representative William B. McKinley of Illinois, Chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee. The Vice President will take the stump Aug. 25 to Sept. 20. He will speak for the most part in the Western States. The Congressional Campaign Committee will have his itinerary in charge, and the suggestion was made to-day prior to the announcement of the charges of Senator Gore that Mr. Sherman would deliver speeches in Oklahoma. Whether he will go now to Muskogee is a matter of conjecture.

FOUGHT BIG FEES, CURTIS DECLARES

Kansas Senator Says President, Cabinet Member, and Senators Know He Helped Indians.

GORE TOLD RELUCTANTLY

Secretary Explains That He Merely Obeyed Committee — McGuire Declares Senator a Common Slanderer.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 4.—Your message received, and I appreciate your giving me the opportunity of saying the use of my name in connection with the McMurray and Long contract is without foundation. I am not and have not been interested with either of them, directly or indirectly.

I have taken the position that the Chickasaws and Choctaws did not need attorneys to assist them in the sale of their reserved coal and asphalt lands, nor in the sale of their reserved timber land. I have contended that it was the duty of the Government under the laws passed by Congress to handle that property for the Indians. This can be verified by the President, a member of the Cabinet, and Senators. I am ready to appear before the committee at any time.

CHARLES CURTIS,
Senator from Kansas.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 4.—Senator Gore, in his last speech in the Senate, on June 24, stated that the integrity of no one could be impeached upon the testimony of an interested or untrustworthy witness.

When Chairman Burke asked him today to state the names of the Senator or other high officials who were represented to him as being interested in the contracts the Senator said that he preferred not to give their names unless there was greater evidence than was now available in such connection. The committee insisted that the names be given, and the Senator said that under protest he would comply with the order of the committee and give the names of Senator Curtis and Vice President Sherman.

In connection with the latter he stated to Hamon, who made the representations, that the statement seemed incredible to him. It seemed to him that any one called to so high a station, if he ever had such sordid motives would cast them behind him.

J. RAY THOMPSON,
Secretary to Senator Gore.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 4.—My testimony given before the committee this afternoon explains fully my connection with the McMurray contracts matter.

C. E. CREAGER, Representative.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Aug. 4.—Representative Bird S. McGuire of the First Oklahoma District, in a statement here this afternoon, denied emphatically that he had ever had any interest in Indian contracts with McMurray or any one else. He said he would go to Muskogee at once and appear before the Congressional committee.

"I don't know what was said to Senator Gore," stated Mr. McGuire, "or whether anything was said to him by any persons, but this much is true: No man who is honest and responsible will say that I have now, or have ever had, any interest in any Indian contracts with McMurray or any body else. A man who would base a statement in the United States Senate on what some person may have told him in a matter like that is nothing more nor less than a common slanderer."

FOUND ROCKEFELLER CORDIAL

Process Server Greeted Warmly When He Serves a Summons.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 4.—John D. Rockefeller to-day accepted service of a summons to appear in court in the suit for $350,000 damages brought against him and the Standard Oil Company at Findlay, Ohio, last week by Thomas B. Kelly and others.

Deputy Sheriff Halloran took the summons to Forest Hill, the Rockefeller home. Gatekeeper Lynch sent him on to the house in a carriage. Mr. Rockefeller was standing on the front porch and cordially shook the officer by the hand and asked him into the house. The carriage was again placed at Halloran's disposal when he made ready to leave. He declined, saying he would rather walk and get a good look about the grounds.

"Oh, if you want to walk," said Mr. Rockefeller, "go this way. It is much prettier."

He accompanied Halloran a short distance.

THREE KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

Farmer and Two Helpers Struck While Seeking Shelter.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 4.—A dispatch from Grooms, Saratoga County, about eight miles east of here, says that Spencer Lockrow, aged 30, a farmer, and his two harvest helpers, Andrew Ecker and Simon Watson, were killed by lightning this morning. The team they were driving was also shocked to death.

The three men went to the field for a load of hay and seeing a shower approaching, hastened toward the barn. They were struck when a short distance from shelter. The bodies were slightly burned and Lockrow's shoes were torn off. The wagon was uninjured.

ELEVATED ROAD CARS FALL.

Motorman Dies of Injuries Received In Boston Accident.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—Traffic on the Boston Elevated Railway was considerably impaired to-day, as the result of an accident about 1 A. M., when two cars of an empty four-car train ran away and crashed from the structure to the street at Washington and Dudley Streets.

Thomas Manning, 45 years old, who was motorman of the train and went down in the crash, died at the City Hospital a few hours after the accident.

COOKE'S TRIAL GOES ON.

Roadhouse Keeper Says Colonel Never Repaid $700 He Borrowed.

SEATTLE, Aug. 4.—The court-martial that is trying Col. F. George Cooke, U. S. A., retired, of San Frncisco, charged with neglect of duty, and also of misconduct in borrowing money from enlisted men and civilians, is again in session at Fort Lawton.

One witness, Joe Anich, a roadhouse keeper of Tanana, near Fort Gibbon, testified that Col. Cooke borrowed $700 from him, giving notes, which were never paid.

BROWNE INDICTMENTS STAND.

Judge Reserves Decision on Question of Legislators' Testimony.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Judge Kersten today refused to quash the indictments against Lee O'Neil Browne, Democratic minority leader of the Illinois Legislature, charged with purchasing votes for William Lorimer for United States Senator.

The court deferred judgment on the plea of Browne's counsel that the testimony of Representatives Link, Myers, and Beckemeyer to the effect that money had been paid or offered to them for votes for Lorimer, be barred from this, the second trial of Browne. He said his decision would be rendered when the prosecution sought to put the men on the stand.

The first trial of Browne resulted in a disagreement after the jury had been out 115 hours.

PRISONER LEAPS FROM TRAIN.

A. F. Allen, Alleged Deserter from Navy, Escapes from Officer.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 4.—Within 100 miles of his destination, Arthur F. Allen, said to be a deserter of the United States Navy, to-day escaped from Detective Edward Holyland of New Orleans, leaping from the train on which officer and prisoner were making the trip from New Orleans to the navy yard at Norfolk, Va. Allen came to New Orleans as a member of the crew on the converted yacht Hornet. He said he wanted active service in Nicaragua, but the Federal officers charged that his period of enlistment called for further service in the United States Navy.

NARROWLY MISSED DEATH.

Driver's Horses Killed, His Wagon Smashed, and He Was Hurled 50 Feet.

BELVIDERE, N. J., Aug. 4.—Charles Axtmann, proprietor of the Axtmann House, at Bridgeville, had a narrow escape from death when he drove in front of the Buffalo express at Delaware. His wagon was smashed to splinters and his horses were killed, but he was unhurt though hurled fifty feet. He was stunned when picked up by trainmen, but was soon brought around by Dr. William Singer of Stroudsburg. The doctor was a passenger on the train.

No "Jim Crow" Moving Picture Show.

Efforts by the negroes of Orange to obtain a license for a "Jim Crow" moving picture theatre have met with failure, Mayor Seymour having refused repeated requests to license the place they propose to erect. The negroes say that they are looked upon as undesirables in shows patronized by the white race, and that it is only just to them to be given the privilege of having their own theatre.

B. R. T. Men Paid While Idle.

In order to keep its large Summer operating force instantly available for any rush of traffic which may set in the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company will hereafter pay its extra motormen and conductors reporting for duty $1.50 a day each, whether they are called on for work or not. Heretofore men on the extra list have been paid only for work actually performed.

MINERS' LEADERS ENJOINED.

Officers of Illinois Union Forbidden to Interfere with Mines.

DANVILLE, Ill., Aug. 4.—Judge Francis M. Wright of the United States Court for the Eastern District of Illinois to-day ordered an injunction restraining President John H. Walker of the Illinois Mine Workers and other officials of the State organization from interfering with the operation of the mines of the O'Gara Coal Company, in Saline County. The company operates eight mines for the Big Four Railroad.

The decision may go far toward settling the differences between President Walker of the Illinois body and T. L. Lewis, President of the National organization. The trouble between these leaders arose over the settlement of mine troubles in this State.

STRIKERS INVITE ROOSEVELT.

Want Him to Visit Soft Coal Mining Field in Pennsylvania.

GREENSBURG, Penn., Aug. 4.—An open letter to Theodore Roosevelt was forwarded to-day from the executive offices of the officials of the union of soft coal miners on strike in the Greensburg field, asking him to visit the strike zone and make an investigation similar to the one just completed in the anthracite field of Eastern Pennsylvania.

The letter sketches the strike situation in this district from the coal miners' standpoint, and was sent with the unanimous approval of the various local unions.

POWER BOAT CUT IN TWO.

Crew of the Steamer That Struck It Rescue Two Women.

STONINGTON, Conn., Aug. 4.—The steamer Watch Hill, which plies between this place and Watch Hill, cut in two to-day the power boat Machiscat, throwing the occupants, a Mrs. Hayes of New York City and Miss Florence Willard of Passaic, N. J., into the water.

The women were rescued by the crew of the steamer.

Electric Pole Kills Pleasure Seeker.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 4.—Petro Russo of 314 John Street was killed late last night when he leaned up against an iron pole through which electricity was passing into the carnival grounds. Antonio Mirarde was badly shocked while trying to pull Russo free.

DOCTOR ROBBED IN THE PARK.

Police Capture Three Men Who Took His Watch as He Slept.

Dr. Felix J. Beagin, a physician attached to the Columbus Hospital, 220 East Twentieth Street, was awakened from a nap on a bench in Madison Square Park yesterday morning by five men in a fierce struggle directly in front of him. In a moment two of the men drew revolvers and compelled the other three to throw up their hands.

The men with the guns were Detectives Howrey and Taczkowski, and they were making prisoners of the others on a charge of robbery. Howrey compelled one of the men to hand over a watch and fob which Dr. Beagin said were in his pocket when he fell asleep on the bench.

The detectives had watched the three men sit on the bench with him and seen one take his watch.

The men put up a fight when told they were under arrest, and it was only when the Detectives drew revolvers that the men gave up.

Dr. Beagin said he was unable to sleep in the hospital last night and had gone to Madison Square to get some air.

When the three were arraigned in Jefferson Market Court they waived examination and Magistrate Corrigan held them for the Grand Jury.

Prof. Trowbridge Resigns.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—John Trowbridge of Cambridge, who has been Rumford Professor of Applied Science and Director of the Jefferson Physical Laboratory at Harvard since 1888, has resigned. After Sept. 1 he will continue as honorary Director of the laboratory. He is 67 years old.

CELEBRATES ZENGER TRIAL.

Chicago Lawyer Says It Was Forerunner of Independence Declaration.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Draping his home in flags, Attorney John F. Geeting of Chicago celebrated to-day as the anniversary of the real birth of the Declaration of Independence of the United States, because John Paul Zenger, editor of The New York Weekly Journal, was acquitted after a memorable trial for criminal libel on Aug. 4, 1735.

Mr. Geeting believes that except for Zenger's acquittal after Andrew Hamilton, then leader of the American bar, had told the jurors to follow the dictates of their conscience in spite of the instructions of the court, the historic document might never have been written and signed on July 4, 1776.

Mr. Geeting addressed the Hawkeye Fellowship Club at the Grand Pacific Hotel yesterday and told the story of the Zenger trial. Zenger, he said, had incurred the enmity of the Government by his fearless criticism. Grand Juries had failed to indict him and finally prosecution was begun by information. The journalist was acquitted, though the Judge had instructed the jury to return a verdict of guilty.

Marshall Held for Trial.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—Pleading not guilty to a charge of conspiracy with William J. Kelliher and Martin J. Walsh to defraud the National City Bank of Cambridge, J. R. Marshall, who was recently arrested in Philadelphia, was held for trial in October by Judge Dodge in the United States Circuit Court to-day. Marshall was unable to furnish $10,000 bonds required, and was returned to the Charles Street Jail.

AEROPLANE RACES

AVIATION WEEK AT ASBURY PARK

"In the air men shall be seen,

In white, in black, in green;"

Good old Mother Shipton sang these words way back in 1448, and the world called her "crazy."

Beginning August 10, five and perhaps nine men will make daily trips into the air at Asbury Park for ten days and prove the truth of the prophecy.

The Asbury Park Aero and Motor Club have secured Brookins, La Chapelle, Hoxsey, Johnstone and Coffyn, who will try for records and make exhibition flights in Wright machines. It is also probable that Curtiss, Hamilton, Goodale and Baldwin will be on hand with Curtiss flyers, so that the meet promises to be the most important one yet held in the East.

World's records will be tried for as a large sum of money has been subscribed for prizes, and Asbury Park is preparing to entertain record-breaking crowds. The meet will open August 10 and will continue daily until August 20.

The Pennsylvania Railroad's comprehensive schedule of trains to Asbury Park offers excellent service to New Yorkers, and excursion tickets are on sale at reasonable fares.

RADLEY HOPES TO WIN TIMES AIR PRIZE

English Aviator to Bring Two Powerful New Bleriot Machines for Chicago-New York Race.

HAS BOOKED HIS PASSAGE

Is Now Taking Part in the Lanark Meeting—Intends to Make Exhibition Flights in America.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—James Radley, who has announced his entry in THE NEW YORK TIMES-Chicago Evening Post aeroplane race from Chicago to New York, is one of the most ambitious of the aviators who are flying at the international meeting at Lanark this week.

Ten days after the finish of that meeting he will start for America, where he intends to make a determined effort to capture the prize offered for the Chicago-New York race. Nothing can shake his belief that his type of Blériot machine can hold its own in speed and reliability with any other machine that may enter the lists.

I caught Mr. Radley just as he was leaving London for Lanark. "My passage," he said, "is booked on the Caronia and I hope to be in New York about the first of next month. I have cabled to THE NEW YORK TIMES entering for the race. The two new machines that I am taking are far and away the best I have ever had, and I am looking forward to the contest with just as much confidence as if I had already won a lot of big prizes over here, which, as a matter of fact, I have never been able to do in consequence of the fact that my previous machines were outclassed by those of my rivals."

In the competition at Bournemouth for the fastest lap prize, Mr. Radley was quicker than the late Hon. C. S. Rolls, Mr. Grahame-White, or any other English competitor. I pointed this out to him.

"Yes," he replied, "but I was beaten by Drexel and by three Frenchmen. My Blériot monoplane had only a 25 horse power three-cylinder engine, while others have four, seven, or eight cylinders, with horse power ranging from 35 to 65. Moreover, my radiator gave trouble, and would not let me make more than four circuits without alighting, and the speed prize of $5,000 was strictly timed for over five circuits, representing a trifle short of nine miles."

"You are selling off everything and starting afresh?" I asked.

"Absolutely," was the reply. "I am getting two Blériot monoplanes, one of which is a single-seater of the latest racing type, while the other is a two-seater for carrying passengers. Both have Gnome engines of 50 horse power, and I have very good reasons for thinking the Gnome motor the best suited for my purpose."

I asked the airman what he was planning to do in America apart from his attempt to win THE NEW YORK TIMES prize.

"I hope," he said, "to be the representative of Great Britain in the Gordon Bennett race, and shall certainly devote several weeks to exhibition flights and passenger-carrying. Reginald Hope goes out with me as business manager. He will stop at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York for some little time to fix up arrangements for me.

"Doubtless, I shall turn up at Coney Island, Atlantic City, and resorts on the Florida Coast, after which I propose to go on to Australia and New Zealand."

Mr. Radley is one of the few English flying men who learned the art without visiting the famous French training grounds. He possesses a "pliote aviateur" certificate of the Aero Club de France, but all his knowledge of aeronautics was picked up on English soil and his flights have been chiefly carried out on Lord Sandwich's land, near Huntingdon, and on the Brooklands track. He started with a Blériot of the type used in the first Channel crossing.

When he was 17 years old, in 1900, he visited the United States for the first time, as a holiday, and four years ago he spent the Summer in surveying work on the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Tobogganing has been Mr. Radley's favorite hobby for some years past. He paid Winter visits to St. Moritz, where his performances showed that speed on the ground attracts him in the same way as speed in the air. As a motorist he has one distinguished characteristic—his remarkable indifference to cold. The editor of a London weekly, who motored with him over mountain passes a year or two ago, told me that while he himself was muffled up in a thick coat, Mr. Radley preferred to drive not only coatless, but with his shirt open to enable the cold air to beat upon his neck and chest.

"You have had a tumble or two, no doubt?" was my last question to Mr. Radley.

"Naturally," he said, "but nothing much. When I was flying on Sir John Maxwell Stirling-Maxwell's estate, near Glasgow, last June I had to swerve in a gusty wind to avoid hitting the crowd, and a sudden descent in the middle of the swerve smashed a propeller blade and a wing, but no one was hurt. The prospect of accidents does not alarm me. The faster the machine the less is the danger, and I am going to dodge trouble by flying in the future with a speedier bird under me."

LAKE SAILORS MUTINY.

Trouble Starts When One Is Locked Up for Peeping at Women.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—During a special trip from Duluth to Gary, Ind., with five young women relatives of officers of the United States Steel Corporation on board, the crew of the ore steamer Douglas S. Houghton mutinied early yesterday off the Chicago Harbor, it was learned today, and it took Capt. John Parke an hour to quell the mutineers with a revolver.

It is said that the mutiny started because a deckhand had been locked in the ship's brig for peeping into a cabin window at the women passengers.

A two-week trip was all but over when the crew, led by Peter Peterson, freed the prisoner and mutinied. The sailors said later they rebelled because extra pay had been withheld.

The young women, Cecilia Kirk, Cleo McClusky, Louise Maxwell, Edith Anderson, and Mrs. Louise Maxwell, fled to their cabins and remained there in terror until Capt. Parke, with leveled weapon, had forced the less obstreperous sailors to lock up the ringleaders and clear away the broken furniture. Capt. Parke says he will prefer charges against the men. They were all discharged on reaching Gary.

PILGRIM MONUMENT DAY.

President Taft Will Be at Dedication of the Shaft at Provincetown.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Aug. 4.—At the dedication to-morrow of the tall granite shaft which has been erected on Town Hill in memory of the compact which the Pilgrim Fathers signed in the cabin of the Mayflower before starting across the bay to Plymouth, President Taft will assist in completing a work which President Roosevelt helped to begin three years ago when the cornerstone was laid. Incidentally he will have his first opportunity of reviewing a battleship fleet fully as formidable as that which circled the world.

The speakers at the exercises will include the President, Gov. Eben S. Draper, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot of Harvard, M. Van Weede, Chargé d'Affaires of the Netherlands Legation; Congressman James T. McCleary of Minnesota, and J. Henry Sears, President of the Pilgrim Memorial Association.

A banquet will follow in the Town Hall near the foot of the hill, at which there will be more speeches, and then the President will depart for Beverly on the modern Mayflower.

The arrival and departure of the President will be marked by the noise-making part of the celebration. Each of the fifteen battleships, drawn up in two long lines, from Long Point to the steamboat wharf, will fire twenty-one guns as the Mayflower steams into the harbor. The President will then board the flagship Connecticut for a reception to the officers of the fleet, and gunpowder will be burned. The third salute will be fired as the Mayflower leaves the harbor.

SAYS POLICEMAN LEFT HER.

Bugher Deprives Powers of His Shield on Wife's Charge of Desertion.

Acting Police Commissioner Bugher yesterday suspended Patrolman Patrick Powers of Traffic Squad A from duty, and deprived him of his shield. The policeman was arrested in the Harlem Court on a warrant charging him with having abandoned his wife, Elizabeth Powers of 433 West Thirty-ninth Street.

A summons was issued, but as Mrs. Powers was unable to find her husband, a warrant followed, and was served on him yesterday as he came to court to answer a second summons.

Magistrate Krotel paroled Powers for examination to-day at the request of Third Deputy Police Commissioner Walsh.

BOYS HIT HIM, SAYS GIANT.

Big Man's Charge of Assault in Children's Court Makes Judge Smile.

In the Children's Court in Brooklyn yesterday a man built on the lines of Jeffries appeared as complainant against two urchins, whom he charged with assault. The big man, who was a grocer with a shop in Atlantic Avenue, seemed six feet tall and to weigh about 225 pounds.

He accused Carl Legrecco, 12 years old, of 1,744 Atlantic Avenue, of hitting him in the nose, and Carl's brother Alfred, 14 years old, of striking him with a stone. The boys had annoyed him at his store, and as he stooped to cuff Carl the boy struck at him with his small fist, his brother following with a stone.

Justice MacInerney, who tried to suppress a smile, on hearing the huge man's tale of woe, put the hearing over until next Tuesday.

FIGHTS WITH CARBOLIC ACID.

Weapon Used by Brooklyn Woman in a Street Row.

Hot coffee and carbolic acid were the "weapons" used yesterday in a fight by two Brooklyn women. One of them is in a hospital suffering from burns.

The row was between Miss Marie Stewart, a chorus girl, of 544 State Street, and Mrs. Nellie Debynski of 493 State Street. They quarreled on the street near their homes, Miss Stewart alleging that Mrs. Debynski emptied a can of hot coffee on her, while Mrs. Debynski asserts that Miss Stewart threw carbolic acid on her face and head.

Policeman Terry took both to the Swedish Hospital. In the Myrtle Avenue Court Miss Stewart was held for a hearing tomorrow.

IN NEW JERSEY.

In Jersey City James Hansen of 7 Exchange Place was arrested yesterday charged with the murder of Nathan Ames of Brooklyn on Pier B on Wednesday. O. E. Stappert, a boy, identified Hansen as the man he saw strike Ames on the pier, and who dragged the body out to the front of the pier.

In Hackensack the seven-year-old son of Abraham Silverman, while swimming in Court Street Creek, got beyond his depth and sank. His companions became frightened and ran home and told his mother what had happened. The body was recovered, but the child was dead.

Robert Conklin of Hackensack has announced himself as a candidate for Sheriff. Conklin is a bachelor, and in the history of Bergen no bachelor ever was Sheriff. The candidate said that if this was going to hamper his election there was still time to effect a remedy.

Eugene K. Bird, editor of The Hackensack Republican, who is summering at Newfoundland, visited his city residence last evening and found that burglars had ransacked it.

In Harrison the body of a man found in the Passaic River yesterday is believed by the police to be that of a victim of a gang. The body, which was found by William Baker, had been in the water more than a week.

In Newark sixteen-year-old Anna Horovzok of 164 South Street was prevented from committing suicide yesterday by her brother Charles, 14 years old. He knocked a bottle containing carbolic acid out of her hand. The girl's lips were burned, but her conditon is not serious in the City Hospital. The girl's mother said her daughter was despondent because she could not find work.

In South Orange Police Justice Roll disposed of his first case of loitering yesterday. The offender was John Higgins, who said he had been looking for work, and, tired out, sat down in South Orange Avenue. The Judge let him go on condition that he leave town. Higgins was glad to accept the condition.

In Passaic Daniel J. Dunphy and the Rev. J. E. Lambert filed yesterday the will of the Rev. Joseph Ascheri, late rector of the Church of St. Francis de Sales, Lodi. Father Ascheri left about $25,000. Among the beneficiaries are the Lodi Church, $2,900; an orphan asylum established at Moline, Italy, $1,200; to each of his two sisters, $1,000. He also left $1,000 to be used for masses for the repose of his soul to be said by poor priests.

In Paterson Chandler A. Hopper hanged himself late last night in his home, 61 Court Street. His wife found him hanging to the bed post. Dr. Coop of St. Joseph's Hospital said the man had been dead an hour. Hopper was released from Trenton prison a year ago, and had been unable to get work. This made him despondent.

MAKING NEW PLANS FOR AVIATION MEET

Governors of the Aero Club Take Up the Question of Holding It at Belmont Park.

$40,000 OFFER IS RENEWED

But K. L. Pernard Wants It Held at Garden City—Anthony J. Drexel May Enter the Contest.

Following the withdrawal on Wednesday of Gage E. Tarbell as General Manager of the International Aviation Meet, once scheduled to be held at Garden City from Oct. 15 to 23, 1910, but now set for Belmont Park during the same period, the Board of Governors of the Aero Club of America, the representative in the United States of the International Aeronautic Federation, held a meeting at the Lawyers' Club yesterday. The board received the report of Lawrence L. Gillespie, Chairman of the Subscribers' Committee, which has in charge the underwriting of the international tournament.

Acting on the suggestion of William H. Page and W. W. Niles, two of the three attorneys of the Aero Club of America, the Board of Governors directed that Mr. Gillespie's report, which was verbal, be not acted upon until next Monday.

Another development yesterday in the controversy regarding the staging and management of the international meet was that K. L. Bernard, who was recommended for General Manager of the meet by Courtland Field Bishop, President of the Aero Club, last June, renewed his offer to put up $40,000 in cash prizes for competition at the tournament and to pay the Aero Club of America 10 per cent. of the gross receipts of the tournament for the privilege of staging it on Long Island.

It also appeared that the Hempstead Plains Company owns the land at Garden City on which the international tournament was to have been held, and where the stands, fences, sheds, &c., were to have been erected, and not the Garden City Realty Company, as had been supposed. The further agreement was that, in the event of the profits of the meet exceeding $30,000, the sum of $6,000 was to be paid for the use of the land. The grounds turned over by the Hempstead Plains Company include about 1,000 acres.

Were to Pay $6,000 for Grounds.

It has been the custom to lease this ground at $10 an acre for cropping, but on the request of Gage E. Tarbell and his representations that the international meet might be held there the Hempstead Plains Company agreed to withdraw the land from cropping and to forego the usual rental returns, so that the land might be put in proper shape for an international aviation congress. Other than this $6,000 no payment was to be made for the use of the grounds, but even this $6,000 was not due unless the net profits of the tournament exceeded $30,000.

The Board of Governors of the Aero Club of America is constituted as follows: Cortlandt Field Bishop, President of the club; James A. Blair, Jr.; Philip T. Dodge, Charles Jerome Edwards, Treasurer of the club; A. Holland Forbes, Lawrence L. Gillespie, Alan R. Hawley, J. C. McCoy, William W. Miller, Samuel H. Valentine, Dave Hennen Morris, and Charles A. Munn. Of these Messrs. Edwards, Hawley, McCoy, Gillespie, and Valentine were present at yesterday's meeting, with Clifford B. Harmon, Chairman of the National Council of the Aero Club; William M. Page, and W. W. Niles, attorneys, and Charles Heitman, Assistant Secretary of the club, also in attendance.

Following the presentation and disposal of routine business, the question of the transfer of the international meet from Garden City to Belmont Park was taken up. It was stated to the Governors that, under the international rules, the International Aeronautic Federation names the period within which the International speed contest for the Gordon Bennett trophy shall be held. The federation at its Jan. 10, 1910, meeting in Paris set the date anywhere between Oct. 18 and Nov. 2, 1910, under the auspices of the Aero Club of America, whose representative, Glenn H. Curtiss, had captured the trophy last August at Rheims.

The rules also require the holding club to name the specific date on which the contest for the trophy shall be held prior to April 1 of each year, and the place where the trophy is to be competed for must be named before May 1. Mr. Heitman, in the absence yesterday of the minutes of the meetings of the Board of Governors, did not know whether the Aero Club had named "some place on Long Island" or Garden City specifically as the site for the contest for the international speed prize.

In the event that Garden City had been named it was stated there might be some difficulty in holding the contest at Belmont Park, but it was determined to have recourse to the minutes of previous meetings before any action was taken on the proposed transfer.

The following statement was issued last night by the Subscribers' Committee:

The change of location for the International Aviation Tournament from Garden City to Belmont Park was the principal matter discussed by the Board of Governors of the Aero Club of America at the regular meeting yesterday.

Lawrence L. Gillespie, Chairman of the Subscribers' Committee, made a full report of the progress thus far made in organizing the big meeting, and gave the reasons for abandoning the Garden City site.

Clifford B. Harmon was invited to attend the meeting, and expressed the opinion that Belmont Park was the most suitable place on Long Island for the tournament. He pointed out the great advantages in the handling of crowds at that point, and said he saw no reason why the race course could not be put in shape for all of the aviation events, including the Gordon Bennett international speed contest.

A letter was received from Cortlandt F. Bishop, President of the Aero Club of America, stating that J. Armstrong Drexel, who has been making good records in Europe, would undoubtedly come to New York for the big meet in October. It is quite probable that Mr. Drexel will be one of the American Cup defenders. At the suggestion of Mr. Bishop, Mr. Drexel was elected a non-resident member of the Aero Club, and granted an aviator's license.

New Committees Named.

Following the meeting of the Board of Governors the Subscribers' Committee held a meeting, when Mr. Gillespie appointed the heads of the following committees: Executive Committee, Andrew Freedman; Finance Committee, Lawrence L. Gillespie; Aviation, J. C. McCoy. These committees will immediately organize, and take hold of the organization work for the meeting at Belmont Park. Mr. Gillespie also named the following additional Vice Presidents: Clifford B. Harmon, Philip T. Dodge, and Dave Hennen Morris.

Arrangements have been made with the management of Belmont Park to have ready by next Monday full estimates of the cost of all changes and improvements necessary to be made in preparation for the October tournament.

K. L. Bernard, who has staged many aviation meets, made the following statement to a TIMES reparter last night at the Hotel Astor:

"I will guarantee to put up $40,000 in cash prizes for competition in an international aviation meet under the real auspices of the Aero Club of America itself, provided the meet is held at Garden City and I am made the manager of it. I will give the Aero Club of America 10 per cent. of the gross receipts of such a tournament, whereas under the present arrangement the club will receive only 5 per cent. I will deposit $100,000 either in cash or a certified check in a New York bank within three days to guarantee my good faith and my financial ability to handle the meet if the Aero Club will accept my proffer.

"I will further agree to pay to Wilbur and Orville Wright personally the sum of $25,000 if they will license the meet. But this sum must be paid to them personally and not to the Wright Company or to the Directors of that company."

A BOMB-THROWING AEROPLANE

C. B. Harmon to Try It Out at Garden City on Sunday.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., Aug. 4.—Clifford B. Harmon is causing widespread discussion by the new theory he is enthusiastically propounding relative to the possibilities of the aeroplane in warfare. A well-charged bomb, he pointed out, dropped down the funnel of a man-of-war would come very close to spelling disaster for that particular vessel and whomsoever was aboard. Together with John B. Ryan, Mr. Harmon visited League Island, near Philadelphia, yesterday, when they made a special study of the vessels anchored there.

The pontoons on the Harmon biplane have now been removed and the owner has had two tubes large enough in diameter to carry bombs attached to the running gear. Fastened to the tubes are wires which may be pulled or operated from the driver's seat. Each time the wire is pulled it is supposed to open a trap cover which lets out a bomb and then snaps back into place. Mr. Harmon will endeavor to try out the new arrangement on Sunday.

It is hoped by some that Mr. Harmon will not attempt the Sound trip just yet. There are several aviators who for various reasons have not yet got their machines in working order, but who are anxious to try for the Doubleday trophy offered for this feat.

JUNIOR AERO CLUB FLIGHTS.

Kite and Aeroplane Model Contest to be Held at Manhattan Beach.

The guests of the Oriental Hotel and the Manhattan Beach Hotel have arranged for kite and aeroplane model flight contests to-morrow afternoon, the competitions to be held on the lawn between the two hotels.

Members of the Junior Aero Club of America, and also of the New York Model Aero Club, will give demonstrations of the ability of their miniature aircraft, and contests will be held for silver and bronze trophies under the rules of the National Model Aero Club. Kites with tails are barred, but among the kites to be flown will be types of the French war, monoplane, biplane, tetrahedral, and Chinese dragon kites.

Among those who will fly model aeroplanes are Frank Schober, Percy Winslow Pierce, W. P. Talmadge, L. W. Houck, and Leo Stevens. Miss Harriet Quimby is Chairman of the Ladies' Committee and Edward Durant will referee the contests.

350 MILES BY BALLOON.

Dr. Eldridge and Welch Strawbridge Sail from Philadelphia to Danbury, N. H.

DANBURY, N. H., Aug. 4.—Ending a balloon flight of 350 miles, the longest ever made from Philadelphia, Dr. Thomas, Edwin Eldridge and Welch Strawbridge landed here to-day, after having been in the air eleven hours. At one time they reached a height of 15,100 feet.

Dr. Eldridge and Mr. Strawbridge, who is a prominent polo player and society man of Philadelphia, ascended at that city at 9:30 last night, amid intense darkness. Their journey extended over seven States, and ended in the midst of a thunderstorm when they descended here on the farm of Joseph R. Maxfield, thirty miles north of Concord.

The balloonists made their flight in the Philadelphia II., owned by the Philadelphia Aeronautical Recreation Society, of which Dr. Eldridge is President. This balloon has a capacity of 50,000 cubic feet. Dr. Eldridge holds a record for high ascents, having in June reached an altitude of 17,050 feet.

ZEPPELIN POLAR PROJECT.

Prince Henry Says It May Be Fifteen Years Before the Aim Is Realized.

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—Prince Henry of Prussia, who is a member of the Zeppelin preliminary arctic exploration party, now headed for Spitzbergen to study conditions for the proposed Zeppelin dirigible balloon expedition to the north pole, states to-day in a message from Tromsö that it is not the intention of the promoters to attempt to reach the pole before a full preliminary investigation has been made.

No start by balloon will be attempted until a most complete knowledge of conditions bearing on the success of the expedition, such as the nature of the polar air currents, the possibilities of landing upon the icefields, &c., has been assembled.

It may, says the Prince, be five, ten, or even fifteen years before the aim of the Zeppelin expedition to attain the pole by the air route will be reached. Then, too, the main object of the enterprise is scientific, not a mere pole hunt.

FASSETT'S PLEA FOR MERCHANT MARINE

"Welfare of Our Country Wrapped Up in Its Restoration," He Says in Dinner Speech.

OUR GOODS IN FOREIGN SHIPS

Less Than 8 Per Cent. of Imports and Exports of United States Shipped In American-Built Vessels.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 4.—Representative J. Sloat Fassett of Elmira, N. Y., made a plea for a stronger and more efficient American merchant marine in an address delivered here to-night. He was speaking before the joint banquet of the Cycle Parts and Accessories Association, the National Association of Bicycle Jobbers, the Motor Cycle Manufacturers' Association, and the Bicycle Manufacturers' Association. Ralph D. Webster of Elmira was toastmaster. Mr. Fassett said:

"The best welfare of the present and the future of our country is wrapped up in the restoration of the American merchant marine to something like its former strength and efficiency. Ninety per cent. of the markets of the world are reached by salt water. We are the great manufacturing and trading Nation. We furnish one-sixth of the oversea international trade of the world, but we carry less than one-sixtieth. We export and import almost $4,000,000,000 worth of goods every year, and yet we, in our ships, carry less than 8 per cent. of it. In other words, of every $100 worth of trade from America to foreign nations, American ships carry $8 worth.

"The United States, which is richer than Japan and Germany combined, richer than England and France combined, has less than 100,000 tons of shipping engaged in the oversea trade in first-class steamships and our merchant marine has been steadily dwindling since 1855. The only country in the world that has a smaller merchant marine than ours is China.

"The members of all our political parties agree that the situation is humiliating.

"Sooner or later we must overcome this handicap. We must use the same weapon our rivals use.

"We are to spend $500,000,000 of good American dollars for the Panama Canal, and yet to-day we have not a single ship to send through it. We expend $35,600,000 a year on harbors and many millions for forty-foot channels, and we haven't a single American ship requiring a forty-foot channel. Isn't it time now before it is too late to spend some money for our own benefit and for the safety and prosperity of our own country and our own children?"

WIND PREVENTS FLIGHTS.

Pittsburg Crowd Sees Only a Short Flutter by Mars.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 4.—About 10,000 Pittsburgers grumbled audibly as they left Brunot's Island at dusk this evening, for the first day of the aviation meet had been a great disappointment on account of the high wind. Shortly after 5 o'clock with a wind of 25 to 35 miles blowing it was announced that J. C. Mars would attempt a flight. Mars in one of the Curtiss machines fluttered 1,200 feet not more than 20 feet from the ground, but this was a flight, according to those presiding over the box offices and no wind checks were given, much to the disgust of the crowd.

Mars had a rather tumultuous trip, though it was brief. Several times his machine almost collapsed under him and tried to turn turtle. He made a 35-foot start which he announced later broke the world's record made by him at Omaha recently, when he made a 53-foot start. On landing from his machine after the 1,200-foot flutter Mars said angrily:

"That's the most dangerous and foolhardy thing I ever did in my life. It was like attempting suicide. I won't do a thing like that again to please any one."

Curtiss and Capt. Baldwin refused absolutely to get into their machines, because of the high wind.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS ELECTION

G. M. Hanson Chosen as the Supreme Chancellor.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 4.—Two events to-day occupied the attention of the Knights of Pythias grand encampment and Supreme Lodge convention—the election of officers and the competitive drill at Camp Henry Parrish Brown.

Vice Chancellor George M. Hanson of Maine was elected to the Supreme Chancellorship. Thomas J. Carling of Macon, Ga., was elected Supreme Vice Chancellor over B. S. Young of Ohio and Benjamin I. Sallinger of Iowa.

Other officers elected are as follows: Supreme Keeper of Records and Seals—Fred E. Wheaton, Minneapolis; Supreme Prelate—The Rev. Joseph H. Spearing, Shreveport, La.; Supreme Master of Exchequer—Thomas D. Meares, Wilmington, N. C.; Supreme Master at Arms—Edward Horton, St. Thomas, Ontario; Supreme Inner Guard—Harry A. Drachman, Arizona; Supreme Outer Guard—H. M. Wadsworth, Philadelphia; members of Board of Control, Insurance Department—George A. Bangs, Grand Forks, N. D., and W. J. Duval, Kansas.

The order now has 720,000 members.

CRIPPEN GETS MORE HELP FROM LONDON

His Mysterious Friends Offer to Send Money—Ask About Confession Rumors.

REPORTS STRONGLY DENIED

Accused Man, Quebec Attorney General, and Scotland Yard Chief All Say There Has Been No Confession.

QUEBEC, Aug. 4.—Those mysterious London friends of Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, who have already retained counsel to defend him, offered further assistance by cable to-day.

Two messages were delivered to the doctor. The first asked if he needed funds; the second inquired about the rumors circulated abroad as well as in this country, that he had confessed.

Crippen replied by cable that he would appreciate some money, and he assured his friends that he had made no admission that would hurt his case. The wording of neither the messages from London nor Crippen's reply was made public, nor were the names signed to the telegrams from London obtainable. It is supposed, however, that they came from Arthur Newton, the London solicitor who informed Crippen that he had friends who would defend him and pay for an attorney.

It was said that a local attorney, whose name the authorities declined to divulge, sent word to-day to Miss Leneve offering to represent her in any legal proceedings she might care to undertake. Although the attorney asserted that he had been retained by the girl's family in England, she declined to accept his services. In her answer the young typist showed that the fifty-year-old dentist, with the pale, pasty face and fishy eyes, still has a stronger influence over her than her relatives have.

She sent back word that her case was Dr. Crippen's and that she would return to England to make her fight with him. And she has let fall no word likely to incriminate the man for whom she cut off her long light brown hair, put on boy's clothing, and fled from England.

Persons who have talked with the girl here are quoted as saying they believe that she had no part in the alleged murder of Belle Elmore, and those who share this view think she still credits the story Crippen must have told her to explain their flight. It is possible, even, that Crippen managed to keep from his companion all knowledge of the cause for which he was hunted. This, in a measure, would explain her unfeigned surprise when she was arrested on board the Montrose.

Miss Leneve to-night received a cablegram from a London paper offering her $250 for a 2,000-word article describing her wanderings in Europe with Crippen. After reading it with a wan smile, she told the detective who brought it that she had no reply to make.

Premier and Attorney General Gouin said this afternoon without qualification that Dr. Crippen had made no confession. The Premier threw some interesting legal light on the Canadian end of the case.

"The crime, if crime there was," he said, "was committed in England. As Canada is a part of Great Britain there can be no extradition of Dr. Crippen. His departure for London can be brought about only through the prescribed operation of the Fugitive Offenders act. It will be necessary, therefore, for the English police to prove only that the accused is a fugitive from justice, charged with murder. The question of whether the accused is guilty of murder does not enter into the matter here.

"The papers on which Dr. Crippen will formally be released from Canadian jurisdiction will be signed by the Governor General of Canada at Ottawa. The only manner in which the Attorney General's office might enter officially into the case is through the possibility of Dr. Crippen announcing his decision to make a confession. In this event we would be called upon by the jailer as his superiors to draw up such a document in the proper form and with the observance of all the accessory legal details."

Crippen is much changed in facial appearance since he arrived here. To-day a four days' growth of beard gives him quite a different look. He is not allowed to shave. The jail Governor, Joseph Morin, said that the precautions against an attempt at self-destruction were so strict that the prisoner would neither be allowed to have a razor, nor even be trusted in the hands of the jail barber.

Mr. Morin said to-day that the Canadian authorities expected to get the pair off their hands by Aug. 18 or 19. The time set by law for their detention on Canadian soil will expire at midnight Aug. 15. The first English steamer from this port sailing after that date will leave on Aug. 18, but a faster boat will leave on the 19th.

Morin said the prisoners would probably not appear again in court here. They have been remanded until Aug. 8, but on that day it is proposed again to remand them until the 15th, and on the 15th once more to remand them until the day on which the vessel decided upon sails. The law governing their cases works automatically.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4.—Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard arrived here to-day and spent the afternoon with Capt. Kendall of the steamer Montrose, the vessel on which Dr. Crippen was arrested.

To-night Inspector Dew started for Toronto and Niagara Falls, candidly confessing that he left Quebec to escape the newspaper men.

FIRST MOVE FOR CRIPPEN.

Solicitor Wants Independent Examination of Human Remains Found.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Arthur Newton, the solicitor who has been retained to defend Dr. Crippen, made his first move to-day, when he filed a formal application asking the authorities to permit an independent physician to examine the pieces of human flesh found in the Crippen cellar. It is understood that Mr. Newton will contend that they cannot be identified as having been part of the body of Belle Elmore.

Supt. Froest of Scotland Yard to-day again gave his personal assurance that not a single word had been received from Inspector Dew to indicate that Crippen had confessed. He added that if a confession had been made he (Froest) certainly would have been informed.

The Superintendent also pointed out that had Crippen confessed it would have been unnecessary to send Sergt. Mitchell to Quebec with depositions taken in London in order to obtain the return of the prisoners.

Mitchell, accompanied by two wardresses, who will take charge of Miss Leneve, sailed this morning on the steamer Lake Manitoba for Quebec.

A POISON CLUE REPORTED.

London Paper Says Crippen Is Believed to Have Bought Hyoscin.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 5.—According to The Daily Chronicle the police investigation in the Crippen case has disclosed a purchase of the poisonous drug hyoscin from an Oxford Street pharmacy last January, it is supposed, by Dr. Crippen.

BADEN-POWELL IN CANADA.

Brings Sixteen English Boy Scouts—General Is Coming Here.

Special to The New York Times.

QUEBEC, Aug. 4.—Lieut. Gen. Sir R. S. S. Baden-Powell arrived here to-day on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Ireland for a trip through Canada and the United States to lecture to boy scouts. He brought sixteen English scouts with him under the comamnd of Capt. Arthur Wade. They are going for a five weeks' trip to the Northwest. They all wore khaki suits, and surprised the longshoremen by the rapid manner in which they got their kits off the steamer. Four of them wore the Silver Wolf badge, the highest award, for taking twenty-five examinations, and ten wore the King's Scouts badge, which is next in distinction to the Silver Wolf.

Gen. Baden-Powell pointed out that in the ranks of the boy scouts all social distinctions were leveled. As an instance he said that G. V. Dalby, one of the Silver Wolves, was the son of a private soldier, while his chum, with whom he worked, was the Hon. Henry Fielding, son of the Earl of Denbigh, who was only a King's Scout.

The boys looked very fit and seemed very proud of the embroidered marks on their arms showing their proficiency. Gen. Baden-Powell declares that the organization has been splendid thing for the boys of England, as it teaches them to be manly and self-reliant, and future defenders of their country. The scouts have the flag which was hoisted over the fortifications at Mafeking during the famous siege.

Gen. Baden-Powell said he would attend the convention of American Boy scouts at Silver Bay in September, before sailing for England from New York.

WIFE A SUICIDE, HE SAYS.

But Husband's Story of His Struggle with Her Causes His Arrest.

"Give me a drink of whisky. My wife has just shot and killed herself," exclaimed Edward Finn of 165 Classon Avenue, Brooklyn, as he hurried into a saloon at Classon and Park Avenues, Brooklyn, just after noon yesterday. To several friends in the place he explained that his wife had shot herself while he was struggling to wrest a revolver from her, and the friends notified the police of the Flushing Avenue Station.

Finn was arrested some time afterward. He had made no attempt to leave the neighborhood, and told his story to the police readily. He said that he was a porter in the Wallabout Market, and worked nights, and had bought a revolver some time ago so that his wife might feel safe in his absence.

Yesterday morning, he said, he returned and found his wife almost helpless from whisky. He left the house and returned at noon, he said, to ask her to prepare some lunch for him. In her condition, the husband said, his request apparently drove his wife crazy, and she ran into another room and got the revolver.

He grabbed her, and in the struggle, he said, the revolver was forced behind her, where it suddenly exploded, the bullet entering Mrs. Finn's back and killing her instantly. Finn laid the body on the bed and ran to the saloon, where he told the news.

Finn was locked up in the Adams Street Police Station. Dr. Loehler of the Cumberland Street Hospital, according to the police, said that the appearance of Mrs. Finn's wound made it seem improbable that she could have held the revolver when it was discharged.

GUARDSMEN HIT BY AUTO.

Two Jersey Troopers Injured While on Duty at Camp Fort.

Special to The New York Times.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 4.—Two National Guardsmen were struck by an automobile late this evening and hurt while on duty near Gen. Murray's cottage. The driver sped away toward Spring Lake.

Private Comelstand of Company K, Fourth Regiment, was terribly lacerated in the head and face, and may lose his left eye. Another guardsman, who was knocked unconscious, is said to be a member of the Third Regiment of Camden.

Gen. Campbell sent out an alarm to apprehend the man, and dispatched several cars in pursuit, but no trace of the one responsible for the accident was had.

ROOT SCORES NEWFOUNDLAND

Tells Hague Tribunal Its Anti-American Legislation Is Iniquitous.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 4.—United States Senator Root, continuing his summing up arguments in the Newfoundland fisheries case before the Arbitration Tribunal today, dwelt at length upon the alleged iniquity of the anti-American legislation regarding fishing rights adopted by the Newfoundland Legislature. This legislation would, he declared, if upheld, render the American rights under the treaty of 1818 purely illusory.

Mr. Root maintained that if the privileges granted under the treaty were subject to British sovereignty, as argued by the British representative, England could prohibit fishing for cod in the waters in question for six or sixty years without the United States being able to raise any objection. America, he continued, was now asking the Arbitration Tribunal to recognize her right to veto any such regulations.

Merton Kent Drowned.

TORONTO, Ontario, Aug. 4.—Merton Kent, one of the best-known athletes in the city, was drowned this afternoon. He, with a companion, was crossing the lake in a launch. Off Port Dalhousie the boat was disabled and the steamer Garden City took it in tow, the young men remaining in the boat. A sudden lurch threw Kent overboard, and before assistance could reach him he sank. Kent rowed with the Argonaut eight and was half back in Argonaut Rugy teams.

JAPANESE SOUGHT FOR TRIPLE MURDER

Charred Remains of Father, Mother, and Son Found on California Ranch After Quarrel.

JAPANESE SEEN WITH KNIFE

Occupied Cabin on Ranch, and Son Was Said to Have Shot at Him—Actions Indicated Unbalanced Mind.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Aug. 4.—A general alarm was sent out to-day for the apprehension of a Japanese boy, Henry Yamagachi, in the hope of obtaining a key to a gruesome triple murder on a lonely ranch revealed yesterday. County officers, who were investigating the disappearance of a family of three, discovered the charred bodies of Enoch Kendall, Mrs. Ura Kendall, his wife, and Thomas A. Kendall, their son, in the yard of their home, just north of Santa Rosa. The finger of suspicion, according to the Sheriff, is directed toward the missing Japanese.

Yamagachi occupied a cabin on the ranch and had a violent quarrel with Thomas Kendall, the manager. Young Kendall is said to have beaten and shot at the boy, and Yamagachi, nursing his grievance against Kendall, is said to have acted like one demented.

The ranch on which the Kendall family was slain is owned by Mrs. Margaret Starbuck, wife of an Oakland architect. On Monday, July 25, Yamagachi called at the Starbuck home in Oakland and told Mrs. Starbuck that he had had a fight with the elder Kendall and his son. On the same day, a guest at the Summer resort of Caspers, near the ranch, accompanied by two boys, visited a cabin on the Starbuck ranch and entering by a window came upon Yamagachi crawling from under a couch with an open knife in his hand. The Japanese immediately left the cabin, but was seen again on the ranch the next day for the last time.

A few days ago neighbors noting that nothing had been seen of the Kendalls for more than a week called the attention of the Sheriff to the case. Yesterday Sheriff J. K. Smith, accompanied by two court officials, visited the place. On the dining room table dishes had been set for a meal, but the food had not been touched. In the stable the family horse was tied in his stall, perishing of thirst and hunger. Pigs were starving in a pen. No light was shed upon the mystery until the kitchen stove was opened. In the ashes of the grate fragments of bones were found. It was seen that a light trail of cinders led from the stove through the door to the yard. Following this trail to a point some distance from the house, the searchers came to an ash pile, which contained a large number of human bones and several pieces of blackened jewelry, among which was a plain gold wedding ring that bore the initials "T. A. K.," those of the younger Kendall. Later another ash pile was discovered that concealed pieces of human skulls, a pair of gold spectacles, and many charred bones.

Lying on the grass near by was a breastpin that held a miniature of Thomas Kendall and which was identified by neighbors as having been worn constantly by Mrs. Kendall. In a cañon near by was found the body of a woman with the head and legs missing. A search for the instrument by which the murders had been committed brought to light a heavy stone covered with blood, which lay in an adjoining garden under a fence. It is the belief of the Sheriff that the crimes were actually committed with knives or guns and that the stone was subsequently used to dispatch the dying victims.

Enoch Kendall was 60 years old, his wife 55, and their son Thomas about 31. About eighteen months ago they took possession of the Starbuck ranch.

Frequent quarrels between the Kendalls and the owner of the land are known to have occurred. Mrs. Starbuck had frequently gone into court seeking injunctions to prevent the sale of her livestock, and had asserted, it is said, her intention to oust the tenants from the place. Regarding the missing Japanese Mrs. Starbuck had made a statement to District Attorney Lea from her home in Oakland. She says that Yamagachi said that Kendall's bullet struck a metal mirror in his pocket and was deflected. He did not express a desire to get even. He threatened to kill himself, however, and acted so strangely that she called up the Chief of Police and asked him to look after the Japanese. When she returned the boy had gone.

NATIONS HONOR CARNEGIE.

Pan-American Congress Decides on a Joint Gift of a Gold Medal.

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 4.—The Pan-American Congress has unanimously approved the erection at Buenos Ayres of a permanent building for the purpose of the congress.

The publication of a book containing the acts of independence of the American Republics has also been approved.

At the session to-day a resolution was adopted lauding Andrew Carnegie as a benefactor, and voting a gold medal to him for his services to the cause of humanity. It will be the joint gift of all the American Republics.

Another resolution was adopted recommending that the Bureau of American Republics at Washington arrange for a celebration on the opening of the Panama Canal.

The American delegation to-night gave a banquet in honor of all the delegates to the congress. Covers were laid for 150 guests.

Connecticut Democrats to Meet.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 4.—The formal call for the Democratic State Convention in this city on Sept. 7 and 8 was issued by Chairman Comstock of the Democratic State Central Committee to-day.

DISMISSES A CITY MARSHAL.

Mayor Acts on Secretary's Report—Donovan Had a Partner.

Mayor Gaynor has removed City Marshal George A. Donovan on the recommendation of Robert Adamson, the Mayor's private secretary, who has been investigating the scandal in the Marshal's office revealed some time ago. Mr. Adamson reported that Donovan's case was typical of the evils that the Mayor is trying to stamp out. In his report he said:

Donovan's is an aggravated case of the evil practice among marshals which we have been trying to break up, i. e., the forming of partnerships with outsiders, mostly rent collectors, process servers, dispossess agents and court hangers-on. Donovan had as a partner David Flam, recently convicted of impersonating a city marshal. Donovan is assigned to a municipal court in Brooklyn. Flam's office is 165 East 121st Street, Manhattan. Donovan's name was displayed in Flam's window, together with his title of city marshal. From the day his name was put up in the window Donovan admits that he never once visited the office, Flam all the while presumably exercising the full functions of a city marshal wherever the cases in the office required a marshal's services. It was charged that a few days ago he had even evicted a family. I tried to get proof of this, but was unable to do so.

Flam's business is unique. His and a great number of other similar establishments have been able to flourish because of having connection with a marshal. The business is that of collecting rents, serving processes, with the service of dispossess notices as a specialty. Flam's business is probably the largest of the kind in the city. His wife, Mrs. Irene A. Flam, is the brains and directing mind of the firm.

She makes out all the papers, runs the business, and appears to have been almost a city marshal herself. She stated to me that she had as clients more than fifty landlords, each of whom operated a great number of tenement and flathouse properties. She looked after the collection of the rents, and whenever a tenant gave evidence of delinquency in payment, a dispossess notice was promptly forthcoming. The value of a marshal's name rubber-stamped on such a paper, coupled with a threat of eviction, is apparent.

Mr. Adamson is considering charges against more than a score of the City Marshals.

SEIZE SMUGGLED GOODS.

Marine Police Raid Store and Flat and Get a Wagonload.

Custom House men raided yesterday the cigar and candy store kept by Frank Didonna, at 27 President Street, Brooklyn, and the flat of Alexander Mengoni, at 5 President Street, and seized $800 worth of articles, which, they allege, were smuggled into the country.

Armed with search warrants the raiders, under Inspectors De Sarrio and Smith first visited the store and then went to the Mengoni flat. The goods seized included sweaters, lace, women's clothing, pipe stems, cognac, necklaces, set with imitation stones, and small articles of jewelry. A wagon was needed to take all to the Appraiser's stores.

Col. Wilhelm Lutz, Chief of the Marine Police, is confident that there are others engaged in buying the stuff, and other raids may be made. Didonna, Mengoni, and the latter's wife, who is Didonna's daughter, were given a hearing before Deputy Surveyor George Smyth, at the Custom House. Mengoni and his wife were allowed to go, and Didonna was taken to the office of the United States District Attorney in Brooklyn. After an examination there he was discharged.

Didonna, who has been in this country four years, admitted that he had been buying goods from sailors and others for months.

CONVICTED OF MURDER.

Murphy Found Guilty Despite His Plea of Mistaken Identity.

John Murphy, who was on trial before Judge Foster in General Sessions for shooting and killing Frederick Devlin in a lodging house at 9 Bowery on Jan. 17 last, was found guilty yesterday of murder in the second degree.

Murphy's defense was that he was not the John Murphy that had committed the crime. The jury was out only half an hour.

After the verdict Attorney McClelland insisted that the prisoner was the wrong Murphy. He said a search was being made for the offender, and that he hoped he would soon be arrested.

The charge against Murphy was that on the night of Jan. 17 he and William Duffy, who is now awaiting trial, went to the lodging house, and, demanding drink money, shot Devlin, after he had given them 10 cents, which was all he had.

Murphy was remanded to the Tombs for sentence, which will be pronounced this week. On the charge of which he was found guilty the penalty is not less than twenty years imprisonment.

Cella Brothers Continue Extradition Fight.

Antonio and Louis Cella, who are under indictment in the District of Columbia for bucket-shopping, continued their fight against extradition yesterday. United States Commissioner Shields having decided that extradition was proper, they went before Judge Hough and argued against the issuance of the warrant asked by Assistant Prosecutor Smith. After several hours' argument Judge Hough reserved decision.

District Attorney Receives Wider.

Erwin J. Wider, ex-cashier of the Russo-Chinese Bank agency in this city, who has pleaded guilty to the larceny of securities belonging to that institution, was taken to Acting District Attorney Moss's office from the Tombs yesterday afternoon. One report was that the defaulting cashier had asked for an interview. Another was that the bank authorities had discovered that Wider still has on deposit with a bank in this city a large sum of money, amounting to from $50,000 to $100,000.

New Amsterdam Bank Liquidated.

The final petition of John W. McKinnon, as agent for the shareholders of the New Amsterdam National Bank, was filed in the United States Circuit Court yesterday. The petition recites that the shareholders' agent has completed liquidating the bank's affairs and will have his accounts ready by Aug. 24. Judge Lacombe issued an order directing him to file his report on that date and to advertise to that effect once a week for three weeks.

$3.98 for New Tub Frocks, Finished Last Week. $7 Values.

SUCH A RELIEF TO FIND a fine, varied array of immaculate unrumpled Frocks in August—at the least of August prices! These were only finished last week—and came to us just in time for this announcement of their arrival.

They are of choicest materials—perfect fitting, one-piece styles. The reason they fit so remarkably well is that the Waists are made by a concern that specializes in waists and the skirts tailored by one of the best skirt manufacturers in Manhattan—joined with various perfect fitting belts, they are Frocks to be prized at full prices.

Many are of fine white lawn with full plaited, even-hanging, wide-hemmed skirts; Waists have Dutch necks and short sleeves finished off with rows of choice lace or embroidery. Some have skirts of fine imported materials with a stripe of light, summery tint and the waist of white, with a touch of the colored skirt material. Some have waists of fine allover Swiss embroidery.

Men's Summer Suits With Prices Badly Hurt.

THE PRICES HAVE SUFFERED severely, but the prices are the ONLY things hurt about these good summer Suits for men.

Except for the reduced prices they are exactly the same that we sold earlier in the season at full prices—and that were unmatched values then:

Suits Originally Up to $20 at $10.
Suits Originally Up to $22 at $12.50.
Suits Originally Up to $25 at $15.
Suits Originally Up to $30 at $17.50.

Affected by these very radical price reductions are two and three garment Suits made of a wide variety of the most attractive and cool summer fabrics. They were all made for us and all have the special excellences of style, fit and workmanship which lift them above the commonplace and insure good service.

Main Floor, Elm Place.

Men's Cool 50c. Underwear, 25c.

FINE, COOL, WELL-FITTING garments from one of the best makers we know. Some of them show insignificant hurts—scarcely noticeable except to the eye of the mill expert. They serve to bring the price down to two suits for the price of one, however.

Shirts and Drawers in all sizes; 50c. garments..... 25c

35c. Underwear, 25c. Fine ribbed athletic Shirts, especially cool for summer.

75c. Underwear, 50c. Crossbar nainsook athletic coat cut Shirts and Drawers.

SPECIAL PROSECUTOR ASKED FOR QUEENS

Committee of 100 Petitions Hughes for Designation of Deputy Attorney General.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY SCARED

Said to Have Failed in Prosecuting "Designing Politicians and Thieving Contractors"—Graft Long Notorious.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 4.—Gov. Hughes was asked to-day, on behalf of the Committee of One Hundred, to direct Attorney General O'Malley to designate a Special Deputy Attorney General to take charge of the criminal investigation of the governmental affairs of Queens County and that he act as prosecuting officer for that purpose

The committee presenting the petition—Edmund Vierniester, George Schubel, Robert Buttelman, and August Bauer—discussed with the Governor for nearly an hour the condition of affairs in Queens. The Governor was an attentive listener, and said he would give the matter his most careful consideration. He has caused to be served on President Gresser the charges made by the Progress Society on Aug. 2, and has given him until Aug. 11 to make answer.

The petition of the Committee of One Hundred says that for more than a generation Queens has been the prey of designing politicians and thieving contractors; that a large percentage of money for improvements has been and is being diverted from its avowed uses by the connivance and active aid of many of those in authority, and that much of it has been stolen in a "manner so bad as almost to scorn the arts of concealment." Nearly every so-called public improvement has been regarded as an excuse for public plunder, the petition says, and it continues:

"Indeed, so notorious have these scandals become that even the most enterprising and active property owners dread the suggestion of proposed improvements, not only because of the ruthless assessments it presages, but for the further reason that the development of improvements is being carried out with such disregard of ordinary business methods and displays such utter incompetency that the improvements in many instances come as a hindrance rather than a benefit to the county and borough.

"In almost every department, as we can show by evidence in our possession, sinecures have been and are being maintained whereby persons favored by those in power have drawn pay from the public treasury with scarce a pretense of return service to the public.

"These matters and the general atmosphere of corruption, together with the constant menace of confiscating taxes and assessments, have utterly stifled public spirit and business confidence among the people, thereby paralyzing the growth of what should be one of the most enterprising boroughs in New York City.

"These conditions have been an open scandal in the County and Borough of Queens for thirty years, and until the investigation which is now in progress not a practical effort has ever been made to expose and punish the wrongdoers.

"The investigation conducted by Commissioner Fosdick has brought forth a great volume of evidence, oral and documentary, which is and has been available for the use of the District Attorney of Queens County. With its aid he could, in our opinion, long before this date have secured the indictment and punishment of those responsible for the deplorable conditions existing in the Borough of Queens to-day.

"If the District Attorney of Queens County does not realize the gravity of the situation, or is so situated that he will not or can not act without favor, then we believe some one should be designated to act for Queens County as precedent and the law require.

"Under the spur of popular opinion and with the aid of the most flagrant evidence deduced under the probing of Commissioner Fosdick, the Grand Jury has indicted about eight persons, but so carelessly were the facts presented by the District Attorney and so faultily were the indictments drawn that they fell to pieces of their own weight and six of them were quashed on demurrers.

"The work of Commissioner Fosdick is not talk or rumor; it is, in the main, practical, legal evidence, and the failure of the District Attorney to take an active, earnest, intelligent interest in the matter and to make proper use of the evidence on hand has created in the minds of the citizens of Queens County a strong feeling of distrust against him as a prosecutor, and it is fair to say that they have lost all confidence in him."

TO TRY SKENE SOON.

Attorney General O'Malley Is Prepared to Proceed at Once.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 4.—Attorney General O'Malley and his deputies are prepared to proceed at once with the trial of ex-State Engineer Skene and the others, against whom indictments were presented yesterday by the extraordinary Grand Jury. The indictment against Mr. Skene is the first ever found against an elective State officer.

Until after the session of court next Wednesday, when Justice Coman will hear such motions as counsel for the persons indicted desire to present, it will not be possible to say when the accused men will be brought to trial. Skene and Harrison having pleaded, it now remains for the other men to be arraigned.

Gov. Hughes declined to-day to comment on the allegations made by former State Engineer Frederick Skene that Attorney General O'Malley is prosecuting the investigation into Skene's administration for political reasons. In his petition to the court yesterday for an order requiring the Attorney General to show cause why he should not be restrained from further investigation, which was denied, Skene declared that the Attorney General had taken up the matter after the Governor had investigated and found nothing that would involve the honesty and integrity of the Skene administration.

It was made known to-day at the Executive Chamber that there had never been any adjudication of the charges by the Governor, and it was said that the contention that he had vindicated the former State Engineer of wrongdoing was preposterous.

Rumors of alleged irregularities during Skene's administration had come to the Governor's attention, it was stated, but nothing tangible on which the Governor could act had been presented until the Attorney General asked for the convening of the extraordinary session of the Supreme Court and a special Grand Jury for the purpose of presenting certain evidence he had in his possession. The Governor promptly complied with the request.

FORTUNE SMILES ON KING.

Head of Family, Found Starving by the Police, Now Has Work.

A reporter carrying contributions from readers of THE TIMES saw a very different King family from the hungry and homeless one which the police had gathered in from the streets Wednesday evening. In a basement room in East Fifteenth Street, which the police had provided, fortune had begun to smile on them.

Mr. King reported that he had found work which pays him $9 a week with a lithographer. It will tide him over till the season opens in his trade, which is box making.

"Lieut. Bauer," he said, "is the kindest man I have ever met. I can never thank him for all he has done for me and mine."

It was Lieut. Bauer of the East Twenty-second Street Police Station who started the good work by buying a full meal for the family.

QUEENS WANTS FOSDICK.

Asks Him to Move There and Let Them Give Him Gresser's Job.

Commissioner of Accounts Raymond Fosdick confirmed yesterday the report that a committee had urged him to take up his residence in the Borough of Queens and become a candidate for the Presidency of that borough in the event of the removal or resignation of President Gresser.

Mr. Fosdick said he made it clear to the delegation that he would have to decline, not only because he wished to retain permanently his residence in Manhattan, but because any such move on his part would lead to a misconstruction of the motives which inspired his persistent attack on the delinquent officials of Queens.

It is understood that among those who are hunting for a successor to Gresser the name of Bridge Commissioner Martin Kingsley is a favorite, but his willingness to accept the office is considered doubtful.

A group of friends came forward yesterday to offer Gresser their support in case he were willing to follow their programme of reform. They will expect him to be guided by the counsel of a majority of their number, but whether he will accept a defense so qualified he has not yet decided. It is understood that these defenders are actuated mainly by a desire to forestall a possible return of Cassidy.

Emanuel Brandon, Superintendent of Public Buildings and Offices in Queens, resigned yesterday, and was appointed Superintendent of Highways in place of Patrick E. Leahy, who resigned after several indictments were found against him.

NINE HURT IN A CAR CRASH.

Rear-End Collision on Newark Trolley Line—Passengers in a Panic.

Nine persons were injured last night in Newark in a rear end collision between a trolley car of the Mount Pleasant Avenue line and a Broad Street car. The accident occurred at Clinton Avenue and Halsey Street.

The passengers in both cars became panic stricken and made a wild rush for the doors. Women fainted and were cared for by the men. Some were hurt by being thrown into the aisles. Two ambulances were called and six of the injured were hurried to the City Hospital. Three others went home.

A fuse in one of the cars burned out and smoke poured out of the windows, adding to the fears of the women. The force of the impact broke the rear platform of the Broad Street car.

The injured persons were Conrad Soloman, 76 Bay Street, Jersey City; Jacob Susskind, 227 Springfield Avenue, Newark; Richard Thompson, 13 South Twentieth Street, Newark; Mrs. Anthony F. Steets, 413 Halsey Street, Newark; Miss Catherine Schuster, 75 Watson Avenue, Newark, and W. H. Van Voorhees, 144 North Fourth Street, Newark.

GAYNOR DAY AT STATE FAIR.

Syracuse Also to Have a Roosevelt Day—Plans for the Horse Show.

The officers of the New York State Fair to be held at Syracuse Sept. 12-17 have set apart one day as "Gaynor Day" at which Mayor Gaynor will be the principal guest and make an address. There will also be a "Roosevelt Day" and it is expected that President Taft, Vice President Sherman, and Gov. Hughes will be present at the opening ceremonies.

An effort is being made to make the Horse Show a bigger feature than ever this year. The Mayor has consented to the attendance of a squad of mounted police from this city, and it is hoped that interest in the breeding of horses of this kind in this State will be increased. The New York police force now obtains most of its horses from Missouri. Some of the persons who have already signified their intention of exhibiting at the show are A. G. Vanderbilt, Paul A. Sorg, George C. Clausen, Walter Winans, C. W. Watson, Reginald C. Vanderbilt, and E. H. Weatherbee.

Mayor Gaynor has accepted an invitation at attend the next meeting of the Democratic Mayors of the State to be held in Poughkeepsie early in the Winter. The invitation was extended yesterday by Mayor Duryea of Schenectady, who called at City Hall.

SERVANT OBTAINS HER CHILD.

Court Takes Girl from Well-to-Do Father Who Married Another Woman

Through habeas corpus proceedings Elizabeth Kaiser, who is employed as a servant by a family in Montclair, N. J., obtained yesterday the custody of her child, Elsie, 7 years old, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn. Justice Putnam signed a writ which was made returnable on Tuesday. It is believed that there will be no further argument of the case. The father of the girl, William Zang, has taken no steps to adopt her, and she will probably stay in the mother's keeping.

Zang is a retired architect, who lives with his wife at 493 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn. Zang met Elizabeth Kaiser in Mainz, Germany, ten years ago. Two years ago Zang went to Germany and induced her to give up the girl, Elsie, to him. Last Spring Elizabeth Kaiser came to this country. Recently she had a misunderstanding with the Zangs about the child and appealed to the court. Elsie did not wish to leave the Zangs. She had to be told that her mother was going to take her for an outing in the country.

ROLLS TO DEATH IN PARK.

Man Falls Down Riverside Embankment—May Be Charles Burke.

Frank O'Connell of 203 West 102d Street, in Riverside Drive yesterday afternoon, saw a man roll down the steep embankment between 112th and 113th Streets, and land at the bottom unconscious. He notified Policeman James Mahoney, who summoned an ambulance from the J. Hood Wright Hospital, but the man died before he reached there.

Whether the man had tried to climb down the embankment to the walk below, or had been sitting on the stone fence along the drive and lost his balance, is unknown. In his pockets were found four postals addressed to Charles Burke, 281 Bleecker Street, from a Mrs. Petry of 119 West Sickel Street, Philadelphia.

SQUADRON A SAVED FROM ANNIHILATION

Huckleberry Charley Warns Two Troops on Pine Camp Field Just in Time.

TOO LATE TO SAVE MAJOR

Bridgman Just Boasting of Charmed Life When Aide-de-Camp Tells Him He's Already Shot to Pieces.

Special to The New York Times.

PINE CAMP, N. Y., Aug. 4.—"Huckleberry Charley," for more than fifty years the self-designated official guide of the Pine Plains wilderness, was having a nap under a sassafras bush near the Big Bend in the Black River, this afternoon, when he was awakened by a passing troop of cavalry.

"Where you fellows going?" asked the greatset living Huckleberry picker.

"Be quiet, man; we are looking for the enemy, who is believed to be in this vicinity," replied the leading trooper, who, in this particular case, is said to have been Sergt. Clarke, the Vice President of the Day and Night Bank.

"Well, I reckon I can help yer, all right," said Charley, "for I just seen the enemies scootin' in the direction of Defereit."

Thus Huckleberry Charley saved two troops of Squadron A from annihilation by the other two troops of the same command, which in this particular instance represented the enemy.

It was probably Squadron A's last private battle, for after to-day the squadron will operate as a unit against other and bigger forces. The problem that Major Oliver Bridgman, who commands Squadron A, submitted to his men for solution involved an inter-State encounter, with the Black River as the imaginary boundary between the States. In the problem as written the Red Army was called that of the South, while the Blues upheld the honor of the North. Squadron A has a lot of Southerners in it, and, strange to say, most of them found themselves in the Northern ranks in the battle of Black River to-day.

The fight took the New Yorkers over a large territory and it was full three hours before the umpires stopped the fighting with the forces face to face and all the survivors yelling for an hour of scrapping. It is noted on all hands that none of these Squadron A troopers, nearly every one of whom is a member of a prominent New York family, has as yet been compelled to give up as a result of the heat, while scores of the men in other regiments, narly all of whom are made up of hard-working youngsters, have keeled over right and left in some of the skirmishes, the result being that to-day their drills were reduced by one-half so as to give them an opportunity to recuperate from the strain of the work they have had to do.

During Squadron A's fight to-day the wireless telegraph was extensively used. The experiment was pronounced a great success and during the progress of the manoeuvre the headquarters staff, five miles away, was in constant touch with the troopers who were doing the fighting. The battle itself was a dead heat, and it will never be known which of the armies won the battle. After it was over Major Bridgman, on his way to camp, passed THE TIMES correspondent and said: "I see you had most of us killed or wounded the other day, that is, all except me, for I have not been touched—"

Before Major Bridgman finished the sentence a young Lieutenant of regulars rode up, saluted, and said: "The umpires present their compliments, Major Bridgman, and instruct me to inform you that you were shot to pieces in the battle just ended."

"The devil, I was," said the Major, and he rode rapidly away in the direction of the tented city.

When the Squadron A battle was concluded there began in another part of the reservation a terrific battle in which more than 3,000 regulars, representing two regiments of infantry, one of cavalry, a battery of the Third Field Artillery, and all the engineers and signalmen participated. One of these armies, the Blue, was commanded by Col. T. W. Jones of the Tenth Cavalry, while the Reds were led by Col. C. D. Cowles of the Fifth Infantry. Nothing like the racket these regulars made has been heard in the north country since the battle of Four Corners two years ago. This engagement showed the regular at his best, and the speed and precision of these trained soldiers, half of whom are veterans of the Spanish and Philippine wars, opened the eyes of the National Guard onlookers.

"They are the goods, all right," remarked Percival Nagle, the Tammany Hall leader of Harlem, who is a Lieutenant in the Seventy-first New York.

"What do you mean by talking," Lieut. De Peyster of the same command, said to Lieut. Nagle. "Don't you know that you've been dead since yesterday?"

"That's so, excuse me," Nagle replied.

The Tenth Cavalry covered this desolate wilderness with a speed that was dazzling, while the crack Field Artillerymen drove their guns across gullies and over brush-covered hills in a way that proved that they deserved the reputation of being the fastest-moving Field Artillerymen in the regular army. Nor were the infantrymen a bit behind their mounted brethren in quickness and precision—they ran, then they would crawl, and again they would dart forward like so many shadows, their rifles spitting a harmless fire with every advance. As was the case with the troopers of Squadron A, the umpires made public no verdict as to who was the victor in this battle which will go down in the history of Pine Plains as that of North Wilna, near which little village it was fought.

The Paymasters began paying off the regulars to-day. The artillerymen, Signal Corps, and the engineers being paid first. The negro soldiers will receive about $20,000 to-morrow morning.

A small fight of the Bowery type was reported in the Twelfth New York to-day. A private soldier struck a Sergeant in the face with the barrel of his rifle. The private is under arrest and the Sergeant is getting well.

CABMEN FIGHT RAILROAD.

White Plains Drivers Rebel at Concession to One Firm.

There is a dispute in White Plains between the village hackmen and the Harlem Railroad officials because of the action of the company in awarding the exclusive hacking privileges to William Marshall, a liveryman of White Plains.

Yesterday morning the company sent ten detectives to the station, and they attempted to stop all hackmen from bringing passengers to the station through the entrance between the old Chapin building and the fence which has been built to inclose the station square.

Henry C. Henderson, a lawyer of White Plains, was held up while riding in a taxicab to the station to catch a train for New York. One of the detectives seized a brake on the cab and forced the chauffeur to come to a standstill.

"Go on," said Henderson to the taxicab driver. "There is no power on earth to stop you from going to the station."

The taxicab passed on. Then Henderson gathered the hackmen around him and he made a speech in which he said:

"The company cannot stop you from bringing passengers to the station. If any of you have passengers deliver them. If you are stopped come and see me and I will protect you."

After that there was a rush of hackmen into the square, and the detectives couldn't get them out. It is expected that there will be a clash beween the Marshall drivers and the hackmen to-day, as the company yesterday afternoon closed the entire station square and decided not to allow any hack drivers except in the employ of Marshall to drive to the station. Signs have been erected about the square containing this notice:

"Entrance for private vehicles."

CLOAKMAKERS TOO LATE.

Strikers' Answer to Employers Comes After Negotiations Are Declared Off.

The reply of the striking cloakmakers to the ultimatum of the Cloak, Suit, and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association, giving the strikers until Wednesday at 10 A. M. to accept the draft agreement proposed in order to end the strike, was received by the manufacturers yesterday, a day too late. The Executive Committee of the association had already declared all negotiations closed and decided to fight the strike to a finish.

The reply of the strikers came in the form of a letter from Meyer London, counsel for the cloakmakers. It goes at great length into the demands and restates the stand taken by the representatives of the union at the conferences last week in favor of the union shop.

The letter was returned to Meyer London by Julius Henry Cohen, counsel for the manufacturers, accompanied by this reply:

Dear Sir:—I return herewith your letter of the 3d inst. As a personal letter of explanation it does not explain. As an official letter it comes too late, and, again, it is in distinct violation of the pledge entered into by you and your clients not to discuss the closed shop. It is therefore returned to you.

No new move was made by either side yesterday. The employers appear to be waiting, in the expectation of a break in the strike, before putting strikebreakers to work. It was stated, however, that all preparations have been made for reopening the shops.

Meyer London said last evening:

"There was not enough time given by the employers to put the proposition they made before the strikers, but I do not believe that it would have affected the result, as the stand of the cloakmakers was defined before the negotiations broke up."

WED AFTER THIRTY YEARS.

Druggist Courted His Bride for Three Decades, Then Forgot the License.

After a courtship lasting thirty years the wedding of a couple, set for 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Dobbs Ferry, was an hour late, owing to the bridegroom having forgotten to get his marriage license.

The bride was Miss Margaret McConnell, daughter of a former editor of The Hastings News, and the bridegroom was Nathan B. Hallett, a retired druggist.

The ceremony took place in the Presbyterian Church. The Rev. R. M. Berkley officiated. Mr. Hallett now lives in Cameron, N. Y.

Mrs. Hallett met her husband in 1880 while he was studying medicine in New York.

A MILITANT COLLECTOR.

Schuler Wrecks Hotel Switchboard When Refused Money.

Rudolph Schuler, who said he had no home, walked into the Mansfield, 12 West Forty-fourth Street, yesterday morning and told the manager, J. K. Morris, that the hotel owed him money, and that he wanted it. Mr. Morris replied that he had never seen him before.

Schuler picked up a cigar cutter and threw it at the telephone switchboard. He threw other things about until Mounted Policeman Brady overpowered him. He was locked up in the East Fifty-first Street Station.

Coca-Cola
TRADE MARK REGISTERED

It will cool you, relieve your fatigue and quench your thirst as nothing else can.

And be sure you get Coca-Cola when you ask for it. If you went into a jewelry store and asked for a diamond and the clerk said—"We have no diamonds but here is a dymond—something you'll like better," you would laugh at that clerk and go someplace else. Now, just exactly the same thing is true of Coca-Cola. Certainly, some other drink with an unattached Coca or a misspelled Cola, or that looks like Coca-Cola won't answer your wants—won't refresh you and quench your thirst as will Coca-Cola. There never was an imitation diamond or an imitation Coca-Cola but was made because the original article is so good. Then why buy and pay the same price even for something that's just trying to be as good as the original?

So we suggest—get Coca-Cola and see that you get it.

START HAVENS BOOM IN MONROE COUNTY

Democratic Committee Adopts Resolution Urging His Nomination for Governor.

ALDRIDGE FIGHT RECALLED

Speaker Says Rochester Congressman Has Shown That He Can Command Support of Independents.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 4.—A boom for James S. Havens, Congressman from the Thirty-second New York District, for the Democratic nomination for Governor was launched to-night in this city. Mr. Havens was elected to Congress last April at a special election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of James Breck Perkins, defeating George W. Aldridge, Republican boss of Monroe County.

The movement in favor of Mr. Havens's Gubernatorial candidacy crystallized at a meeting of the Democratic General Committee of Monroe County, which was held in the Whitcomb House to-night, following a dinner given to the members by State Committeemen Thomas W. Finucane and Jacob Gerling at which the situation in the State, and in Western New York in particular, was discussed.

Thirty-seven of the forty-one members of the General Committee were present and the meeting was marked by enthusiasm, culminating in the unanimous adoption of a resolution presenting Mr. Havens to the Democracy of the Empire State for nomination for Governor.

It has been known for some time that Representative Havens was a receptive candidate, and ever since his public announcement last month that he would accept the nomination for Governor if the call was unanimous his supporters in Monroe have been canvassing neighboring counties in an effort to learn the strength of the Havens sentiment.

County Chairman John F. Dalley, who is also a member of the Executive Committee of the Democratic State Committee, addressed to-night's meeting and announced that reports from Western New York counties showed that Mr. Havens was the first choice there for the Gubernatorial nomination and would receive almost undivided support. He was sure that after his indorsement in Monroe he would be indorsed by these counties. Reports from some Central New York counties and from several Eastern counties, Mr. Dalley said, were to the effect that Mr. Havens was first choice should Monroe County launch his candidacy.

The resolution formally presenting Mr. Havens as the candidate of Monroe County was offered by Milton E. Gibbs, a former Chairman of the County Committee. Mr. Gibbs declared that Democratic opportunity was at hand. He said there were more Independent Republicans in the State against the Republican Party leaders than for them. Representative Havens, he said, owed his election to Congress to insurgent Republicans as well as Democrats. The Republican Party in the State was badly split and would not be able to get together in the Fall as in former times. The Democrats must nominate a man who would meet the requirements of all sections of the State, and he believed Mr. Havens was the man to carry the party to victory. Mr. Havens, he said, had not been in politics long enough to be involved with factions. He was not a Hearst, Hughes, or Murphy man. By reason of his defeat of George W. Aldridge and his clear-cut enunciation of principles in the recent Congressional campaign he stood on the crest of a wave of popularity, was known as well as any Democrat in the State, and possessed better qualifications for Chief Executive than any other man in the State.

Mr. Gibbs then presented the following resolution, which was adopted without a dissenting vote:

> Recognizing the merits of the distinguished Democrats whose names have been prominently mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination for Governor this Fall, and realizing the great importance to the party as well as to the people of the State of wise action on the part of the next Democratic State Convention, the Democratic General Committee of Monroe County presents the name of Hon. James S. Havens, of Rochester for the careful consideration of the Democrats of the Empire State.

Mr. Havens is in the prime of life and a recognized leader of the bar of Western New York. He is a man of wide experience, ripe scholarship, and of the highest character. He is a life-long Democrat, and an aggressive champion of the principles of his party. He is free from factional differences within the party, and would command the support of a united Democracy, at the same time drawing to his support thousands of Independent voters.

He is a most effective campaigner, his public addresses carrying conviction and making converts. After an aggressive campaign last Spring that fastened upon Monroe County the attention of the State, he was triumphantly elected to Congress from the Thirty-second District by a majority of nearly 6,000, overcoming a Republican majority of 10,000 in 1908, and overthrowing one of the most formidable Republican organizations within the State of New York.

With James S. Havens as its standard-bearer, the Democratic Party will march to certain victory next November. With him as Governor, the people will have a capable, fearless, and patriotic Executive, and the party will regain the high estate that it held in the days of Seymour, Tilden, Cleveland, and Hill.

After the cheering had subsided the General Committee discussed plans for bringing the State Convention to Rochester.

CALLS KANSAS MERCURIAL.

Victory of the Insurgents of Little Moment, Says Loudenslager.

Representative Harry B. Loudenslager of New Jersey, Secretary of the Republican Congressional Committee, put in his first day yesterday at the headquarters of the committee in the St. James Building, where he is to be in charge throughout the campaign. When asked what he thought the effect would be of the insurgent primary victories in Kansas and at the Iowa State Convention, he replied:

"I don't think they carry much weight. Kansas politics are known for their lightning changes. To-day they are vehemently Republican, to-morrow Democratic, the next day Populistic, and so on. The situation in Iowa is more serious. The action of a Republican Convention not tolerating a picture of a Republican President because some of the delegates differ with him shows a lack of breadth, to say the least."

"Will the Congressional campaign be made by the Republicans on a 'stand-pat' platform?"

"Republicanism—call it by what name you wish—will be the issue in this campaign. We well can afford to stand on the record of the latest Congress and the Administration of President Taft. He already has accomplished more than any of his predecessors in an entire term."

Mr. Loudenslager said he expected Representative McKinley of Illinois, Chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, to arrive to-day or to-morrow. Mr. McKinley will have charge of the principal headquarters in Chicago.

FOR TAFT AND BALLINGER.

Washington State Republicans Indorse Them in the Platform.

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 4.—Insurgency was roundly denounced by speakers at the Republican State Convention yesterday. The platform indorsed the Administration of President Taft and also Secretary of the Interior Ballinger.

The convention nominated the five present Supreme Court Judges.

To Fix Democratic Convention Date.

A meeting of the Democratic State Committee was called yesterday for Friday, Aug. 19, at the Grand Union Hotel in Saratoga to fix a date and place for the Democratic State Convention to be held either the last week in September or the first week of October. Rochester, Syracuse, and Saratoga want to be selected for the big gathering.

REPUBLICANS BADLY SPLIT.

Democrats Will Make Heavy Gains in West, Chairman Lloyd Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Fresh from a tour of Kansas, Colorado, California, Utah, and New Mexico, Representative James Lloyd of Missouri, Chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee, predicted to-day a landslide away from the Republican camp in the Western States. In California, for instance, Mr. Lloyd claims three seats for the Democrats, and in other States, he said, the issue between the regular and insurgent wings of the Republicans is so bitter that the regulars would rather see Democrats elected than progressive Republicans.

"Insurgency in the Republican Party is growing every day," said Mr. Lloyd. "It is rampant in the Middle West. It is impossible to see how things could be worse for Republicanism than they are now. In every district in California there is a regular and a progressive Republican candidate, and the factional fights will lead to the election of a Democratic Governor.

"It has been said that there is no insurgent strength in Missouri, my own State. As a matter of fact, according to the primary returns of last Tuesday, the Republicans of the Kansas City district, the Fifth, have nominated an insurgent for Congress, Howard F. Lee defeating Kimball, the regular candidate. In the Fourteenth District the contest between the regular and the insurgent was so close that it has not yet been decided.

"With this situation in mind, I don't see how the outcome can be other than a great gain for the Democrats in both houses."

Mr. Lloyd is already busy sending out Democratic literature to all contested districts. In this literature are included several insurgent speeches.

INSURGENTS WIRE CANNON.

Sorry He Didn't Give More Time to Campbell and Anthony.

Special to The New York Times.

CHANUTE, Kan., Aug. 4.—The insurgents of Chanute sent the following telegram to-day to Speaker Cannon:

> In this glad hour of splendid victory which, in the renomination of Gov. Stubbs and the nomination of six insurgent Congressmen from this State, signalizes an emphatic indorsement of that progressiveness peculiar to Kansas, the insurgents of Chanute wish to voice one regret. We regret that you did not lend more of your time and eloquence to Campbell and Anthony, to the end that they too might have met the defeat and repudiation they so richly deserve.
>
> THE INSURGENTS OF CHANUTE.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., Aug. 4.—"I know nothing of the primary elections in Kansas except that which I saw in the evening papers, as I am on my vacation trying to be a boy and throw double somersaults, which is not hard if you know how," said Speaker Cannon to-day when repeatedly urged to express his opinion on the insurgent victory in Tuesday's primary elections in Kansas.

"You can easily prove by any of the metropolitan papers," Speaker Cannon continued, "that I am in my second childhood, so I ought to be allowed to do anything now that I could do in my tender years.

"I shall probably not say anything in regard to the elections. It is a case of 'had your aunt been your uncle what would have happened?' If Stubbs has been nominated he will probably be the candidate.

"I am up here to have a good time, and for that only, and would prefer to let politics alone; I just want to be a boy."

TAFT MERCIFUL TO HAND.

Permits Captain Who Broke His Pledge to Remain in Army.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—President Taft has commuted the sentence of a court-martial that Capt. Daniel W. Hand, First Field Artillery at San Francisco, be dismissed from the army without honor for drunkenness, violating a pledge of temperance, and absence without leave. Because of his previous excellent record and gallant conduct with the Fifteenth Minnesota Volunteers in the war with Spain the President decided that Capt. Hand should remain in the service, but should be reduced to the bottom of the list of field artillery Captains, where his name must remain five years, and that he be confined for one year to the limits of the military reservation, where his battery may serve.

John Wynne, an oiler employed on the United States Steamship Rosecrans at Honolulu, Hawaii, who was sentenced to be hanged on Sept. 5, was reprieved for ninety days to permit the Attorney General to consider the case. Wynne killed Third Assistant Engineer McKinnon, whom he accused of trying to make him lose his place.

The President also commuted the sentence of Ami B. Todd, who has served almost his entire term of three months in the Fremont, Neb., jail for fraudulent homestead entry. His sentence included a $1,000 fine. Todd is reported dying from cancer of the stomach.

$11,573,000 POSTAL SAVING.

Postmaster General Promises Now to Wipe Out the Deficit.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Postmaster General Hitchcock was gratified when he returned home to-day from Europe to learn of the fulfillment of his prediction of a $10,000,000 reduction in the yearly postal deficit. The report of the Auditor of the department showed the saving for the fiscal year to be $11,573,000. The total amount of the deficiency for the twelve months ending June 30 was $5,970,000, as against $17,480,000 for the preceding fiscal year.

The Postmaster General stated that in the coming year he hoped to make such further reductions in the cost of the Postal Service as would wipe out entirely the annual deficit and place the department on a self-supporting basis.

364,463 IN CINCINNATI.

Gain of 38,561 in Population Within Ten Years Is Shown.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Cincinnati, Ohio, has a population of 364,463, according to the figures enumerated for the thirteenth census and made public to-day by Census Director Durand. This is an increase of 38,561, or 11.8 per cent., as compared with 325,902, the population in 1900.

Other population figures made public to-day were: Bloomington, Ind., 8,838, as compared with 6,460 in 1900; Bonham, Texas, 4,844, as compared with 5,042 in 1900; Hampden, Conn., 6,850, as compared with 4,620 in 1900.

DIFFER OVER GIRL'S ABSENCE.

Mother Says She's Missing, but Her Father Says She Went to Newport.

A difference of opinion between parents led to a report reaching the police yesterday of the alleged disappearance of Evelyn Corwine, 16 years old, who lived at 622 West 135th Street. The girl's mother, Mrs. Ellen Corwine, reported her daughter's absence. She explained that yesterday morning the family moved from West 135th Street to 524 West 134th Street. The girl's trunk was packed for moving. It was taken down the stairs by the moving man, and Miss Corwine ordered it put into a taxicab.

John Corwine, the father, said last night that the girl had not disappeared. He said that he gave her permission to visit friends in Newport, and she had gone there. There was no occasion for the police being notified. Nevertheless Mrs. Corwine was still uncertain whether her daughter was bound for Rhode Island. She volunteered the information that her own father, Thomas E. Smith, had been a man of great wealth.

The second girl to be reported missing from the same street within a few hours yesterday was Annie Monteford, 15 years old, of 308 West 135th Street. Her mother called on the police to aid in the search.

Thus far there is nothing to connect the disappearance of the girls, but the attention of the police had been drawn to the fact that they have been living in the same neighborhood, and to the possibility that they may have known each other.

INDEPENDENTS WIN TENNESSEE ELECTION

Returns Indicate That Gov. Patterson Is Beaten on the Judicial Ticket.

CONGRESSMEN RENOMINATED

Prosecutor of Col. Cooper Is Defeated in Nashville, However, by Present Judge, a Patterson Man.

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 4.—The Independent Judiciary ticket in Tennessee, embracing the complete list of the State Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals, appears to-night to have been elected by a considerable majority. Some of the large Democratic counties in the State which were relied upon to support the regulars turned out a light and disappointing vote, while Knoxville reports that the thirty-four counties of East Tennessee have given an overwhelming majority to the Independent candidates, the figure of the majority being estimated as not less than 20,000. In other counties also having Republican precincts a large vote was polled, and the Independents, in alliance with the Republicans, seem to have carried each of the three grand divisions of the State. There was very little scratching of the tickets.

In the Nashville district, however, where the trial of Col. Duncan Cooper for the killing of Carmack was made a local issue in the race for Criminal Judge, Jeff McCarn, the Prosecuting Attorney, who ran on his record for securing the conviction of the Coopers, was defeated by Judge William Hart, the present incumbent of the office, who was a Patterson sympathizer and by inference friendly to the Coopers. Hart was the trial Judge before whom McCarn conducted the prosecution.

In this city Harry Anderson, a young attorney and a Republican, has been elected Chancellor, defeating F. H. Heiskel, son of one of the members of the First Confederate Congress in 1861. Anderson is the first Republican elected to office in Memphis and Shelby County in many years. Otherwise the regular Democratic ticket has carried in Shelby County, although the Republicans for the first time in a number of years had out a full opposition ticket.

In the race for Congress in this, the Tenth, District of Tennessee, Gen. George W. Gordon has been renominated for his third term at the Democratic primary. He was opposed by two young men.

The hottest fight was on the election of the Judiciary. The Independent ticket was framed at a convention of those opposed to the regular Democratic machine, after some of the Judges had charged that they had been approached by men supposed to represent Gov. Patterson prior to the decision affirming the lower court's verdict against Duncan B. Cooper as the slayer of Carmack. These Judges stated that emissaries attempted to influence the decision of the court in favor of the Coopers.

The contest has been bitter. The Governor has himself spoken over the entire State in favor of the regular judicial ticket, while opposing him some very influential speakers and politicians have supported the Independents, and the Republican support has gone to the Independents.

The judicial nominations included a complete ticket for the State Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals. For the Supreme Court two of the Independents are at present in the office. The others will be new Judges.

Gov. Patterson is a candidate to succeed himself in the November general election. With the success gained now in the fight for the judiciary it is regarded as certain that a Republican-Independent coalition will put out an opposition candidate for the Governorship, though none is at present in the field.

Reports from Nashville note the unusual feature of the presence of scores of negroes about the polls wearing straight Democratic badges.

In the Democratic Congressional primaries, indications are that Congressman Lemuel Padgett in the Seventh District, T. W. Simms in the Eighth, Finis Garret in the Ninth, were, like Gen. Gordon in the Tenth, renominated for re-election.

POLICE HORSE PUT TO DEATH.

Hesper's Legs Injured and Loss of His Rider Grieved Him Beyond Recovery.

Hesper, for fourteen years one of the star horses of the Police Department, was killed by a police veterinary surgeon in the Westchester Police Station stables yesterday. For three weeks the horse had been kept in a stall, supported on its legs by means of a swing and block and tackle, and its death was decided on when it became evident that it could never recover the use of its front legs, which had been injured by a fall.

The men of the Westchester Station were inclined to believe, however, that had not Hesper's heart been broken the animal might have recovered from its physical ills. They declared that Hesper never had been the same from the moment, three days after the workhorse parade on Decoration Day, when Sergt. Edwin West, who had ridden the horse for six years, was promoted to be a Lieutenant and taken from the mounted squad for desk duty.

West and the horse had been as nearly friends as it is possible for a man and a beast to be. The Sergeant watched over his mount with the care that he would have lavished on a child, and Hesper's spirits, according to the men, actually seemed to droop when West had to leave his old post.

Hesper was about 17 years old, and in the last workhorse parade won a blue ribbon, and also a special medal which Mrs. E. C. Speyer caused to be struck off for the horse.

NEW SOCIALIST WEEKLY.

Charles Edward Russell and Other Prominent Writers Back of Publication

Charles Edward Russell, Socialist candidate for Governor of this State, and A. M. Simons, editor of The Chicago Daily Socialist, will launch on Sept. 1 a weekly Socialist paper to be known as "The Coming Nation."

The place of publication will be Girard, Kan., where The Appeal to Reason, a Socialist organ, now is published. J. A. Wayland of the latter publication is behind the new magazine. It is stated that a subscription list of 50,000 is assured.

AXLE BREAKS; AUTO UPSETS.

Three Thrown Out and One Pinned Under It, but None Seriously Hurt.

Three guests of William F. Kenny, a contractor living at Ninety-fourth Street and the Shore Road, went for a ride yesterday afternoon in Mr. Kenny's automobile, driven by Warren Brown of 1,447 Bedford Avenue, Flatbush. The party started for home at 5 o'clock, and were coasting down the hill in Ninety-fifth Street from Second Avenue to the Shore Road when the rear axle broke and the car overturned, pinning Brown beneath it.

William Bogenheuyer and his brother Charles, wholesale grocers of Newark, Ohio, and George Snow of Portland, Me., the occupants of the car, were tossed into the roadway. Charles escaped unhurt, but William had his right arm fractured, while Snow's collarbone was broken.

Policeman Fairchild saw the accident, and with the help of a crowd he lifted the car off Brown, who was unhurt. The Bogenheuyers and Snow returned to Mr. Kenny's home, where they were treated by Dr. Louis Stork of 337 Seventy-seventh Street, Bay Ridge.

CAUGHT BY FINGER MARKS.

Man Who Robbed Montclair Homes Identified by Prints on Cellar Wall.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Aug. 4.—Robert Edwards of this place is under arrest here charged with several thefts perpetrated recently in this town. His capture was brought about by Chief of Police Gallagher, who connected Edwards with the thefts of two gas meters and a robbery in the home of George C. Osborne, 3 Claremont Place, by identifying impressions taken of his finger tips with the stains found upon the white-washed walls of Mr. Osborne's cellar, left by the burglar's fingers after he had clambered over a pile of coal.

The Gallagher robbery occurred two months ago, and no trace of the burglar was found, although Mrs. Osborne awoke while the man was in her room, and alarmed her husband. The intruder escaped with some jewelry, and a small sum of money. The marks of his fingers were found in the basement, and Chief Gallagher had them photographed.

Next two gas meters were stolen from houses, and the gas escaping from the pipes imperiled the lives of more than a score of persons. One of the houses was set on fire. No trace of the thief could be found in this instance, either.

It was not until last Friday morning when two markets in Bloomfield Avenue were broken into and robbed that suspicion pointed to Edwards. He was arrested and on a chance Chief Gallagher had Edward Schwartz, head of the Bertillon department of the Newark police, examine the man's hands. Schwartz immediately pronounced him the Osborne burglar.

According to Chief Gallagher Edwards finally admitted all the robberies. Edwards has been remanded for the Grand Jury.

ROBBED AND BEATEN IN CAB.

The "Blacksmith's Son" Fled After Getting $800 Roll.

Bruno Hack of 1,833 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, was injured in an accident two years ago, sued and recovered $5,000, which was put in a bank for him until he should attain his majority. That happy time came a day or so ago and Bruno drew $1,000 and started for Coney Island.

Up to late last Wednesday night Bruno and "Marjory," whose acquaintance he made soon after reaching the Island, had a splendid time but then "George," a "boyhood friend" of "Marjory," appeared. They had been friends up in old New Hampshire where her father kept the general store and passed the collection plate in church. George was the village blacksmith's son.

George and Bruno were fast friends at once, and late in the evening decided to take a cab ride to Prospect Park. They hailed Harold Zoll, a cabbie, and started on the ride. At the Plaza Zoll heard groans within the cab. He stopped and looked in. George was gone, but Bruno lay senseless on the floor of the cab. Zoll called a policeman and a doctor from the Swedish Hospital and Bruno was resuscitated.

He explained that George had jumped on him in the cab, choked him into unconsciousness, grabbed the $800 that remained out of his $1,000, jumped out of the cab and escaped.

Detectives Thornton and Ryan arrested Margaret Phillips and Harry Phillips, who is said to be the girl's husband, last night. Both said they knew nothing about Bruno, but he will have a chance to identify them to-day.

ESPERANTO CHURCH SERVICES

Delegates to International Congress in Washington Will Attend.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Church services in Esperanto, the international language, will be conducted in this city on Sunday, Aug. 14. Two services have been arranged for, and most of the 1,000 or more delegates to the congress will probably attend one or the other. In St. Paul's Episcopal Church the Eucharistic service will be conducted in Esperanto by the Rev. Paul Hoffman of Baltimore and the Rev. James L. Smiley of Annapolis. Father Blanchini, a delegate to the congress from Italy, and Father Solas of France will officiate in the services at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Twenty-two nationalities will be represented at the congress. Official delegates will be sent by the Governments of Mexico, Spain, Ecuador, Honduras, Italy, France, Panama, and Guatemala.

John Barrett, Director of the Bureau of American Republics, is President of the congress.

REPUBLICANS LOSE NEGROES

Bishop Walters Declares the Old Party Deserves Rebuke of His People.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 4.—Declaring that the Republican Party deserved rebuke by colored men and that indifferent Republican Congressmen would be voted against by colored voters this Fall, Bishop A. Walters was cheered to-night at the first public session of the third annual meeting of the National Independent Political League, of which he is President, by a big audience.

Bishop Walters declared the Republican party acquiesced in disfranchisement, and was, therefore, as bad as the Democrats. He asked whether the Republicans ever stopped lynchings, or did anything to restore the rights of colored Americans. If neither party changed its policy, he said, colored men would unit with others for a new party.

W. M. Trotter said colored men were working against Assemblymen in Massachusetts favorable to Senator Lodge because of his hostility to the Brownsville soldiers.

MRS. JUDD GETS DIVORCE.

New York Woman Tells Reno Court Husband Packed Up and Left Her.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 4.—Mrs. Anna Adele Judd, formerly Miss Anna Tobler of New York, who is a fashion designer, to-day secured a divorce from Frank Judd, an engineer, formerly engaged in Government work in New York, but now in Panama. The decree was granted on the grounds of non-support and desertion.

Mrs. Judd was so nervous that she tore a handkerchief into pieces and wept during her examination. She declared that her husband five years ago deserted her without any apparent reason. He simply packed up his trunks and left, she said, and soon after went to Panama, saying that he never wanted to see her again. She added that she had written to him since, but he refused to have anything to do with her. There is a child, 9 years old, the custody of which the court gave to Mrs. Judd.

New Officers of Lord & Taylor.

The Lord & Taylor Company has elected these officers: President—J. P. H. Emery; Vice President—George E. Beers; Secretary—Ernest Stauffen, Jr.; Treasurer—Brent M. Tanner. The other members of the Board of Directors are Louis Stewart, Samuel H. Ordway, Edward Hatch, Jr., Miss Cornelia C. Hatch, and Wilson H. Tucker. Edward H. Titus, who for many years was a Director and Treasurer of the company, has resigned.

Singers Back from German Tour.

One hundred and thirty members of the Swabian Singing Society of Brooklyn, which has been touring Germany for nine weeks, returned yesterday on the steamship President Lincoln. The singers while abroad were received by the King of Wurtemberg and Count Zeppelin, who served in the civil war in this country and found a number of old veterans among the singers, with whom he fraternized.

Congressman Crow Renominated.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 4.—The nomination of Congressman Charles A. Crow, standpatter, by the Republicans of the Fourteenth Missouri District, was assured by late returns to-night. David W. Hill, insurgent candidate, admits his defeat.

NELSON TELLS TAFT OF KANSAS UPHEAVAL

Middle Western Editor Says Republican Party Has Failed to Keep Pledges.

BRYCE BIDS TAFT GOOD-BYE

British Ambassador Going to Panama and South America—President Off for Provincetown To-day.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 4.—Col. William R. Nelson of The Kansas City Star "dropped in" on President Taft at Burgess Point this afternoon. On his way out to the President's cottage the Colonel said he wasn't going to talk politics if he could help himself. Subsequent reports from the front porch overlooking the quiet waters of Salem Bay declared, however, that a hearty exchange of greetings was quickly followed by an earnest discussion of recent events in the political world.

President Taft and "Old Bill Nelson," as he familiarly calls the Missouri editor, have been friends for a long time. Their divergent views of the Payne-Aldrich tariff have not interfered with their personal intimacy.

Col. Nelson was interviewed as he was on his way to see Mr. Taft.

"What about the results in Kansas?" was the opening chorus from the newspaper group.

"Oh," laughed the Colonel, "My heart is not broken."

"And Iowa?"

"Well, I am managing to bear up under that pretty well, too."

"What do you think of the possibility of the next House of Representatives being Democratic?"

"It looks as though it would be either Democratic or insurgent. At any rate you can bet it will be anti-Cannon."

Asked if he thought a resignation from Secretary Ballinger would have altered the situation in any way, Col. Nelson declared he did not think so.

"Now, as to Ballinger," he added after a few moments' thought, "it seems to me that if I had held on to him so long I'd keep him."

Cannon Accomplished Nothing.

Col. Nelson said he believed the insurgent victory in Kansas had been brought about by the fact that the Republican Party had failed to live up to its pledges. Speaker Cannon's visit, he declared, came too late in the campaign to do either harm or good.

"Kansas," added the Colonel, "is filled with men who either made the State or are sons of men who made it. They think progressively out there, and they act progressively. People in the East don't understand Kansas. But just watch Kansas and you will come pretty close to seeing what the rest of the country will do.

"Many Republicans," continued Col. Nelson, "seem to think the Republican Party is made up of a majority of the voters of this country. In that they are wrong. The Democrats have never put up a candidate for President who ought to have won that didn't win."

"All this doesn't mean that you are going to support Judson Harmon, does it?" queried a venturesome reporter.

"Not against Theodore Roosevelt."

"Do you think Col. Roosevelt can 'come back'?"

"Come back?" snapped the Colonel; "why, he'd sweep the country. But I don't think he will run unless he has to."

Col. Roosevelt's recent travels in the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania claimed Col. Nelson's attention for a few minutes.

"You will notice," he said, by way of conclusion on this subject, "that Col. Roosevelt went to the coal mines and not to the National City Bank; that he went to Father Curran and not to J. Pierpont Morgan."

Col. Nelson then spoke of his friendship for President Taft.

"I am very fond of him," he said, "and I was much interested in his election."

"Do you think he will be re-elected?"

"Now, boys," laughed the Colonel, "you mustn't ask me foolish questions."

Other Visitors to Taft.

The President had a number of visitors this afternoon besides Col. Nelson. Ambassador Bryce and Mrs. Bryce were at Burgess Point for quite an extended visit. Mr. Bryce will leave next month for a trip to the Isthmus of Panama, after which he will circumnavigate South America, visiting every country on the Continent. His visit to the President was purely social, and by way of leavetaking.

Associate Justice White of the United States Supreme Court, Senators Lodge of Massachusetts and Wetmore of Rhode Island, and President Johnson of the Norfolk & Western Railroad were other callers at the Taft cottage.

To-night President and Mrs. Taft slept on board the yacht Mayflower, which will sail soon after daylight for Provincetown, Mass. Other members of the party on the Mayflower are Senators Lodge and Wetmore, Justice White, Secretary Norton, and Capt. Archibald W. Butt.

Arrangements have been completed for the entertainment of President Montt of Chile during his visit to the President on Saturday. The South American Executive, his wife, and suite will arrive in Boston late to-morrow afternoon and spend the night there. The Mayflower will be sent to Boston for the distinguished visitors. Capt. Butt and Lieut. Rowcliff of the navy, members of the President's staff of aids, will conduct President Montt on board the Mayflower for the sail to Beverly.

The yacht will come to anchor off the President's house at 12:30 P. M., and luncheon for twelve will be served forty-five minutes later. Secretary of State Knox, Gov. Draper of Massachusetts, and Mrs. Draper will be among the guests.

Returning to Boston on the Mayflower in the afternoon, President Montt will take the 5:30 P. M. train back to New York.

Enters Denial for Leader Murphy.

Thomas F. Smith, Secretary of Tammany Hall, denied last night, on behalf of Charles F. Murphy, a report in a morning newspaper to the effect that Murphy had sent letters to Democrats in Buffalo asking their opinion on candidates for Governor this Fall. Mr. Smith said Mr. Murphy wished it made plain that if any one had received letters purporting to be from him, asking suggestions about Gubernatorial candidates, they were fakes and that he had not sent out any such inquiries.

RETURNS CHARLTON PAPERS.

State Department Advises Italian Embassy Case Is Not Before It.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—What is assumed to be Italy's formal demand for the extradition of Porter Charlton, the young American in jail in Hudson County, N. J., charged with having killed his wife, Mary Scott Castle Charlton, at Lake Como, Italy, reached the State Department to-day. The papers came in a packet postmarked "Manchester, Mass." They were not even opened. Acting Secretary of State Huntington Wilson knew they bore on the Charlton case. That case has not reached the jurisdiction of the department. Therefore the papers were returned to the Italian Embassy, whence they came, and which has its seat for the Summer on the Massachusetts Coast.

Accompanying the packet upon its return and explanatory of the course taken by the department was a note from Mr. Wilson pointing out that the case lay with the New Jersey court and that papers bearing upon it should be presented to the Magistrate before whom it was pending.

Not until action has been taken by the court will the case of Charlton reach the State Department, when Secretary Knox may be called upon to pass on the question of extradition.

WIDOW TAKES POISON.

For Headache, She Says—Friend's Promptness Saves Her Life.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 4.—Mrs. Josephine Newall, a young widow, is in the Spring Lake Hospital recovering from an overdose of a drug taken, she says, to cure a headache, but, according to the police, in an attempt to end her life. Mrs. Newall was saved by the swiftness with which John Sykes, Jr., of 105 North Broad Street, Trenton, rushed her to a doctor after she had swallowed the drug.

Mrs. Newall called on Sykes at the St. George Hotel here, as she had done frequently before, to ask his advice on business affairs, they being old friends. She left him after a few minutes to go to a drug store for the headache cure, and returned soon, saying she had taken a "whole lot."

It was then Sykes hurried her to a doctor, who said that only his rapid driving had saved the woman's life.

FOWLER DENOUNCES ALDRICH

Hits at Cannon, Too, in Jersey Speech and Commends Insurgents.

Before an audience of more than 200 men in the headquarters of the Progressive Republican League in Newark last night, Representative Charles N. Fowler delivered an address similar to one he recently gave in Hackensack.

He described the fight of the insurgents in Congress and denounced Aldrich and Cannon. He also declared that he would fight hard for the United States Senatorship in New Jersey to succeed Senator John Kean, and challenged Franklin Murphy, ex-Governor and Republican State Chairman, to go before the people at the primaries in the Senatorial fight.

The Cubs did it again. That's three times in the same place. Several things may happen to prevent Chicago making it four straight against the Giants today, one of which is a hard rainstorm.

Leon Ames was sent out to stop them, and he pitched fine ball except in one inning. When the New Yorks go against Chicago there is always one inning when the Giant curve propeller is roughed and jostled by the Cubs. Yesterday it happened in the sixth. Tell the orchestra to hit up a little music and make it very soft. The score was 5 to 1, if you insist on the cold, brutal facts.

For five innings the Cubs submitted to high-handed treatment by Red Ames. Husk Chance leered at his men as the sixth opened, as much as to say: "There's something due this man Ames, go, get him!" The more Ames bent them, the further they flew. Schulte entertained during the tempestuous round by again raising the ball so high and so far that it fell into the right field grand stand for a home run.

The man who pitched for Chicago has an odd name, very uncommon. Let's see; oh, yes, it's Brown. Pitchers like Brown come in the finest of packages all done up with gold string and marked "superfine." In one inning the Giants grouped a pair of singles on him and saved themselves from a goose-egg mauling. But aside from that, he made them look like a lot of men bound hand and foot and gagged. Yes, Brown's "all in." So is Kling, Evers, Tinker, and Hofman—all in the game, with both hands and both feet.

Evers, the jumping jack at second, tried to steal second in the third inning yesterday and Schlei threw him out.

From that minute until the game ended Evers talked with every New York player between innings telling him how Umpire Kane made a mistake. According to Evers, Kane had Jesse James looking like a make-believe. Some one once said that when Johnny Evers goes in bathing all the crabs hide in the sand. When anybody calls Evers out he wants to know why, and wants to know for some time after it happens. Next Winter at the annual baseball meeting Johnny will show up and ask everybody's opinion on that decision.

It is getting so that it's almost as superfluous to mention the fast fielding of the Cubs as it is to mention white snow, black coal, or a slow train on the Erie. They harvested everything yesterday in jig style with never a slip-up. Artie Hofman made a couple of catches in centre field that put him in a class in which few hold membership. Evers made a few stops and throws as if he was bored to death and sorely grieved because they didn't come at him like rifle balls. Joe Tinker didn't do much aside from going way over to the boxes for an Ames foul and running almost out to the left field fence to get Murray's rocket over his right shoulder.

New York made a start in the first that would lead one to believe that Brown's goat was ready to be taken. Devore walked and Doyle forced him at second. Snodgrass hit a hard single between centre and right, sending Doyle to third. Murray rolled a grasser at Brown and Doyle had an idea that he could score. Murray went around to second and Snodgrass to third, while Doyle was being run down between third and the platter.

Don't get discouraged, Bridwell might bring in these two runs. Cancel that order. Bridwell filed to Sheckard. It might be chronicled right here that any fly, any pickup, any time, inside the grounds is out while that Cub outfield is on the job.

Ames felt himself slipping in the fifth inning, but gamely pitched his way out of danger. Steinfeldt walked. Schulte sacrificing him to second. Tinker drew a pass. Kling hit a grounder at Merkle, who threw Tinker out at second. Here the Cubs were caught in their own trap. Kling went down to second, Steinfeldt trying to score on the short throw to Doyle and was nabbed sliding home.

Brown opened the sixth by fanning. Evers singled to left. So did Sheckard. Hofman jammed one into right, scoring Evers. Chance was thrown out at first by Ames. Steinfeldt then chopped off one of those teasing slashes which cut in dangerously near the third base line. It was safe by an eye-lash, and Sheckard and Hofman scored. There's a spot in the right field stand, second tier, that Schulte likes. He lifted the ball up there to exactly the same spot that he did on Tuesday off Matty. He sent in Steinfeldt ahead of him. Oh, that's enough runs, chop it off here. All right. Tinker fans. Good.

What's this? Are the Giants going to rally? Devore singles to left. Gee, get out the band. Doyle sacrifices him to second. Fine; bang the bass drum again, Snodgrass, don't forget he's leading the league, hammers a single to left, scoring Devore. Hurrah, good-night, Cubs!

Slow up there, ten miles an hour through this village, please.

Jack Murray, instead of keeping up the fusillade, hoists one which Tinker raced after and speared. Two out, but there's a chance yet. Come on, Bridwell, dent it. The ball sails between right and centre fields, and is good for a two-bagger sure. That is, if somebody will kindly step out and trip up Hofman. Another hope gone.

This way out, please, don't shove!

Dry Goods Teams Will Clash Again.

The two leading teams in the Greater New York Dry Goods League, the representatives of Saks & Co. of New York and of A. I. Namm & Son of Brooklyn, will meet for the third time at Hawthorne Field, Brooklyn, on Sunday afternoon. The teams are evenly matched, and a hard-fought contest for supremacy is promised. Two weeks ago the Saks players, with Samuels in the box, beat the Brooklynites by 11 to 10, and on last Saturday, at Taft's Oval, Brooklyn, the teams played a tie game of eleven innings. In this contest Samuels saved his team from defeat by stealing home in the eleventh inning, making the game a tie. In the struggle on Sunday Samuels will pitch for Saks and McDonough will likely officiate for Namm. The standing of the clubs in the league follows:

	W.	L.	P.C.		W.	L.	P.C.

Championship Game at Ridgewood.

The Royal Giants and Philadelphia Giants will clash on Sunday in Meyerrose Park, Covert Avenue "L" station, Ridgewood, at 2 P. M., in the first game of a double-header. The winner will tackle the Ridgewoods in the closing contest at 4 P. M. The colored championship series for this season is now going on, and the game between the Royals and the Philadelphians is one of the games of the series. The Giants are playing great ball, and the Royals will have to go some to retain the title they now hold. McClellan, Buckner, and Lindemann will be seen in action in the double-header.

Big Game at McNulty Field.

The strong colored team, the New York Black Sox, with Crawford and Collins in the points, will play the McNulty Brothers' team on Sunday at McNulty Field, 149th Street and Eighth Avenue. Donley or Archer and Seamon will be the battery for Manager Durkin's men, who say they think the Black Sox will give them one of the hardest arguments of the season. In the early contest the McNulty Reserves will play a fast amateur team.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 4.—As on Wednesday, it was the fatal eighth inning for New York to-day and the Naps made the series an even break by winning 6 to 5. For seven innings the Naps had struggled in vain to get next to Warhop's pitching. In that time they had managed to get one run, while the Yankees got four. Seven hits in all had been garnered off Warhop and two men had been battered by the ball, but when runs were needed the little pitcher tightened up a few notches and there was nothing doing.

But the fans remembered the eighth inning rally of yesterday, and waited hopefully. Their wait was not in vain. Graney started the disastrous inning with a single. Lajoie followed with his only hit of the day. Easterly did likewise, and a run came in. Niles laid down a neat sacrifice bunt, advancing the runners. Birmingham sent a bad bounder to Gardner, which the second baseman fumbled. The misplay sent him up in the air, and he failed to go for the ball. Before the centre fielder could come in for it two men had tallied, tieing the score. Then Ball, who had gone in for Rath just a few minutes before, sent a Texas leaguer back of first base. That three men tallied to get. Finally Chase picked up and threw it over second base, each runner going forward a station.

The whole team seemed to be rattled, but the crushing blow came when Cy Young made his 506d big league victory certain by driving a two-base hit to deep centre, scoring the needed runs. Turner and Stovall, the only Naps who did not get hits during the day, were easy outs, but the game was won.

New York managed to get one run in the ninth inning, but a double play nipped the rally. New York got its usual flying start. Daniels, true to his custom, hit as an opener, took third by fast sprinting while Rath was throwing out Hemphill and scored on Knight's single. That another run was not scored in that inning was due to Knight's belief that he could beat Easterly's throw in a steal to second base.

In the second inning the Yanks annexed another run, Warhop singling and scoring on Hemphill's drive. Here another run was lost because Mitchell, after a hard hit, thought he could run, and was caught by yards at second. Warhop's hit that followed would have put him on third from where he could have scored on Hemphill's drive. These two runs thus wasted on the paths were sadly needed later on.

In the fifth, singles by Knight and Chase with a stolen base added a run, and the eighth brought another on Gardner's double and Mitchell's third hit. In the ninth, after the Naps had the game packed away, Daniels and Hemphill hit safely. Knight hit into a double play just in time to prevent an extra inning affair as Cree came along with a hit that brought Daniels home. Then Cree perished trying to pilfer a base.

Cleveland's only run up to the eighth inning came in the fourth. Graney singled. Lajoie's effort was a fly to Gardner. Easterly put Graney on third by a hit and Niles with a sacrifice fly scored him. Birmingham singled, but Rath could do nothing.

Senators and Browns Split Even.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4.—St. Louis and Washington each won a game in to-day's doubleheader. Johnson's pitching beat St. Louis in the first game, score 9 to 1, and Lake was effective against the visitors in the second, score 5 to 0. Johnson had a shut-out when Street's error in the ninth inning of the first game allowed a run. The scores:

No Run in Sixteen Innings.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—"Big Ed" Walsh of the White Sox and Jack Coombs of the Athletics fought the most spectacular pitching duel of the season here to-day, going sixteen innings to a scoreless tie. Coombs shut out the locals without a hit in nine innings, and allowed but three safeties during the battle, striking out eighteen Sox. Walsh allowed six hits, and fanned ten. Three fast double plays in the closing rounds, with Eddie Collins starring, blasted Chicago's chances for going ahead. Darkness stopped the duel. Score:

Karger Driven from the Mound.

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—Detroit drove Karger from the box in the first inning to-day, scoring 4 runs and winning the game. Collins, who succeeded Karger, was effective. Willett pitched great ball, and made several fine fielding plays. Boston started a rally in the ninth, but was checked after one run had been scored. The score:

EASTERN LEAGUE.

Rochester Ties Newark for First Place in Eastern League Race.

Rochester trimmed Newark yesterday in the opening game of a series that is expected to shape the destiny of the contenders in the Eastern League, so far as pennant honors are concerned. The score was 6 to 2. The fighting Bronchos wielded their willows so furiously that "Iron Man" McGinnity had to retire in the sixth inning. The visitors got two runs across without much difficulty in the first three innings, and when the locals tied the score in the fifth George McConnell, who was on the mound, seemed to be losing his grip. He settled down, however, and held his opponents safe to the end. The game was a serious bump for the locals in that it brought the visitors to a tie for first place in the race, a berth held by the Indians a greater part of the season. The score:

Skeeters Beaten at Home.

Jersey City's homecoming failed to improve their playing qualities, and Toronto yesterday won by a score of 7 to 6. Both teams hit freely, but Kelley's men batted more consistently, bunching hits in the fourth, seventh, and eighth periods off Ferry, who retired in favor of Camnitz, who in turn gave way to Bartley. Carroll started pitching for Toronto, but retired in McGinley's favor in the eighth. The score:

THE PROGRESSIVES.

The explanation by Mr. TAFT of his unhappy course as to the tariff was, frankly, that he did the best he could with the men in control of his party. Recent events show that this course involved two serious errors. One was the abandonment of his own and his party's distinct pledges at the bidding of leaders who seemed to him at the time to control the party. The other was the assumption that ALDRICH, CANNON, PAYNE, and the rest really did possess such control. On the one hand, had Mr. TAFT stood to his own word and his party's word, had he insisted on duties based on difference of cost at home and abroad, he would have won the confidence and respect of the great body of the American people, who like courage and loyalty. On the other hand, it is now plain that he would have got what he demanded. The progressive Republicans, sneered at last Summer as "insurgents," who insisted that they represented the people of their States and that the people would back them, have made good.

They appealed to their constituents in the face of the uncalled-for and ill-judged criticism, verging on denunciation, which the President passed upon them. Opposed by the President, who went to the amazing length—he a civil service reformer of long standing—of using the patronage of his office against them, opposed by the National Congressional organization at every point, hampered, undermined, tricked in every possible fashion, these gentlemen went to the people candidly, with dignity, but with determined energy. In the two pivotal States, in Kansas and Iowa, which had furnished the most conspicuous and resolute of the progressives, they have won a sweeping victory. They have established themselves in those States as the regulars. They have reversed the verdict of the President and the standpat Washington politicians as to their standing. And especially they have completed the overthrow of CANNON and Cannonism, and broken the power of the Congressional machine through which the protected interests had got their way and which had terrorized and humiliated even Mr. TAFT. Mr. CANNON, in his madness, challenged the progressives to do their worst, and they have done it. He is practically wiped out. It is a great and significant change.

The situation of the President in the face of these developments is extremely difficult, but it is not hopeless. He has said that he did the best he could with his party under the control of ALDRICH and CANNON last year. When he meets the next Congress the control will have passed from the now weakened hands of these unworthy leaders. They will no longer be in a position to say to him that he must take what they are ready to give him, or get nothing. It may even be that the House of Representatives will have passed into the hands of the opposition. In any case it is not to be doubted that there will be a majority in the House and probably in the Senate ready to go as far as the progressives go in their declarations, and possibly further. That is to say, it will be practicable to prepare for the systematic, intelligent, and businesslike revision of the tariff, not by a sweeping measure, but by the application to one schedule after another of the principle of difference in cost of production. If Mr. TAFT is prepared to adopt and to pursue this aim, he can regain much lost ground and measurably redeem the errors of last year. He shows signs of settling down more soberly and steadily to the work of his office. He has already accomplished a degree of advance in popular confidence that hardly seemed possible a few months ago. If he can link his name with an honest, deliberate, and substantial reform of the monstrous tariff system, which is responsible for the greater part of the unrest that has prevailed for the past seven or eight years, he will deserve and will win a noble place in our political history.

IMPERILED STATE PAPERS.

The Nation needs a fireproof building for storing its precious documents. But for the zealous efforts of Chief Clerk CONNOLLY of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, the fire that broke out last Sunday in the Hoover Building in Washington would have destroyed thousands of papers, absolutely crippling the settlement of railroad cases that involve millions of dollars.

Original documents saved since the foundation of the United States are exposed in rented buildings to fire and theft. Secretary LESLIE M. SHAW called for a fireproof Hall of Records in 1904, and again in 1905. An investigation in 1906 disclosed 1,000,000 cubical feet of rented space crammed with these papers, mostly inaccessible, and accumulating at the rate of 25,000 cubical feet each year. Secretary CORTELYOU said in 1908 that the condition of the files was "precarious in the extreme." Yet Congress did nothing, except to decree that the new building of the Geological Survey should be erected on the site purchased in 1903 for a Hall of Records.

Why have the American people such passionate faith in a centralized Government that neglects its business in this fashion?

PORTER CHARLTON'S WIFE.

Because of stays granted in the case of PORTER CHARLTON, the period of forty days ended Aug. 2, within which, according to treaty, the Italian Government may demand his extradition, has been extended. Italy may yet ask for his return. Because a woman who was an American citizen has been slain on Italian soil, it is the duty of our Government to demand redress by the trial of her slayer. This is not a case of extradition simply. It has fundamentally to do with the protection of American citizens abroad. Except Italy be required to prosecute CHARLTON there can be no longer protection from murder and assault to American men and women sojourning in Italy. Their American murderers may actually return to this country and proclaim their deeds with impunity.

Our State Department is utterly wrong when it says that "it is not for the Government of the United States to seek to influence the Italian Government in its decision whether to prosecute the case to its conclusion with a view to requisition for surrender." Of course this position is assumed because Italy has hitherto refused to yield up criminals wanted in this country who have fled there for refuge. But we would not be doing Italy a favor by urging her to demand extradition in this instance; we would be demanding, rather, reasonable protection to our Nationals. While considering the case of CHARLTON, in the light of narrow precedent, the State Department has strangely ignored the case of a murdered American matron.

"UNION SHOP."

It is a pity that the striking garment makers did not see their way to accept the proposal of the employers. In the opinion of Mr. BRANDEIS, the investigator in the Ballinger case, a friend of the laboring man, a settler of strikes, and Chairman of the conference between the disputants, "the strikers would not listen to reason." The basis of this statement was that the employers had made concessions of almost everything regarding conditions of employment, and had agreed to accept arbitration of disputed remnants of controversy, except one. They insisted that they must keep control of their own shops, but declared their willingness to operate them as "union shops."

"Union shop" is a new term in labor parlance, and is worth understanding, for it differs from both the "closed shop" and the "open shop." The proposal was to admit any one to employment, but to prefer unionists. The employers were willing to employ a majority of unionists, to make formal expression of sympathy with the union, and to co-operate with the union for the improvement of all conditions of employment. In this way alone is it possible to drive out of the trade the unfair competition of the sweatshop boss, the tenement workers, and unscrupulous employers. In no other way could standards of sanitation and payment be imposed by obligation to refer differences to arbitration. This basis of peace is made impracticable by insistence upon the closed shop in all its rigor.

To reject is the right of the unionists, but it bars further appeal to public sympathy. The good faith of the employers is established.

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

Our esteemed contemporary The Richmond Dispatch discusses a little acridly the proposition to place a statue of JEFFERSON DAVIS in the old hall of the House of Representatives. Quoting Mr. WICKERSHAM'S opinion in the case of Gen. LEE, it says:

> That is the law. It is each State that is to determine for itself whom it deems worthy of this distinction, and there can be no doubt that Mississippi has had no other man who could compare with Mr. DAVIS in historic renown and distinguished civic and military service. Yet we hope that it will not determine to send his statue to Washington. He would not be honored by it. He should be spared the insults which will be heaped upon his name and memory. Let him stand among his own people. His isolation is his glory.

Mr. DAVIS occupies a marked place in American history, which the people of Mississippi may well be proud of. To them probably he will always be the embodiment of the doctrine of State rights, sustained and fought for in the interest of slavery. But there is evidence that he was also a powerful instrument in the evolution of the sentiment of nationality. He was an expansionist, what in later days would have been called an imperialist, in every fibre of his being. His imagination was aglow with the vision of a continental dominion. Slavery, for which he contended so desperately, was to him, as to the Nation, a hindrance and a curse. It made the dominion he dreamed of impossible, and dwarfed his splendid conception to the reality of a little coterie of slave-holding States struggling valiantly and hopelessly against the unifying and progressive force of nationality.

Even in this struggle Mr. DAVIS was a notable figure. The volunteers who marched through our streets in the Summer of 1861, shouting that they would "hang JEFF DAVIS on a sour apple tree," found that it took four years of terrible war even to get at that gentleman, and then that there was no sufficient warrant in law or reason for hanging him at all. To have guided such stubborn resistance to overwhelmingly superior force was a great achievement, and "his own people" are justified in cherishing his memory. And we of the North may do well to reflect that, had he been free from hampering devotion to slavery, he might have been one of the great statesmen, possibly one of the great soldiers of the Republic, as we now honor and love it. We agree that it would be well not to place his statue in the Capitol, but there are statues of many smaller men in that motley collection.

THE WESTWARD'S VICTORIES.

The Westward has now won so many victories that the handicaps are against the continuance of her victories. It is not open to us to object to that sort of sportsmanship, and, by the same token, it is not open to those who have objected to it so to practice against our boats without reproach. Anyhow, it is a distinction to a boat or to a boat builder to be labeled "hors concours." Unless it is HERRESHOFF'S wish deliberately to place himself thus outside competition, it is time for him to produce a few losers.

It was well understood that nobody could build sloops against him, and now comes the demonstration that his schooners can win against the best of Germany or of England—that is to say, of the world. This, of course, is a renewal of our triumphs with schooners. It was only after "there were no seconds" to the America that we turned to building sloops, and when there were no sloops to keep company with our racers, naturally we reverted to schooners, only to repeat the monotony of victory. It is a triumph for owners and builders, and not less a triumph for those who get out of the boats what speed was put in them. It is a pleasure to note that this point is handsomely conceded by foreign commentators on the Westward's series of victories.

THE POINTING OUT OF EVILS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial article on "The Sweep of Reform in Weights" you give a great deal of credit to Dr. REICHMANN as an initiator of this movement through calling the attention of the people to the fact that they were losing $20,000,000 annually. The case of this Dr. REICHMANN is similar to that of many other calamity shouters, who content themselves with "viewing with alarm" any of several wrongs going on in the community. The "sweep" of any reform depends upon such men as KJELLANDER, DRISCOLL, GAYNOR, and others. We have had about all the warning as to where this Nation is heading that we want, and now we want action. A Superintendent of Weights and Measures who four years ago had as much authority as our own Mayor and Mr. DRISCOLL, and has achieved nothing toward reform save knowing the existence of evil and pointing it out, but not rooting it out, hardly deserves honorable mention among those who have "went and done it." D. R.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 3, 1910.

That is, the investigator, the detective, is of no use compared with the officers who make the arrests and obtain the convictions.

Superintendent REICHMANN did not merely estimate the annual losses to the people of this State from the frauds of shopkeepers, but accompanied this estimate with specifications. He exposed their tricks. He pointed out the defects in the State's laws and in this city's ordinances. He sent two elaborate reports to Mayor GAYNOR upon the conditions in Greater New York, showing how the law was not being lived up to. He called for a reformation of our Bureau of Weights and Measures. Mayor GAYNOR responded by appointing Commissioner DRISCOLL, who has since carried out admirably Dr. REICHMANN'S programme. Dr. REICHMANN also obtained legislation creating a Department of Weights and Measures at Albany, better equipped to enforce the law throughout this State. And on Wednesday, in a speech before the Ulster County Grange, he pointed out another evil not yet remedied by law—that of a hundred different forms and sizes of barrel in common use, when one uniform size should be required for the shipment of all commodities.

If one eminent statesman carries his State, and another highly respected statesman cannot carry his State, in what position is the leader of his party which will not follow him to ask the leader who is followed to retire for the good of the party?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

More Trade Customs Disclosed.

As an argument against the threatened compulsion to sell bread by weight instead of by that vague and varying unit, "the loaf," the retailers have revealed the hitherto well-kept secret that, though they charge the same price for bread whether delivered at houses or sold over the counter, the customer who himself carries home his purchase gets somewhat more for his money than does the man who fails to take that trouble.

There is nothing intrinsically unfair in this, since it is only right that payment should be made for service rendered, and delivery is a service. But while the thing itself is honest enough, the careful concealment of this "trade custom" was distinctly dishonest, and beyond question the general belief that delivery was free, as it pretended to be, has caused a small but steady drain upon the resources of many poor people who would have avoided it had they known about the practice of making loaves of two sizes. One cannot help wondering, too, how often the over-the-counter customer has received the smaller instead of the larger loaf. That the opportunity to make an extra profit by a fraud so easy to commit and so hard to detect has been always neglected cannot be believed after the recent disclosures as to the almost universal use of inaccurate weights and measures.

But in their pleading to be let alone by that troublesome official, Commissioner DRISCOLL, the retailers of bread turned into definite knowledge what has been little more than suspicion in regard to the doings of janitors. The occupants of flats and apartment houses have long appreciated the necessity of keeping on good terms with those rulers of the basement, and have been aware that to give them tips for special favors was judicious. Why they recommended some tradesmen with fervor and spoke with scorn of others has usually, however, been allowed to remain a mystery except when it was interpreted as an evidence of interest in the welfare of tenants. Now it is openly stated that the tradesmen also tip the janitors, and have to do so or lose the privilege of making deliveries to the tenants. This custom probably violates the law against secret commissions, but the retailers have not hesitated to present it as a justification for selling loaves of two sizes at the same price! It is, of course, among the best of reasons for making weight the one basis of price for bread, and as many other commodities as possible.

No Demand for a New Coin.

Not much enthusiasm is likely to be excited by the suggestion of one of our correspondents that we need a new coin—one worth 2½ cents. There is, of course, something in his contention that if such a coin existed a great number of small purchases could be made without the apparent loss of half a cent, which now always falls on the buyer, and in the course of a year mounts up to several dollars taken from the very people for whom minute savings are important.

It is, however, not necessary to see the loss of half a cent when 3 cents, say, is paid for one of two things that could be bought for 5 cents. Just as easily one can view the 3 cents as the real unit price, and the charging of 5 instead of 6 cents for two as the usual concession to the large buyer. That gives the transactions a wholly different aspect, and there really is a fallacy in the assumption that what sells "two for 5," would or should sell "one for 2½."

Whether or not the value of our smallest coin, the cent, is too large is a question not easily answered. Many other countries have coins of less worth, and find constant use for them, just as many countries are content to reckon their money and estimate their fortunes in money that has a name for nothing larger than what corresponds more or less closely to our "quarters." The English, on the other hand, treat our dollars as fractional currency and use pennies worth twice as much as our cents. It seems to be all a matter of custom and temperament, and to make no particular difference, one way or the other.

Not a few high authorities, however, have preached our need of a smaller coin than the cent, and perhaps in time, when we get both poorer and more careful than we are now, we may have one—may even make our imaginary "mill" a reality. Only a rather lamentable state of affairs would require that. Meanwhile we are getting along well enough without a coin worth 2½ cents, and it would make a troublesome break in our decimal system—a system far from perfect, as is shown by the existence of our "quarters" and "nickels," but of such convenience in computation that we would not dream of abandoning it for any other.

No Doubt of the Meeting.

Whether the international aviation meeting be held at Belmont Park or at Garden City is a question which will not worry the public at all. Its only concern is that nothing shall deprive it of the privilege of seeing in the vicinity of New York such a gathering of aerial crafts and crews as has filled with wonder and delight the inhabitants of not a few other towns, both in this country and abroad.

Fortunately we are not threatened with this loss. The highly regrettable disagreements that have developed among the managers of the meeting have resulted in a change of plan, but not in an abandonment of the undertaking, and it is safe to prophesy that before the arrival of the week set for the contests and exhibitions of the airmen the present misunderstandings and controversies will have been forgotten by everybody except the direct participants.

The enterprise remains in the hands of men competent and determined to make a success of it, and the one difficulty, that of holding the international race for the Bennett trophy over the Belmont Park course, can be easily overcome by transferring it to the aviation field at Garden City. What New York has yet seen of mechanical flight has been only enough to arouse a keen desire for more of these wonderful spectacles, and the Aero Corporation, Limited, promises to satisfy it between Oct. 15 and 23—weather permitting. That seems to be the only uncertainty in the matter, in spite of wars and rumors of wars.

"Coasting."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It was with interest that I read your article on the introduction of "coasting." I opened my eyes, for twenty years ago, in Massachusetts, we boys did a large amount of—what? "Sliding down hill?" Never! We "coasted," and the "coast" was fully a mile. The girls on high sleds would "slide down hill." And, mark my word, we would never "stay in doors" when there was "coasting." Of course, if we had realized that it was without warrant in the etymological or the legitimate secondary meanings of the word "coast" we might have hesitated, but, though almost in the shadow of the golden dome, it was never called to our attention and we kept right on "coasting," totally oblivious of the mistakes we were making. I am forced to believe that the critic's "sliding down hill" was confined to such precipitous points as Murray or San Juan Hill. W. NEWTON.

Bathing Beaches Threatened.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In connection with the proposed plan of the Passaic Valley Sewer Commission to empty sewage into New York Bay, near Robbin's Reef, I beg to state emphatically through your columns that I am unalterably opposed to such a plan. The Summer residents at Keansburg Beach and in close proximity, numbering several thousands, who are attracted by the bathing, would, without question, be scared off, and make other arrangements for their Summer pleasures, thus affecting in a very large measure the available taxing property of shores near New York City within commuting distance.

You will of course appreciate that the Lord is not making any more beach fronts, and the immense popularity which attends the various resorts near New York City speaks for itself in no uncertain measure.

W. E. DRUMMOND.

SCOTT ON CONSERVATION.

Editor of Oregonian Speaks for State Control of Resources.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The editor of The Portland Oregonian, Col. Harvey W. Scott, was in Baltimore the other day, and upon being interviewed by The Baltimore Sun put a damper on conservation as proclaimed by its leading exponent, President Bernard N. Baker of that city.

Col. Scott said that the West was strongly opposed to the Eastern policy of governing the natural resources of the West. He believes that the East should attend to its own rivers, forests, minerals, and oil wells and allow the people of the West to "paddle their own canoe."

He said those who are attempting to prescribe conservation of the natural resources in the West did not have the ability to solve similar questions in regard to the Potomac River, and he added:

> Yet they want to say how the States west of the Mississippi River shall and shall not act in regard to what is, both geographically and naturally, their own territory.

The Colonel not only gave his personal opinion, but acted as a spokesman for the entire West, when he declared that the people of the Western States do not like and will not willingly put up with the policy of the East in bottling of Western resources. He said:

> Let the East remove the evils connected with its resources, and then it might be able to advance theories as to how the West shall and shall not act.

According to this, the Conservation Congress at St. Paul will be anything but the amicable gathering that President Baker repeatedly asserts it will be.

FRANCIS B. LIVESEY.

STUDY EHRLICH'S REMEDY.

Not Yet Ready to Pronounce In Favor of Specific for Blood Poison.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The article in to-day's TIMES, "Finds a Specific for Blood Diseases," gives an account of an interview with Dr. S. J. Meltzer of the Rockefeller Institute in regard to a new remedy discovered by Prof. Ehrlich for the cure of the most common and most serious of all blood diseases. The impression made by this article upon the lay reader is that the new remedy has been conclusively proved to be superior to all others which have been hitherto used, and that its acceptance by the entire profession in place of the old-fashioned preparation—mercury and the iodides—is a settled thing. I prefer to believe that Dr. Meltzer, whose eminence as an investigator and whose conservatism are too well known to need comment, did not mean to convey this impression.

Ehrlich himself, at the meeting of the Berlin Medical Society on June 22—a report of the proceedings lies before me as I write—emphatically states that, while excellent results have been obtained with "No. 606," it will take thousands of cases carefully observed through a number of years to determine its true value upon the future of the disease and of the patient. The remedy is now known to have splendid effects on the evidences of the disease, which for the time being exist in a patient, but we do not know whether it will prove superior to mercury and the iodides in preventing later complications.

Furthermore, and this is what the public should know, no one knows as yet whether the new remedy may not produce poisonous effects in man like some of the other organic arsenic compounds which have been used for the same disease. A number of cases of complete and permanent blindness have been recorded with the use of the other arsenic preparations, and this blindness occurred so suddenly and unexpectedly that every specialist and every practitioner is to-day wary in employing these compounds. Now, so far as a few months' experience goes, no cases of poisoning with Ehrlich's new remedy have been observed, even after large doses. As Ehrlich says, however, we are still uncertain as to its complete freedom from bad effects. To show how deeply he feels this he might add that he insists on reserving for the present the use of the remedy to hospital practice, neither allowing its sale nor its use in private patients.

OUTDOOR MUSIC.

Favors Religious Festivals as Carried Out in England.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The great festival of religious music which Mr. W. J. Lampton pictures so well would be better for holding in Central Park or Prospect Park. Let the song be amid trees, green sward, and sunshine. The Anglicans have a great habit of doing these pleasing things. The greatest festival I remember was given by Edwin Jones, the Mayor of Southampton, to all the Sunday school children of that town and vicinity. There the singing rolled out in great shape to the strains of six famous military bands. The Anglican Church choirs meet triennially at the cathedral of their diocese, and then there is a grand musical occasion. It is all very inspiring. When Canon Basil Wilberforce lived at Southampton he was very partial to these outdoor festivals of religious music and he tried to attract all denominations. He used the parklike grounds of the Deanery, which were in every way suited for this purpose, and engaged the local volunteer regiment band. I still have one of the programmes, and I notice that there is a good selection of Moody and Sankey's. Another leaflet of music I retain is that of a choral festival held by St. Lawrence's Church at the ruins of Netley Abbey. Of Netley Abbey I must quote an exclamation of Sir Horace Walpole's: "They are not the ruins of Netley, but of Paradise. Oh! The purple Abbots! What a spot they have chosen to slumber in."

Religious music, which is the most beautiful of all, should receive every encouragement, as Mr. Lampton suggests so well, but no assistance can be expected from the clergy, for I observe that they are so absorbed and troubled by the business and finances of their charges that they are unable to turn out of the usual rut of church routine, although very willing and anxious to do so. THE CURE FOR CRIME.

Think It Is Not to be Found In Severer Punishments.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

According to "J. W. E.," the criminal instinct is latent in some people. This may or may not be true. It cannot be proved. If it is true, it is latent in everybody, and is brought to the surface under certain conditions, such as hunger or want.

"J. W. E." asks for my cure. I have none. Under such complex conditions as we live there must always be some who are in need of money and to whom a temptation to secure money in a manner known as illegal is offered. If the burglar to be succumbs to this temptation and is successful, he will continue to obtain money in this easy way.

He will not starve, however. If the penalty is death he will risk it and take greater chances. But steal he will. If some wise man will find a system of living under which there is no such thing as want he will not only do away with burglary, but also with every form of crime. C. VAN B.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"J. W. E." who advocates capital punishment for thieves, belongs to the fourteenth century. He certainly is out of place in an era when capital punishment applied even to murderers is not in favor among those who know and think. R. C. SCHROEDER.

NEWMAN QUITS JUDGE FOSTER

Controller Charged Him with Running a Law Office in Court's Chambers.

Jacob Newman, the personal attendant to Judge Warren W. Foster of General Sessions, whose pay was held up by Controller Prendergast on the ground that he has been illegally carrying on private law practice from the Judge's chambers in the Criminal Courts Building, has resigned.

Judge Foster informed the Controller's office of the resignation yesterday in a letter, in which he denies the majority of the charges made by Mr. Prendergast against Newman. Judge Foster said:

> It would appear from your letter that it is your opinion that Jacob Newman, whom you have styled my "personal attendant," was prohibited from practicing law. You will find by the official records that Mr. Newman is rated as an "attendant to a Judge," and not as a "court attendant," and between the two ratings there is, in my opinion, a clear distinction in law as well as in title.
>
> The "court attendants" are competitive civil service officers, while an "attendant to a Judge" is a non-civil service, non-competitive appointee, made at the discretion of and removable at any time by the Judge appointing him. Each Judge of the Court of General Sessions has the legal right to appoint one such attendant, and his duties are such as the Judge may assign to him, hence I believe that there is nothing in the law which forbids Mr. Newman to engage in practice. Whether or not I am right in this view, however, has become a mooted question, for Mr. Newman has resigned his position as my attendant. This he has been desirous of doing ever since he was admitted to the bar.
>
> He has remained with me only at my solicitation. I have induced him so to do because I have felt that the advantage which the public derived from having in its employ in this capacity a young lawyer of such intelligence, integrity, and ability justified me in urging him to make the sacrifice. I do not think it would be fair to him to urge him to continue now that he has been made the subject of an attack.
>
> You say that you are informed "that Mr. Newman performs none of the ordinary duties of an attendant to a Judge." The facts are Mr. Newman looked after my official correspondence, taking entire charge of it in my absence; saw stenomsoever called for me when I was on the bench, ascertained for me in the first instance their business with me, referring them to me only when necessary; received all legal papers submitted by the bar to the court, and made such investigations as I required or directed. To perform the many responsible duties which I put upon him required not only long hours of constant attendance in my chambers, but a high degree of intelligence, learning, ability, tact, and discretion, all of which he brought to bear to the entire satisfaction not only of myself, but also, I have reason to believe, to the satisfaction of all with whom he came in contact in official relations. Your information, therefore, would seem to be misguided; so, in fact, are such other statements, as, for instance, that the offices occupied by him were entirely remodeled and renovated under his personal direction; that "commodious space," postage, telephone, &c., were furnished him, &c. The facts are that the small anteroom of my chambers occupied by him and by a stenographer was remodeled together with the other chambers of the other Judges, pursuant to a departmental architect plan; in all the work connected therewith Mr. Newman looked after such details as I directed.
>
> Equally unfounded are statements that he has availed himself of the services of stenographers and clerks of this court in his practice. Mr. Newman informs me, and I believe him, that he has maintained an office, and has personally defrayed all expenses incidental to his private practice, which I may indicate is confined to civil cases, and I may add that I have paid him myself for such private work as he has done for me.

Acting Controller Mathewson would not comment upon the letter, except to say that the resignation relieves the office of all jurisdiction over the matter. He added, however, that Judge Foster had apparently overlooked some of the most important specifications in the Controller's charges.

42D ST. WIDENING BEGINS.

Workmen Start to Tear Down the Entrance to the Hotel Manhattan.

Those passing the Hotel Manhattan, at Madison Avenue and Forty-second Street, yesterday, gazed with surprise at the work of destruction going on in front of the building. The handsome wrought iron porte-cochère was being torn down, and workmen were putting up scaffolding preparatory to tearing out the massive marble columns and the broad stone steps of the main entrance.

The recent action of the Board of Estimate for the widening of Forty-second Street explains why the hotel was removing some of its most artistic fixtures. The hotel is the first to begin actual work in complying with the order to remove its projections beyond the building line for the widening of the street.

Manager Boden said that the order was received early in the week to have all obstructions removed in ninety days. The work has begun somewhat earlier than is necessary on other sides of the street as the Subway platform at the Grand Central Station is being lengthened.

The hotel over a month ago began removing some of its boilers and other apparatus from the vaults projecting fifteen feet or more beyond the building line below the surface. The platform lengthening and the street widening are being done together at this point.

Besides the grand entrance, the stairs leading to the restaurant and barber shop in the basement, on both Madison Avenue and Forty-second Street, will be removed. With the lengthening of the Subway platform there will be an entrance to the Subway from the interior of the hotel, as in the case of the Hotel Belmont, and a new exit will be provided on the Forty-second Street side, close to the building line, similar to the stairway adjoining the Lincoln Bank Building.

The Hotel Knickerbocker and the theatres west of Broadway, and other Forty-second Street tenants, will have until April 1 to begin removing their obstructions, and by next Summer it is proposed to have the widening of the street completed.

PRESIDENT MONTT'S BUSY DAY

Goes Shopping, Attends to Correspondence, and Receives Many Callers.

For a man stopping in New York only a few days on his way to Europe in quest of health, President Pedro Montt of Chile had a fairly lively time yesterday. In the morning he went on a shopping trip, which was followed by luncheon at the Ardsley Club. In the afternoon he was besieged with callers, including a number of Chileans in New York and all the South American Consuls. Soon after 5 o'clock Mayor Gaynor called. The Mayor was shown to the suite at the Hotel Plaza occupied by the President and his party, where he stayed for a talk that lasted fifteen minutes.

Peremptory business matters, that meant the sending of many letters and cablegrams, kept President Montt in his rooms till nearly 9 o'clock last evening, when three of the hotel automobiles were summoned to take the party to the Lew Fields Theatre, where boxes had been engaged for the "Summer Widowers." This noon they go to Boston, stopping at the Touraine until Saturday, when they take luncheon with President Taft at Beverly. Then New York again, and the time before the sails for Germany on Tuesday President Montt will devote either to Washington or West Point.

The President's party includes his wife and his sister-in-law, his military aid, Col. Bari; his physician, Dr. Munich; his private secretary, Herman Echeverria and his private chaplain. The escort designated by President Taft includes Chandler Hale, Third Assistant Secretary of State; Major Gen. William H. Carter, U. S. A., Assistant Chief of Staff, and Capt. H. P. M. Huse, U. S. N., Commandant of the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

BUILDING INSPECTORS OUT.

Four Dismissed In the Bronx for Falsely Reporting on Plumbing Work.

Chief Building Inspector William Henderson of the Bronx Department of Buildings yesterday dismissed Inspectors William King, William J. Daly, and John J. Howley and fined Inspector John C. Spears ten days' pay.

Henderson was acting for Superintendent of Buildings Joseph H. Jones, who is temporarily absent. The four men were charged with making false inspections and reports concerning the plumbing work in five apartment houses in Adams Street, near 182d Street.

Henry Farrell of 2,255 Bathgate Avenue bid on the plumbing work, but his figures were higher than those of another man, who obtained the contract. When the work was almost finished Farrell complained to the Building Department that it could not have been done properly or according to law for the figure bid by his rival, and an inquiry resulted.

FALSE MARKS STOP GOODS IN CUSTOMS

After Aug. 15 Dry Goods Incorrectly Measured Will Be Denied Entry at This Port.

LOEB MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT

Consignment Worth $500,000 Now Held Up by Collector for Correction in the Size Figures.

Following the line of attack started recently by Clement G. Driscoll, City Commissioner of Weights and Measures, Collector Loeb has issued an order to Appraiser Wanmaker to the effect that after Aug. 15 all dry goods falsely marked as to measurement will not be admitted at the port of New York. The order includes everything from lace curtains to shoe strings, and it has spread the greatest dismay and confusion among the importers big and little in this city.

Although such admission has always been illegal, and although it is expressly forbidden in Section 7 of the present tariff law, the custom authorities have winked at the violation for years, believing that the Government was not defrauded thereby. If a curtain were marked 36 by 40, and the actual size were 32 by 34, it was on the actual size that the duty would be computed, so that the Federal revenue did not suffer. Many goods have entered this port on such false markings, although some have always been marked correctly.

There is little doubt in the minds of the authorities that the importers were fully aware of what they were doing. In many cases their invoices have the sizes for the same piece of goods ranged in three columns, headed actual size, marked size, and Custom House size. Upon the arrival of a shoe string marked thirty inches the importer would point out that its actual size was only twenty-eight inches, which correction being obligingly verified for the customs schedules the importer would pay the lesser duty. That he could be sure of the needed alteration without any examination of the goods is proof enough for Mr. Driscoll that the goods were ordered with the false marking.

Collector Loeb gives the importers until Aug. 15 to adjust themselves to the new order of things, far shorter shrift than the four or five months allowed the retail dealers here after Mr. Driscoll fired his first gun. At first all falsely measured goods were held for correction, and immediately more than a million dollars worth piled up. One importer had a consignment of nearly $500,000 thus caught. After Aug. 15 such a consignment will not be admitted.

When Mr. Driscoll started his campaign some of the more restive dealers pointed out that the custom of incorrectly marking goods was permitted by the United States Government, and pointed to the Custom House by way of proof. That started all their present troubles.

In explanation of so extensive a fraud importers say that the custom began years ago, and that they can no more alter the accepted markings now than they could alter a trade mark. Wherever a certain style of dry goods has found a market, the purchasers will distrust the offer of anything bearing an apparent reduction in size. If this is their defense, Mr. Driscoll does not think much of it. At all events the new order from Collector Loeb will change everything.

Now it is understood that the importers here have the cables to Ireland, Germany, and France burdened with rush messages containing orders that the houses abroad shall immediately adopt the novel practice of marking a seventy-two-inch piece of goods seventy-two inches.

With this much accomplished, Commissioner Driscoll said last night that he was turning his attention to a new work, one that he is not yet sure lies within his authority. If a merchant may not offer for sale an article incorrectly marked as to quantity, why should he be allowed to do so with an article incorrectly marked as to quality? If he may not call a piece of goods "a yard wide" unless it is a yard wide, may he describe it as "pure wool" when it is part cotton?

Whether an attack on fraud of this character lies within the powers of the Commissioner of Weights and Measures, Mr. Driscoll is not sure, and he has put it up to Corporation Counsel Watson, from whom he has yet to hear. Anyway, he is itching to start in on it. Some people are wondering whether such a reform, were Mr. Driscoll allowed to undertake it, would reach as far and disturb the habits of so many people as has his attack on fraudulent weights and measures, which began with the pushcart peddler and the local dealer, and is now the subject for excited cablegrams to various parts of Europe.

SUES FOR FATHER'S ESTATE.

Disinherited Son, Fighting His Stepmother, Asks a Receiver.

Frank X. Pettit applied yesterday to Supreme Court Justice Bischoff to appoint a receiver for the estate of his father, William B. Pettit, who left property valued at more than $100,000. Decision was reserved.

William B. Pettit was a retired builder and a member of the General Committee of Tammany Hall. His son, who is a broker, has brought also a suit against Alice B. Pettit, his father's second wife, to have set aside the will made by his father, which practically disinherited him. It is pending the determination of this suit he wants a receiver appointed.

Mrs. Mary A. Pettit, his mother, died in 1893, and a year afterward his father married again. To the plaintiff he left only his gold watch and chain, wearing apparel, and burial plot in St. Mary's Cemetery at Nepperhan, N. J. To his widow he left his residence, 113 West Eighty-fourth Street, with its contents, and a gold watch and chain. The residue he divided equally between his son and widow.

Counsel for Pettit said his stepmother was endeavoring to prevent Pettit from getting anything. He asserted that she was collecting rents, and as she had no income except from her husband's estate, it was necessary that a receiver be appointed. Counsel also said Mr. Pettit at one time was confined in Bloomingdale Insane Asylum, and was not of sound mind when he made his will.

Wilmer J. McAllister, counsel for Mrs. Pettit, denied she was squandering the estate or that there was any need for a receiver. McAllister is named as a defendant in the suit, he being a beneficiary under William B. Pettit's will; Stephen O. Lockwood, one of his partners, also is a defendant, as executor. Pettit's will was admitted to probate by Surrogate Thomas on June 14 last.

BLIND POOR GET PENSIONS.

300 of City's Dependents Each Receive $48 Out of $75,000 Fund.

The city paymasters yesterday paid off 300 blind poor in the Bureau of Dependent Adults of the Charities Department, at the foot of East Twenty-sixth Street. The other $16 will be paid to-morrow. Each of the blind, whose application for the stipend is approved, receives $48 from the fund of $75,000 devoted this year by the city for the adult blind poor of all the boroughs.

All ages and conditions were represented. Many old women were led by their younger relatives. For the most part the blind represented persons engaged in some occupation, peddlers, piano players, and the like. There was a good deal of badinage indulged in by the applicants for relief.

"It's a long time since I saw you, Mr. Meeks," said one old man to the Superintendent of the Bureau of Dependent Adults.

"Take your hand out of Murphy's pocket," said another to an old crony. Every one laughed.

MRS. BULL TELLS HOW SHE LOST HER MONEY

Mrs. Hopkins Persuaded Her She Could Throw It from Her Carriage Door Out of Profits.

SHARP RETORTS TO COUNSEL

"Sir, What Are You Trying to Insinuate?" She Answers—Threw Papers at Attorney and Then Apologized.

Mrs. Mary Nevins Bull, widow of Dr. William T. Bull, amplified her story of how she was induced by John A. Qualey, the asbestos promoter, to make out checks for $35,000, payable to Harvey Wiley Corbett, yesterday in a continuation of an examination before Magistrate Krotel in his private chambers in the Harlem Court. The activities in behalf of Qualey by Mrs. Ellen Dunlap Hopkins, in whose School of Applied Design for Women Corbett was an instructor, were further described. Mrs. Bull testified that Mrs. Hopkins had told her that she expected to become so rich out of the profits of the Qualey-Corbett Magnesia-Asbestos venture that she could "throw money out of her carriage windows."

Mrs. Bull declared the only time she had ever had a talk with Corbett was a few days before his arrest, "when he came to me to offer me $15,000 of my money back."

"You won't forget that conversation, will you, Mr. Corbett?" exclaimed Mrs. Bull, when her outburst was checked.

Charles L. Craig, her attorney, said that Corbett had made the visit to her to keep an appointment made by Qualey. His proposition, Mr. Craig said, was to give Mrs. Bull a note for $15,000 and to pay her the other $20,000 obtained from her in four monthly installments of $5,000 each. Mrs. Bull rejected this proposal.

Mr. McIntyre opened Mrs. Bull's cross-examination by asking her whether she had not on July 29 begun a civil action to recover her $35,000, and if she had read the complaint in that action.

"I left myself in Mr. Lauterbach's hands," she replied. "I signed whatever papers he asked me." Mr. McIntyre insisted that Mrs. Bull's complaint corroborated what he intends to interpose as a defense for his clients, that they had expended the money obtained from Mrs. Bull to make improvements in the Newark plant.

Out With Mrs. Hopkins Now.

"Is Mrs. Hopkins a good friend of yours still?" inquired Mr. McIntyre.

"She was up to the time she introduced me to Mr. Qualey, and now that I understand the object for which she introduced me, no."

"Did you ever ask Mr. Qualey to call on you at your apartments at the Hotel Warrington?"

"Yes, I did."

"Did you call him up at the Hotel St. Louis and say to him over the telephone:

"'I am Mary Nevins of Columbus'?"

"No. What can you be thinking of? He said he knew me when I was Mary Nevins."

"Weren't you and Mr. Qualey children together?"

"Why, not at all. Nonsense, nonsense. Why, he is at least fifteen years older than I."

"And you didn't know him before Mrs. Hopkins introduced you?"

"I had heard of him in Columbus—more of his brother Joseph than of him—and I had heard of him slightly since. That's all."

"He's 42 years old, and you say you are fifteen years younger than he is. Is that possible?"

"Well, he's older than my oldest brother, Richard, and I am the youngest of six children."

"You seem to know quite a lot about a family you said you didn't know at all, don't you?"

The question was objected to, and Magistrate Krotel reminded Mr. McIntyre that inquiries into Mrs. Bull's age had been ruled out the previous day.

Mrs. Bull Becomes Excited.

"How long did you talk with him in your apartments in the Hotel Warrington?"

"About an hour and a half."

"And at that time you got out a bag of papers concerning the estate of your late husband and showed them to him, didn't you?"

"Not at the Warrington."

"And you mailed to him a copy of your deceased husband's will, didn't you?"

Mrs. Bull hesitated. Mr. McIntyre reached in a portfolio. Qualey edged forward and plucked out a will from among the mass of legal papers and handed it to his lawyer. Mr. McIntyre held it up.

"This is the will, isn't it?" he asked.

Mrs. Bull stood up in her place at the table livid with rage. She shouted at the top of her voice:

"You mean to say you kept it. Well, you're a worse man than I thought you were."

Mrs. Bull threw the papers across the table at Mr. McIntyre. He protested at the "rudeness of the witness," and Mrs. Bull apologized.

At another time Mrs. Bull's testimony led to laughter in the room. Magistrate Krotel rapped sharply with his gavel, and Mrs. Bull exclaimed:

"Oh! Don't do that! You nearly scared me to death."

Magistrate Krotel chuckled and said:

"I'm sorry, madam."

"You mailed it to him, didn't you?" pursued Mr. McIntyre, referring to the will.

"No," replied Mrs. Bull, "I am under the impression that he took it with him."

"Did you tell him that you had a great deal of difficulty with the executors of your husband's estate and that you wanted to resign as executrix," pressed Mr. McIntyre.

"Do I have to answer that question?" Mrs. Bull asked, turning to her counsel with an expression of annoyance. After a shrug from Mr. Craig, Mrs. Bull admitted that she had.

"And didn't Mr. Qualey tell you that it would be unwise to resign as executrix?"

"He did."

"And did you say to Mr. Qualey that you couldn't get along with Mr. Young, your co-executor?"

"Yes, I told him I had some difficulty."

"Did you tell Mr. Qualey Mr. Young was handling the funds of the estate improperly and attempting to do you out of what was properly yours?" This question enraged Mrs. Bull.

"Mr. Young's books—you can have them if you want to—show that everything is all right."

"But didn't you make such an accusation in a letter to Mr. Qualey?"

"No."

McIntyre Flashes Proof.

Mr. McIntyre fished again in his portfolio and produced a letter on mourning stationery. Mrs. Bull recognized the letter and, before Mr. McIntyre could speak, she shouted:

"Yes, I sent that letter. That shows who got my $35,000. That shows who the sufferer is. Mr. Young said he would resign if I put the insurance money back in the estate."

"Did you tell Mr. Qualey that you wanted income, that your husband's property was all tied up in real estate, and you had to carry the property out of moneys left by your late husband?"

"Yes."

"And you invited Mr. Qualey to be your guest at your villa in Newport?"

"I invited Mrs. Hopkins and Mr. Qualey."

"And you persuaded him and urged him to give up an engagement in Boston to come, didn't you?"

"I didn't have to persuade him in the slightest."

"And how long did he stay?"

"Over Monday night and over Tuesday. My children were there."

Mrs. Bull said she discussed business affairs with Qualey in Mrs. Hopkins's presence.

"And you were greatly influenced by what Mrs. Hopkins said, weren't you?"

"Undoubtedly I was. She has a wonderful mind, a mind like a man. She said she was going to buy an auto in the Fall. She had a beautiful home. Her whole status in life has been changed since I knew her before, and it had all come about since she knew Mr. Qualey."

"And you wanted to get money so you could throw it out of your carriage windows, too, when you heard from Mrs. Hopkins how easy she was making it, didn't you?"

"Wouldn't you yourself?" asked Mrs. Bull.

"Indeed I would," replied Mr. McIntyre.

Challenges an Insinuation.

"Didn't you have some private conversations with Mr. Qualey while he was at your villa?"

"Sir, what are you trying to insinuate?" responded Mrs. Bull, who denied that she had ever been alone with Mr. Qualey.

"Didn't Mr. Qualey tell you that he wanted money to build up and improve his factories?"

"Tell me he wanted money? No, he was too clever for that. I thought that the profits from the Newark plant were being used to develop the other plants. I wouldn't have put my money in something that needed money."

When she was asked about conversations with Corbett Mrs. Bull said:

"I've only had one conversation with Mr. Corbett. That was a week ago. It was a very vigorous conversation. You remember it, don't you, Mr. Corbett?"

Mrs. Bull suffered greatly from the heat, and fanned herself continually. She sipped sparkling iced water.

Jacob Miller of 1218 Third Avenue, called at the court and intercepted Corbett as he was entering the building. Miller said he had invested $1,000 in the company and wanted his money back. Corbett talked to him for some minutes. Miller seemed satisfied, and told reporters that Corbett had convinced him he was mistaken.

Frank M. Simonson of 241 Hooper Street, Brooklyn, met Mr. Craig in the corridor of the court room and showed him an agreement which Qualey had drawn up in 1901. By this agreement Simonson was to get a $1,500 position in the Newark factory by paying $1,000 for stock. The position was not given, and Simonson has had no return on his money. Mr. Craig told Simonson his claim was outlawed, but he would consult with him further to-day.

McKIM'S APPEAL DISMISSED.

Divorce Suit of His Wife Must Be Tried on Its Merits.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev. Aug. 4.—The Supreme Court of Nevada handed down to-day a decision in the McKim case, sustaining the decision of Judge Pike of the District Court and dismissing the appeal of Dr. Smith Hollins McKim from the decision which denied McKim permission to appear specially and file a plea in the abatement to the divorce complaint of his wife and to attack the jurisdiction of the court in her suit. When this permission was denied Dr. McKim appealed to the Supreme Court, asking for a restraining order to prohibit the district court from hearing the case and to force the district court to allow him to file the plea in abatement.

Mrs. Margaret McKim won every contention, and her husband must now either answer her complaint or allow her to get a divorce by default. The Supreme Court in its decision said:

"The petition presents a question of considerable importance, and we believe it best to decide the question upon its merits rather than on any technicality that might arise. It is the duty of the court in divorce proceedings to see that the proof of residence is clear and convincing, and that a fraud is not being perpetrated. In this case it is believed that the trial court will allow the defendant to file an answer in the case. The question of the sufficiency of the evidence to establish bona fide residence must be taken upon appeal and not by this proceeding. The motion is dismissed and the decision of the trial court is sustained."

The decision was written by Chief Justice Norcross. This decision will put the minds of many Eastern divorcees at rest, and has lifted a great load from the mind of Mrs. McKim. She said to-night:

"Now the case can be tried on its real merits, and I am sure I will get my divorce. All I wanted was a fair trial and he did not want me to have it. Now I can go to trial and prove my case."

TETRAZZINI'S CONCERT TOUR.

Prima Donna Says She Will Appear Under Direction of W. H. Leahy.

Just what Luisa Tetrazzini is going to do next season probably nobody but that prima donna herself will know until she arrives in America. However, the latest report seems to be the most authoritative of any so far issued, as it begins with a letter from the Italian soprano herself.

"To whom it may concern," it reads:

"So many statements having appeared in the American press from managers who claim to have contracts with me I now declare that the only person authorized to represent me in the United States of America, and the only person with whom I have a contract is W. H. Leahy of San Francisco, Cal., under whose management and direction I will appear in the United States of America during the season of 1910-11."

"LUISA TETRAZZINI.

"London, July 26, 1910."

W. H. Leahy, the San Francisco impresario, returned from London yesterday on the Oceanic.

"Mme. Tetrazzini," he said at the Hotel Belmont, "is to appear in concerts in all the principal cities of the United States and in opera in San Francisco in conjunction with the opera company under the direction of George Polacco. Mme. Tetrazzini will arrive in November, and will immediately begin her concert tour, giving her first concert in New York. Then she will go to Philadelphia, St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City, and other large cities."

Mr. Leahy has been manager of the Tivoli Opera House in San Francisco for twenty years. It was under his direction that Mme. Tetrazzini sang in that theatre before she had appeared in New York. Mr. Leahy left on the 5:30 P. M. train for San Francisco.

Upon his arrival in America, about three weeks ago, Oscar Hammerstein announced that he still retained a contract with Mme. Tetrazzini and that he intended to send her out on a concert tour.

"Before Fall comes," he announced, "I shall send her over her passage money."

It is understood that Mr. Hammerstein will therefore have a great deal to say about the latest contract that this prima donna has made.

Miss Rogers to Wed G. H. Earle, Jr.

The engagement is reported from the Adirondacks of Miss Cornelia Rogers, a daughter of William Evans Rogers and the late Mrs. Rogers, to George H. Earle, Jr., the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Earle of Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. Earle are spending the Summer at Camp Katia, their Summer place on the Upper St. Regis, N. Y.

The late Mrs. Rogers, who died a few years ago, was Miss Susan Le Roy Fish, a sister of Stuyvesant Fish, whose son, Stuyvesant Fish, Jr., married Miss Mildred I. Dick recently. Miss Rogers has a brother, William Beverley Rogers, who married Miss Grace Chapin, and a sister, Miss Harriette Rogers.

Mr. Earle has a brother, Ralph Earle. His mother was Miss Catharine H. French. Miss Rogers is now the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Earle at Camp Katia.

Horace A. Taylor Seriously Ill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Horace A. Taylor, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and United States Consul to France in 1881-4, is seriously ill at his home in this city. Mr. Taylor, who is 73 years old, lived for many years in Wisconsin, where he was prominent in business and political affairs. He was United States Commissioner of Railroads in 1889-93, and was made Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in 1897, serving in that post until a year ago.

HORSE SHOW DRAWS BIG SOCIETY CROWD

Jersey Shore Colony Turns Out in Force at Spring Lake Annual Exhibition.

SONIA LEADS SADDLE HORSES

Andrew Morison's Champion Makes Fine Showing—Mrs. Fitler's Harness Horses Take Many Prizes.

Special to The New York Times.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 4.—The Spring Lake Horse Show, which is one of the most attractive of the Summer circuit, opened here to-day on the pretty grounds of the Spring Lake Country Club. Although the big horse show stables did not send any entries, the class and quantity were of a sufficient calibre to insure success. The grounds are located in the heart of the prettiest part of New Jersey, and the exhibits are largely confined to the residents of the State. The exclusiveness of the exhibition is one of its principal charms, and the competition is marked by keen rivalry.

Although one of the latest aspirants for horse show honors, the Spring Lake Country Club has set a mark that will keep other organizations alive to maintain the pace. President W. H. T. Huhn, who is one of the best polo players in the country, sacrificed his chances of winning the Point Judith tournament to be on hand to carry the show to a successful completion. He was in the finals at Narragansett Pier, but brought his ponies to Spring Lake to compete, and it is these sportsmanlike actions that materially contribute to the success of the show.

Andrew Morison, who during the past few years has forged to the front of horse show exhibitors, made a prominent showing with his stable of saddle horses. With his peerless chestnut mare Sonia he led the exhibitors in the saddle horse class, and easily carried off the honors of the day.

Boxes and Grand Stand Filled.

The Summer colony of the Jersey shore was well represented. The boxes were filled, and the grand stand, which has been nelarged, was also well filled, nor did the threatening weather of the early afternoon keep down the attendance, which was considerably in excess of last year for the opening day.

The parking spaces were well filled, and many of the visitors traveled many miles to grace the opening with their presence. Long Branch, Asbury Park, Sea Girt, West End, Sea Bright, and other Summer colonies contributed their quota to the crowd, while New York and Philadelphia were well represented among the following society people:

William H. T. Huhn, Richard Cadwalader, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Marburg, J. W. Converse, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Morison, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Rolin, Mr. and Mrs. Willing G. Sickel, Capt. and Mrs. Steel, Harry Content, Miss Content, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marburg, Mr. and Mrs. C. Cecil Fitler, Miss Claire Frismuth, Miss Nash, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gibbs, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Townsend of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Wells, Miss Tenney Wells, Miss Sophie McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Allen, Mrs. Daniel O'Day, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. C. Bow Dougherty, Mr. and Mrs. Forbes Hennesey, Mrs. John F. Betz, Miss Gallagher, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Blackwell, Mr. and Mrs. James Thomas, Charles G. Roebling, Miss Helen Roebling, J. W. Converse, George H. Kendrick, 3rd, H. D. Reilly, Charles K. Bispham, John L. Conaway, S. P. Huhn, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Carty, Mrs. Belle Beach Bain.

Mrs. Horace Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Moreland of Pittsburg, F. S. Conover, F. W. C. Trexler, the Misses Gibbs, Miss DeBosque, Mrs. L. A. Dalrymple Perceval, Mrs. D. O. Slaezinger, George W. Ralph of Baltimore, Charles A. Baudouine, George B. Holme, Miss Wassermann, Miss Nathan, Dr. and Mrs. L. Culler, F. S. Baird, Miss Marjorie N. Cohen, Mrs. E. W. Elliott, H. R. Guggenheim, Lieut. P. H. James, Peter Hauck, Jr., James Hever, Miss Florence Levi, Miss Addie Burgess Murr, Miss Laura Hulst, Calvin Reynolds, Capt. Peter Vredenburg, Fred Wettach and Miss H. R. Wassermann.

Judging was carried along with unusual promptness, and the awards gave general satisfaction to the spectators and exhibitors. Mrs. C. Cecil Fitler, who is a newcomer in the Horse Show ranks, carried off the premier honors in the harness horse classes, while Charles K. Bispham of Philadelphia was a close second to Mrs. Fitler.

In the saddle-horse class Andrew Morison exhibited Sonia, one of the greatest horses in the country, and Black Diamond, both of which figured conspicuously among the blue ribbon winners. Sonia has won at all the leading horse shows in the East, and is considered the most likely candidate for championship honors at Madison Square Garden this Fall.

Emil Seelig, another New York exhibitor, showed a number of good horses in the harness-horse classes, which should be heard from later on during the show.

With a single exception the exhibition was without an exciting incident. In the tandem class, as the blue ribbon was being attached to the headstall of Mr. Bispham's Lady of Fashion, the latter reared up and became mixed in the traces, due to the handling of the horse by an inexperienced groom, but nothing serious resulted.

NELL GWYNN'S "AUTOGRAPH."

Initials of Illiterate Actress on Receipt Bring $255 in London Sale.

The rare signature of Nell Gwynn, the notorious actress of Charles II.'s time, on a receipt brought $255 at Sotheby's in London, lately. The signature consists of her initials only, "E. G.," (Eleanor Gwynn.) She was illiterate, and her letters were almost all written by others, but signed "E. G." by her.

The receipt is for the sum of $2,500, being one-quarter's installment of an annuity for her own support and that of her two sons, one of whom, Charles Beauclerk, Charles II. in 1676, created Baron Heddington and Earl of Burford and in 1684 Duke of St. Albans.

The original manuscript of Oscar Wilde's "The Decay of Lying" brought $355 at the same sale. The original manuscript of "The Picture of Dorian Gray," by the same author, brought $1,600 at auction in this city during the season just ended.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

TUCKER—FERGUSON.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 4.—In Grace Episcopal Church at Newton Miss Helen M. Ferguson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Ferguson of 91 Arlington Street, Newton, was married to-day to George E. Tucker, an exchange broker of Shanghai, China. The bride's father is also in business in that city. The ceremony, which was witnessed by many friends, was performed by the Rev. Laurens T. Maclure. Miss Florence Ferguson, a sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, while the bridegroom's attendant was Dr. William Jeffries of Shanghai. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker will leave soon for China.

FITTS—STEPHENS.

C. I. Fitts and Miss Ada May Stephens were married Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Thomas J. Stephens, 43 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn. The bride is a graduate of Adelphi and of Cornell Colleges and has been teaching in Honolulu, where Mr. Fitts is Principal of the Punahon School of Oahu College. The young couple will leave shortly for Honolulu.

FROHMAN BUYS PRIVATE CAR.

Will Use It on Trips When Producing His Plays.

Charles Frohman has purchased a private car at a large expense to make his trips between his producing centres easier to compass. Hitherto he has used New York as the base of his theatrical operations, and his visits to other cities have been merely occasional, but this year he will put into operation his long contemplated plan of producing plays in many large cities. Next month he will conduct rehearsals in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Chicago.

Mr. Frohman will make his first trip in the car this evening, when he goes to New London to witness the first performance of "Love Among the Lions."

The car is furnished simply, and has three compartments, a library, a dining room, and a bedroom. In the library is a case containing the plays this manager will produce here and in London during the coming season and the new plays which have been submitted to him. The dining room is at the rear of the car, and is also an observation room.

The feature on which Mr. Frohman has spared no expense is the sound proofing. He has had the car incased in material that deadens the usual rattle of the train.

DENIES MISS GERRY IS ENGAGED TO WED

"Ridiculous," Says Her Mother of the Report She Is to Marry Edward Victor Loew.

ARE OFTEN SEEN TOGETHER

This the Foundation for the Rumor, Which the Family Denies with Emphasis.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 4.—The report circulated here to-day that Miss Mabel Gerry, daughter of Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry, was engaged to Edward Victor Loew, and were to be married in December, was emphatically denied this afternoon by Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry.

"The report is absolutely without foundation," said Mrs. Gerry to a TIMES reporter at Sea Verge, the Gerry home in Bellevue Avenue. "It is ridiculous."

Miss Mabel Gerry did not visit the Casino this forenoon to watch the tennis match, but her sister, Miss Angelica Gerry, was there, with the result that she was bombarded with inquiries in regard to the report of her sister's engagement to Mr. Loew.

Mr. Loew has been in Newport and has been frequently seen with Miss Gerry, which some of their friends declare has given rise to the rumor that they were engaged.

Other friends declared yesterday that the report is a bit premature, and that if they become engaged, as it is predicted they will, the engagement will be formally announced by the family.

Miss Gerry is a sister of Peter G. Gerry, who married Miss Mathilde Townsend some weeks ago. She has been often reported engaged, and several years ago it was said that her hand had been won by Francis Burton Harrison. Early this year it was reported from Paris that Count Boni de Castellane was seeking Miss Gerry's hand, and between these two there have been other well-known suitors.

Miss Gerry's elder brother, Robert Livingston Gerry, married Miss Cornelia Harriman. Her mother was Miss Louise M. Livingston, and on the side of her father, Commodore Gerry, she is descended from Elbridge Gerry, fifth Vice President of the United States. Her grandmother on the Gerry side was a Miss Goelet, and lived for many years at the old Goelet house, at Broadway and Nineteenth Street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Macey Willetts, who have been on a motor trip to the North Shore and White Mountains, have returned to their country place in New Marlborough.

Thomas M. Sherman, son of Vice President Sherman, has arrived in Great Barrington to take part in a golf tournament.

Mrs. J. A. McCreery is entertaining at her residence in Stockbridge Misses Marie and Marguerite Hoguet and Miss Strong.

John Fulton Berrien Mitchell.

John Fulton Berrin Mitchell, a member of one of the oldest families of New York, died yesterday at his home, Linden Hill, Flushing, L. I. He was 68 years of age. One of his ancestors, Peter Anderson, received a grant of land in the Island of Manhattan in 1645, and he was also descended from the Berrian family, a Huguenot stock, which was driven from Finisterre in 1670 on account of its religion and settled in Long Island.

Louis M. Frank Dies at Lucerne.

LUCERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 4.—Louis M. Frank of South Orange, N. J., died suddenly here to-day from apoplexy.

Obituary Notes.

LOUIS SCHRIBER, in his day one of the world's greatest cornetists, died in Los Angeles, Cal., Wednesday, 83 years of age. He accompanied both Adelina Patti and Ole Bull, the violinist, on concert tours as cornet soloist. He was a charter member of the Philharmonic Society of New York, and in 1872 and 1873 was soloist with the Thomas Orchestra. He was a native of Coblentz, Germany.

JAMES B. WATT, the oldest telegrapher in point of service in the Associated Press, died at his home in Nashville, Tenn., yesterday, at the age of 62. Mr. Watt was an expert and in the course of his long career at the key had handled the stories of the assassination of the three Presidents, Lincoln, Garfield, and McKinley.

WALLACE G. WEBBER of Bedford, Mass., widely known in financial circles, died at his Summer home yesterday. Mr. Webber in 1874 entered the employ of the Blackstone National Bank, and later formed a banking and brokerage partnership under the name of Paine, Webber & Co. In 1888 Mr. Webber was elected a member of the Governing Committee of the Boston Stock Exchange.

WILLIAM M. CROSS, Secretary of the State of Oklahoma, died on Wednesday of heart disease in Oklahoma City. Last Tuesday he stood at the primaries for the Democratic nomination as State Auditor, and was believed to have been successful.

The Rev. NICHOLAS F. BOESE, a retired German Methodist Episcopal minister, died on Tuesday at the home of his son, John Boese, in Barre, Mass. He was for many years port missionary in New York, and was afterward in charge of several churches. He retired a few years ago, and settled at Peekskill. He will be buried in Woodlawn after a funeral service on Sunday afternoon in St. Paul's German Methodist Episcopal Church, East Thirty-fifth Street and Second Avenue. His brother is the Rev. P. W. Boese of Mineola, L. I., and his nephew, the Rev. J. H. F. Boese of Brooklyn.

CHARLES E. WESSELS, son of Edward J. Wessels of 240 Midland Avenue, Montclair, N. J., died yesterday after two operations for appendicitis. He was 22 years of age. He was graduated from Stevens Institute, and was for a time with the A. H. Bull Steamship Company. He is survived by his parents and a sister.

Mrs. MARY MACDONALD GRANT, whose father, William Macdonald, served under Admiral Nelson in the battle of Trafalgar, died yesterday at her home in Orange, N. J. She was 85 years old. Mrs. Grant is survived by five children—Capt. Francis A. Grant of San Francisco, Supervisor of Transportation in the Department of the West; William A. Grant of Orange, Joseph Arthur Grant of Walsh, Canada; Richard Sidney Grant of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Mary Grant Major of Orange.

CHARLES W. CUTTER, of the firm of Kraft & Cutter of New York City, died at his home in Greenwich, Conn., last night from pneumonia. Mr. Cutter was graduated from Harvard in the class of 1898, and from the Harvard Law School in 1901. During the Spanish-American war he served in Battery A, First Massachusetts heavy artillery. He was a son of Leonard F. Cutter of Brookline, Mass. He was 35 years old and left a wife and one daughter.

FIGHT PICTURES AT PARTY.

Narragansett Colony Entertained with Representation of Reno Event.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 4.—Almost everybody in the cottage colony is talking about a moving picture entertainment which took place last night at a prominent villa on Ocean Road. Narragansett has heard of a town called Reno, and while several proposals had been made to have the pictures presented here of a certain encounter it remained for a Philadelphian to entertain a coterie of friends with a vivid presentation of an event which made Reno famous.

Invitations were issued by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Strawbridge of Philadelphia to members of the Summer colony for a little affair at their Summer place, the Mac-Veagh villa. It is said that the pictures were similar to those presented in various parts of the country. Among those invited were many of the Philadelphia set at the Pier, including Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bohlen, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Brown of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Harrison, Charles Wheeler, Hugh Drury, Devereaux Milburn, W. L. Goodwin, M. Stevenson, Edward Connor, and several of the visiting polo players, including the Bryn Mawr team.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Quiet and Little Changed —Call Money Rates, 1@ 1¾ Per Cent.

TRADING IN SMALL VOLUME

Outside Interest at Minimum—Declines in Cotton on Rains in Texas —Heavy Gains by Banks from the Sub-Treasury.

The movement of prices on the Stock Exchange yesterday fulfilled predictions, based upon the character of Wednesday's business, that the market was tending toward narrowness and dullness. At the end of the day transactions totaled only 300,000 shares and price changes, save in a half-score shares, were confined to fractions. Under renewed efforts on the part of bearish speculators to force declines stocks sold off rather easily in the early hours, but attempts to cover short sales disclosed a relative scarcity of stocks and recoveries ensued, with final quotations practically the highest of the day. Outside interest in the market was at a minimum, and business, like quotations, originated on the floor of the Stock Exchange.

Overnight advices of heavy rains in many parts of the corn belt served to direct attention to the approaching report of the Government on the crops—to be published on Monday—and much interest was therefore taken in the estimate issued in the course of the day by one of the more trustworthy of the private investigators now in the fields. This noted a very sharp loss in the condition of Spring wheat, as compared with the condition of the grain a month ago, but the loss in yield which is worked out mathematically was practically disregarded, owing to the unexpectedly high percentage figure fixed by this investigator for corn. Its condition is put at 82.3 per cent., against 83.1 per cent. on July 1, a deterioration which, when considered in connection with the larger area under cultivation, is so slight as to be practically negligible. If anything like this showing is made by the Department of Agriculture's returns on Monday, the depression in sentiment which has so long existed over the crop outlook must instantly vanish. From Texas there came reports of rainfall in a number of districts where cotton was very much in need of moisture, and this was reflected on the Cotton Exchange in much lower quotations. A news item of rather unfamiliar tenor in recent weeks was that relating to the sales of small blocks of securities by two well-known railroads.

An advance in discount rates in London was attributed to disappointment over the announcement of the early renewal of Treasury bills and to the Bank of England return, which, in spite of the decrease of nearly $10,000,000 in reserve, is nevertheless in point of proportion of reserve to liabilities the best reported at this season of the year, with one exception, in above a decade. In the foreign exchange market the higher English discounts prompted an advance in demand sterling, rates rising 15 points at one time during the day, but closing only 5 points above Wednesday night's final Local money conditions continued easy, call money lending at 1 per cent. in considerable amounts, with time loans unchanged. Another substantial gain in cash from the Sub-Treasury was reported, bringing the total received on balance from this source since Friday last up to $6,000,000, an amount important enough to cut a considerable figure in to-morrow's bank returns.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—Fluctuations in the local market were confined within narrow limits and prices show very little change as a result of to-day's trading. Lake Copper was fairly active at between 35½ and 36⅝, and about 3,000 shares of Amalgamated changed hands at between 61 and 62½.

MISCELLANE

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Northern Pacific's Dividend.

Although the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. was paid on Northern Pacific only three days ago, the action the Directors will take when they next come together has been under discussion in Wall Street for some days, and the belief expressed that the dividend surely will be reduced. One of the Directors had this to say: "The Northern Pacific is very prosperous and is earning right along a good surplus over its dividend. This suggestion is no more reasonable than was the talk of a reduction in advance of the announcement of the last dividend. On that occasion the Street talked about a cut in the Northern Pacific dividend right up to the day the dividend was announced, although the dividend had actually been declared to all intents and purposes four weeks ahead of the day on which it was announced. Although the announcement was not made until the regular time, the Executive Committee had four weeks before that decided to pay the usual 1¾ per cent. for the quarter."

Next Move by Third Ave. Committee.

The attitude which the Third Avenue Reorganization Committee will take toward the decision of the Public Service Commission to disallow the plan of reorganization is interesting the financial district just now. The Third Avenue committee is scheduled to hold a meeting shortly to decide what course to pursue. What Wall Street is particularly interested in is whether or not this case will be fought to determine just what authority the Commission has in supervising the details of a reorganization.

More Loaded Cars Moved.

Increases in gross earnings on important systems up to a later period than that covered in the latest earning statements were indicated in the record of car-loading on the New York Central and the Atchison during the month of July, which were published yesterday. The New York Central lines this past month handled 1,626,363 loaded cars, an increase of 55,216 cars over the total handled during July, 1909. The Atchison's figures show that there was an increase during the month of 2,505 in the number of loaded cars received from connecting lines. A large part of this increase was due to a heavier movement of grain this year than last during the month of July. The movement of live stock, lumber, and coal also showed fairly large increases compared with July, 1909.

Our Demands for Capital.

Vice President Mahl of the Harriman lines, who returned a few days ago from attending the international railway conference at Berne, said yesterday that during his stay in Switzerland he had noticed that a feeling existed there that there was something abnormal about the constant demand from America for fresh capital. They could not understand, he said, that all this capital was legitimately needed for development work, and they were disposed therefore to look upon it with some distrust. They lost sight, he said, of the fact that this country is still in the making, and that billions of additional capital will have to be spent before this country is as well supplied with railroads as Switzerland is to-day.

Cotton in New York.

As time passes without further action by the Federal authorities in the cotton conspiracy cases the bull leaders are finding arguments to justify their position. The forced deliveries of the unfortunate bears have brought more real cotton to New York than ever before and stuffed warehouses, where some 200,000 bales are awaiting vessels to carry them. This gives the defenders of the Cotton Exchange system an argument on the legitimacy of option trading.

Predicts Bumper Corn Crop.

Snow's crop report as of Aug. 1, made public in Chicago yesterday, puts the condition of corn at 82.3, .8 less than on the 1st of July. From this percentage is figured a crop of 3,044,000,000 bushels, or 272,000,000 greater than last year's. Oats, too, though lower in condition by 3.1 than a month ago, offer a prospective yield of 1,013,000,000 bushels, or 6,000,000 more than last year's crop. Wheat in prospect is, of course, well under last year's actual crop. Snow reports a deterioration of 7.7 since July 1 in Spring wheat, making the prospective yield 206,000,000 bushels, against last year's crop of 290,000,000. The Winter wheat crop he puts at 435,000,000, against 447,000,000 bushels harvested last year. The indicated total wheat crop is thus 641,000,000 bushels, against last year's actual crop of 737,000,000.

BANK RESOURCES UP.

$88,488,767 Increase in Savings Institutions in This State.

The resources of the savings banks of New York State, according to figures made public yesterday by the State Banking Department, increased from $1,587,127,555 on July 1, 1909, to $1,676,416,322 on July 1, this year. The number of accounts showed an increase of 100,300 and the total amount deposited during the year was about $30,000,000 larger than the previous year:

The figures for this year compare as follows with the same items in the reports for 1909:

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Money rates were easy to-day. Discount rates were firmer on the poor weekly statement of the Bank of England.

The stock market was quiet, with irregular price changes. Kaffirs and foreign securities were firm on Continental support, but most of the other sections were easy. Consols, in which the settlement was concluded, declined an eighth.

American securities opened quiet and about unchanged from yesterday's New York closing. The uncertain outlook induced realizing, until Wall Street buying checked the decline. Later, renewed offerings caused further losses, and the market closed easy.

Bar silver steady at 24⅝d per ounce.

Money, 1@1¼ per cent.; rate of discount in the open market for short bills, 2¼ per cent.; for three months' bills, 2⅝ per cent.

Bullion amounting to £6,000 was taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day.

Gold premiums were quoted as follows: At Madrid, 7.85; at Lisbon, 7.50.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—Trading was dull but prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 97f 10c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 23c for checks.

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—Trading was quiet on the Boerse to-day. The tendency of prices was downward, except in domestic specialties.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 45 pfennigs for checks.

Money, 4 per cent.

Private discount rate, 3⅛ per cent.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following trade opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to:

5,303. OILS AND GREASES.—An American Consular officer in a European country reports that a local business firm desires to be placed in communication with American manufacturers of foreign articles, with a view of representing them in that market: Mineral oils and greases in general, fish oils, (cod and whale;) raw materials for soap manufacture, palm oil, cocoanut oil, tallow, vegetable greases, soda potash, &c. The firm offers bank references, and correspondence may be in French, Italian, or English.

5,304. OIL, MEATS, AND LARD.—A European business man advises an American Consular officer that he is desirous of representing in the country in which he is located American manufacturers of linseed oil, canned meats, and lard and lard compounds. Bank references will be furnished, and correspondence may be in Spanish, French, Italian, or English.

5,305. STAVES AND BACON.—A report from an American Consular officer in Italy states that a firm in his district desires to be placed in communication with American manufacturers of staves of all kinds, with a view of importing them for its own account, or acting as the representative for their sale in Italy. The same firm also desires to represent a packing house exporting bacon. References will be furnished. Correspondence should be in French or Italian.

5,306. AMERICAN SHOES.—An American Consular officer reports there is a good market in the country in which he is located for American shoes, and furnishes the name of a firm that desires to enter into business relations with American manufacturers in this line, especially ladies' shoes, with a view to representing them on that market. The terms thus far obtained by this firm from certain American houses have not been satisfactory, and no business has resulted. Correspondence may be in English.

5,307. REPRESENTATION IN EUROPE.—An American firm of importers writes to the Bureau of Manufactures that one of its members will shortly go to Europe for the purpose of disposing of the products of American manufacturers, and would like to represent a few American manufacturers in England, Germany, and France. Inquiries have already been received from Europe for playing cards.

5,308. LOGGING MACHINERY.—An American Consul reports there is undoubtedly a large field in his district for mining and logging machinery of various kinds, such as is manufactured in the United States, but it is certain that a serious effort must be made to get this business, and it is due to the indifference of firms that enables foreign competitors to take the market. One timber concern has expressed a desire to hear from American firms manufacturing machinery for hauling logs, &c.

5,309. AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY.—A business man in Russia advises an American Consul that he desires to communicate with first-class American manufacturers of all kinds of harvesting machinery, plows, and thrashing machines, (steam sets,) with a view to securing the agency for Russia. The inquirer is well known in this trade, and is considered a pushing and active canvasser.

5,310. ALUMINIUM IN SHEETS.—An American Consul in a European country reports that a firm in his district wishes to purchase aluminium in sheets, suitable for the manufacture of capsules for bottles. American manufacturers of this article should send samples, with quotations, direct to this concern, which is said to be the largest cork and capsule factory in Europe.

5,311. MACHINERY OF VARIOUS KINDS.—A European business man advises an American Consulate that he is in the market for all kinds of fire extinguishing apparatus, including automobile steam fire engines, ladders, hose, &c. Further offers are desired in the following lines: All kinds of machines used by manufacturing industries, dairy machinery, brewery appliances, tobacco cutting machines, coffee grinders, wringers, &c. The party in question is the largest machinery dealer in an important trade centre.

5,312. SWEETPEA SEEDS.—An American Consular officer in France reports that the Secretary of an agriculture society in that country desires to receive from American exporters of sweetpea seeds catalogues and samples, with prices, with a view to making importations thereof.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

There was a distinct change for the better in the wheat market during the day. The opening of the market was strong and higher on the cables. Foreign markets showed an unexpected advance, due to the further unfavorable crop advices from the Continent and some less favorable advices from the Argentine and India. There were also some reports of Continental demand for cargoes, owing to the unfavorable weather on the Continent. The Winnipeg market was strong, and there were reports of inquiry for export and some business in Manitoba wheat and also some business in red Winter wheat at Baltimore. The market sold off from the early advance on a crop estimate by Snow of Chicago of an increase of 40,000,000 bushels in the Winter wheat crop promise of the last month, as shown in the actual yields, but a decrease of 17,000,000 bushels in Spring, making a total of 424,000,000 bushels Winter and 200,000,000 bushels Spring. There were estimates also of 40,000,000 bushels for North Dakota. Western receipts were again very heavy, and there has been a material increase in the movement at the Northwest, the total being phenomenally large. A better demand, however, was reported from mills, and near the close the market was very steady. Cash wheat quoted: No. 2 red Winter, $1.08⅛, nominal, to arrive, c. i. f.; No. 2 red spot, nominal, new, $1.07⅛, f. o. b., afloat, for export; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.25¼, nominal; No. 2 hard Winter, new, $1.08⅛; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.14¾. Sales include 7,000 bushels No. 2 red, $1.06½@$1.07, in elevator; 16,000 bushels red Winter from Baltimore and 96,000 bushels Manitoba, Montreal, and Western points, direct export, recently.

The corn market was also very firm during the day and showed a better tone than for several days past. The improvement in the market was apparently due partly to sympathy with wheat and to some extent came from an oversold technical condition of the market. There were complaints from Nebraska, but there were fairly good rains shown in Oklahoma, and the situation in the Southwest has been materially relieved by the weather conditions this week. Snow's report made a loss of only 8 per cent. in the crop condition during the past month, showng that losses in the Southwest had been about made up for by gains in other sections of the country. Cash corn quoted: No. 2, 72c, nominal, elevator, to arrive, c. i. f., domestic basis, and steamer, nominal, elevator, export basis.

The oats market also showed a better tone, although the improvement from the low point of the week has been slight. The offerings were not so heavy and shorts displayed a moderate amount of anxiety. The receipts of oats West are still very heavy, however, and continue to display an increase not only over last week but compared with last year. Cash oats quoted: Natural white, 46@48c, and white clipped, 48@50c.

The provision market was somewhat irregular. Prices were fairly steady during the morning, but late in the day there was considerable weakness, and the market eased off, closing at a little recovery from the low point.

COTTON.

The cotton market showed a good deal of excitement and nervousness. The market was weak, and there was heavy selling in the early part of the day, due to the weather conditions in Oklahoma and a weak cable. The cable decline, however, was due evidently to the reports from this side. Later the market showed some little rallying tendency, and there was not so much pressure in the afternoon. It was estimated that a line of about 50,000 bales of long cotton was sold out, but the persistent buying by houses thought to be representing mill interests was a very important factor in the market. The news of the day was the report from Oklahoma of rains. The detailed advices showed quite heavy rains, in some sections ¾ of an inch to 1½ inches. This rain was heavy enough in some sections to relieve the crop, and take Oklahoma, or an important portion of it, out of the deteriorating column. There were private reports of showers in Texas. Later it was found that these showers were very limited in extent, and it was stated that temperatures were again very high. The weather prediction was for showers and cooler. The market late, however, displayed a good deal of nervousness, and considerable rallying power. The situation in Texas is regarded as serious, and if the present threatening conditions pass without reasonably good showers, it is feared that the damage there may be material. The weather conditions in other sections of the belt continue satisfactory.

Southern spot markets generally unchanged.

New York—Spot cotton quiet, unchanged; middling uplands, 15.45c; middling Gulf, 15.70c.

COFFEE.

Coffee was more active, total sales amounting to 66,500 bags, of which 5,500 bags were switches from September to December at 20 points. Prices were firmer, closing at a net advance of 7 to 10 points, and sentiment was inclined to lean toward the bull side owing to unexpected strength in the European markets as well as continued firmness on the part of Brazil. Havre was ¾f higher, Hamburg was ¼ to ¾ pfennig higher, and in Brazil both Rio and Santos were unchanged, but private exchange on London was 1-32d higher, and this continued advance in exchange, which means the increasing value of the Brazilian milreis, is believed to indicate a strong financial position in Brazil, and has led to the belief that Brazilian operators will be in a position to hold coffee very firmly this season. Houses with foreign connections were good buyers. The world's visible supply was increased during July 534,087 bags, against an increase for the same time last year of 947,940 bags.

Winter Rates for French Line, Aug. 15

The French Line yesterday announced that its schedule of Winter rates will go into effect on Aug. 15. The first vessel to sail from here under the lower schedule will be the Provence, leaving Aug. 18. Applications for accommodations on the vessel are large. Her passengers will have the novelty of paying Winter fare while the mercury is registering a high Summer temperature.

NEW YORK YACHTS FIRST RACE OF CRUISE

Morton F. Plant's Sloop Shimna Beats Istalena, Winsome, and Aurora.

BIG FLEET AT HUNTINGTON

Fifteen Schooners, Fifteen Sloops, and Two Yawls in Ten Racing Classes —Many Steam Yachts in Cruise.

Special to The New York Times.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., Aug. 4.—While the number of yachts which started in the first run of the annual New York Yacht Club cruise to-day, starting at Glen Cove, was smaller than last year, the race to this harbor was one of the most interesting from sporting spectacular standpoints that the club has ever had for an opening.

Thirty-two racing craft went over the line shortly after noon at Glen Cove, including fifteen schooners, fifteen sloops, and two yawls, which were divided into ten classes, and they furnished an exceptionally close contest from start to finish. The feature of the run was the showing made by Shimna, the new Herreshoff sloop owned by Morton F. Plant, who accompanied the cruise in his big steam yacht Iolanda. Shimna on corrected time beat Istalena, George H. Pynchon's sixty-five-foot sloop, which, however, made the fastest time over the twenty-five-mile course. Istalena covered the distance in 3 hours 2 minutes and 24 seconds, defeating H. F. Lippitt's Winsome by 49 seconds and Cornelius Vanderbilt's Aurora by nearly four minutes.

The start of the cruise off Mattinnecock Point, just outside of Glen Cove Harbor, made a pretty marine picture with the saucy sailing craft manoeuvring around the starting point, while the big and less pretentious steam craft stood by waiting for the word to fall in behind or take their boats off to the side of the racers on their first crack at the annual tropines. Among the steam yachts were Arthur Curtiss James's flagship, the auxiliary Aloha; A. Pendouine's Hiawatha, Henry Walter's Naradia, C. Ledyard Blair's Diana, Wilson Marshall's Levanter, Leonard Richard's Carolo, J. Stewart Barney's Admiral, and H. F. Lippitt's Magnet. These were joined in Huntington Harbor by many more tonight, which with their bunting and lights as darkness came on transformed the anchorage here into the most brilliant yachting spectacle that the harbor has ever experienced.

A fair southwesterly breeze was blowing as the yachts jockeyed around the start early this afternoon, the line being laid at the buoy at Glen Cove and the committee boat the tug Eugene Moran.

The New York thirties were sent away first at 1:25 o'clock. Of the others Stuyvesant Wainwright's Caranita got away first, leading Windward by a length, after which came Mimosa III., with J. P. Morgan, Jr.'s, Phryne, sailed by Sherman Hoyt, close up. Then came Nepsi, Dalinda, and Juanita. Booms were to port, and before long spinnakers were let loose to starboard as they laid their way for the first mark a couple of miles east of Stamford.

The first leg of to-day's course from Mattinnecock Point to Long Neck Point buoy was a run, the second lap to Oak Neck buoy on the Long Island shore was a beat to windward, and the last leg frm there to the finish off Eaton's Neck was a fine reach. The wind, south-southwest, was light on the first leg and rather strong on the other two. The summary:

WESTWARD OUT OF RACE.

Mr. Cochran Balks at Old-Fashioned Handicapping in Cup Event.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Aug. 4.—The yacht race for the Cowes Town Cup was started here to-day, but the day was almost without wind and the race was stopped after half the course had been covered. The German Emperor's Meteor was then far ahead of her six competitors, and was awarded the cup. The American yacht Westward did not start.

E. S. Cochran's refusal to sail the Westward under the old-fashioned and unsatisfactory handicaping system adhered to by the Royal Yacht Squadron, in the face of much adverse criticism among English yachtsmen, meets with considerable sympathy here.

The official explanation of the incident is that the Westward was entered on the programme by mistake and that her handicapping also was an error, because Mr. Cochran had previously declared that he would decline to enter into any race under the old handicapping rules.

In the interest of good sport much regret is expressed that the incident should have been allowed to occur. Fourteen minutes, it is admitted, would have been a needlessly severe penalty on the Westward, and the German Emperor's abandonment of handicapping in favor of a class measurement rule is pointed to as an example that the Royal Yacht Squadron would do well to follow.

Marshall Wins from John in Chess.

HAMBURG, Aug. 4.—In the fifteenth round of the international chess masters' tournament, contested here to-day, the American player Marshall won his game from John. The leading scores are: Schlechter, 10½ to 2½; Niemzowitsch, 9½ to 5½; Duras, 9 to 4; Spielmann, 9 to 5; Teichmann, 8½ to 5½; Marshall, 8 to 6.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Wireless Telephone Photograph Transmitters Pay 45 Per Cent.

Instruments for transmitting photographs by wireless telephone were held yesterday to be dutiable by the Board of United States General Appraisers at the rate of 45 per cent. under the provision in the tariff act of 1909 for manufactures of metal. T. Thorne Baker, the importer, set up the contention that the articles should be admitted free of duty under the provision in the tariff law of 1909 for "philisophical and scientific apparatus."

It was maintained by the importer that as the articles were intended for exhibition purposes and were to be taken out of the country within six months they should be allowed to enter free of duty. In denying the contention of the importer Judge Waite, who writes the decision for the board, has this to say:

"Free entry under this paragraph is made conditional upon compliance with the regulations of the Secretary of the Treasury, and upon the giving of a bond for the payment of the duties if the articles are not exported within six months from the time of importation. The regulations applicable to Paragraph 714 are found in Articles 715 and 719 of the customs regulations of 1908, which were continued in force under the tariff act of 1909 by the express order of the Secretary of the Treasury."

Judge Waite goes on to say that the affidavit of the importer has not been filed. That the importer not only failed to give the required bond, but that no bond in proper form was ever drawn up and tendered to the Collector.

"Furthermore," says the decision, "it is not clear that the articles were not imported by an association or corporation engaged in or connected with business of a private or commercial character, as the witnesses were not clear or definite upon this point. We, therefore, hold that the importer has not made out his case, not having complied with the regulations of the Treasury Department, which compliance constitutes a condition precedent to free entry. The protest is overruled."

RAILWAY BONDS SOLD.

Two Small Issues, the First in Some Time, Reported by Brokers.

The sale of two small issues of railroad securities, the first announced in some time, was made known yesterday. N. W. Harris & Co. and Bond & Goodwin purchased $2,000,000 of 25-year 4 per cent. bonds of the Boston & Albany, part of the New York Central system, and Speyer & Co. announced the purchase of $1,430,000 5 per cent. equipment notes of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad.

These notes are secured by equipment costing about $1,617,000. They are to be dated Aug. 1, and will be payable in twenty annual installments, though redeemable at any time at par and interest upon sixty days notice. The Central Trust Company is trustee of the issue.

The Boston & Albany bonds which are being issued to reimburse the New York Central for improvements on the Boston & Albany are offered to investors at 97 to yield about 4.20 per cent.

DIXIE II. WINS RACE.

Fleet Motor Boat Covers 33 Miles in 57 Minutes in Alexander Bay.

ALEXANDER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The fleet motor boat Dixie II., flying the colors of the Frontenac Yacht Club, won the opening race this afternoon in the Gold Challenge Cup series before a crowd of thousands. She did the thirty-three miles in fifty-seven minutes under adverse conditions. A heavy wind so roughened the water that the race was postponed two hours, and it had abated but little when the start was called.

The Squaw of the Thousand Island Yacht Club was second and the Skit of the Clayton Yacht Club third. Intruder, Hoosier Boy, and Louise were withdrawn.

Travis Reaches Semi-Finals.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Walter J. Travis of Garden City to-day won his way into the semi-final round of the Glenview golf tournament by defeating Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater, former Western champion, 4 to 4. Evans outplayed Travis through the green, but on the putting greens the vete.an was invincible. Evans was able to win on'y one hole, taking the second, 2 to 1.

On the fourteenth green, where the match ended, Travis holed a sixty-foot putt for a two, which so unset Evans that he missed a six-foot put for a half. Travis played out the bye holes, getting a 71. Evans took 76.

J. M. Sellers of Glenview defeated C. M. McConnell of Edgewater, a former Harvard oarsman, 3 and 1. Robert A. Gardner of Hinsdale, National champion, defeated Albert Seckel, intercollegiate champion, 2 and 1. Knowlton L. Ames of Glenview ran away from Howard Lee of Detroit, winning 4 and 3. The semi-final matches will be at thirty-six holes.

Swimming Races at Steeplechase Pier.

Three swimming events were decided last night at the weekly competition of the Brighton Beach Athletic Club at the Steeplechase Pier Swimming Pool, Coney Island. In the 70-yard scratch event C. D. Trubenbach of the New York A. C. defeated J. P. Mantell, West Side Y. M. C. A., and G. South, New York A. C., who finished second and third, respectively. G. Esslebaum, Glenmore A. C., captured the 140-yard handicap with 29 seconds' start. C. Hader, 21 seconds, and J. Curren, 16 seconds, secured the second and third prizes. The diving competition went to P. Fritter, with 119½ feet; F. Mullen was second, with 111½ feet; and Fritz Muller third, 108½ feet.

Three Polo Matches Postponed.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 4.—A heavy rain swept the Pier to-day, causing the postponement of three polo matches in the National polo tournament now in progress at Wildfield Farm.

SPORTING NEWS IN BRIEF.

Bennie Franklin, who up to the time of his retirement from the ring a year ago, was known as the lightweight champion of Harlem, has decided to enter the sphere of the roped arena once more, and with that in view he has been doing light "gym" and road work for a month past. Finding that he was rounding to shape exceptionally fast he got into touch with "Horseshoe Johnny" Shields last night, and signed a contract whereby Shields will look after the business details of the little fighter's ring career and campaign for the coming year. Shields is ready to post a forfeit of $500 for a ten-round go with either Leach Cross, Jack Doorman, or Jack Goodman, the former preferred.

The Cork football teams of New York and Boston will meet in the first of a series of three games for the inter-city championship at Corkmen's Association excursion, on Hudson Grove Park, on the Hudson, on Sunday. An added attraction will be a half-mile race for the championship of the Irish Counties Athletic Union. There will also be a 100-yard dash for members' sons and a 220-yard run for members.

The Cleveland American League Club has obtained Pitcher Kaler from Columbus of the American Association.

The New York Caledonian Club invites all athletes to take part in their fifty-fourth annual games at Washington Park, Grand Street, between Maspeth and Newtown, L. I., on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 5. Liberal cash prizes are offered and are paid on the ground immediately after each event. Entries will be received up to the moment of starting an event. Address John Watt, Secretary of Games Committee, 846 Seventh Avenue, New York City.

The moving pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight in Reno on July 4 will be shown outdoors for the first time in Meyerrose Park, Covert Avenue "L" station, Ridgewood, at 8:15 o'clock to-morrow night.

WARD BEATEN IN GOLF.

McKim Hollins Wins Medal in Qualifying Round at Shinnecock Hills.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 4.—McKim Hollins, the Harvard golfer, whose home course is at Westbrook, won the medal in the eighteen-hole qualifying round of the invitation tournament, which began to-day at the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club. He won the play-off of a tie at 78 with John M. Ward of Garden City. The committee unexpectedly decided to have the men settle their deadlock coincident with the first match round in the afternoon. This proved unfortunate, for Ward started an hour later, when the wind was blowing a gale. As it was, Hollins won with 80, as against Ward's 82.

The tournament began with an eighteen-hole testing round, conditions calling for the players to qualify in three sixteens instead of four eights, as heretofore.

Although successful in his play-off, Hollins lost at match play to E. P. Rogers of the home club, who had a 78. On the contrary, Ward got consolation, for although losing the medal, he beat W. A. Murdock of Shinnecock in a gruelling match that required two extra holes.

One of the favorites to fall was Robert C. Watson, the Westbrook crack, who won this tournament a year ago. He lost to S. K. De Forest of the home club in an extra-hole match. Going to the fourteenth hole, De Forest was 3 down, but he squared accounts with a 3 on the home green. They halved the nineteenth hole in 5, but De Forest won the next in 4, Watson topping his drive.

Philip Carter, the fourteen-year-old boy from Bridgehampton, just managed to qualify in the first sixteen also and then won easily in his first round at match play

BIG GAIN FOR BANKS.

Total Gain in Resources of 142 Savings Banks for Year Past $88,488,767.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 4.—An increase of $60,983,124 in the resources of the fifty-eight savings banks of New York City is the record for the year ended June 30, 1910, as shown by a statement issued by Supt. Cheney of the State Banking Department. Of this increase $44,077,527 is credited to the thirty-two savings banks in New York County and $15,311,843 to Kings County's twenty savings banks. The increased resources for the eighty-four savings banks throughout the State outside of the New York City counties was $27,505,643, making for the total number of 142 savings banks in the whole State a gain of $88,488,767.

The total resources of the banks of the entire State on July 1, 1910, were $1,676,416,322 as compared with $1,587,927,555 on July 1, 1909. The amount due to depositors was $1,526,935,582 this year and $1,444,974,860 last year, this increase of $71,960,722. The total sums under these heads of the New York City banks in the aggregate on July 1, 1910, were:

Counties.	Resources.	Due Depositors.
New York	$887,243,125	$866,438,639
Kings	264,465,343	237,033,430
Queens	13,720,783	12,599,919
Richmond	4,847,759	4,522,623
Total 1910	$1,170,279,010	$1,060,594,610
Total 1909	1,109,293,886	1,004,633,017

These figures show that the banks other than those of the greater city had resources of $506,130,312, and that the amount due to depositors was $465,340,972. These are less than one-third of the corresponding aggregates of the New York City banks.

During the past year the amount of money which passed over the receiving and paying tellers' windows of all the banks was $782,204,751, as against $730,531,442 the previous year. The past year's deposits exceeded the amount withdrawn by $28,147,795, while the deposits the previous year were but $14,665,558 in excess of withdrawals.

The New York City banks have this excellent record:

Counties.	Deposits.	Withdrawals.
New York, 1910	$195,703,964	$183,739,744
New York, 1909	184,917,993	177,511,336
Increase	$10,785,971	$5,228,408
Kings, 1910	$68,238,013	$62,445,465
Kings, 1909	61,856,295	59,881,022
Increase	$6,381,718	$2,564,383
Queens, 1910	$4,582,666	$4,031,569
Queens, 1909	4,150,415	3,920,751
Increase	$432,191	$104,818
Richmond, 1910	$1,953,829	$1,632,074
Richmond, 1909	1,117,357	1,483,659
Increase	$236,472	$148,415

New York City had deposits of $270,478,412 and withdrawals of $251,842,792, as compared with $134,697,861 deposits and $125,179,686 withdrawals for the rest of the State.

The most of the savings banks in this State pay 4 per centum interest on deposits, and there was credited and paid for interest last year $53,827,625 and $52,087,290 in the previous year. The banks of New York City last year and the year before paid:

Counties.	1910.	1909.
New York	$28,205,500	$27,759,976
Kings	8,534,595	8,027,175
Queens	438,536	404,561
Richmond	153,356	137,383
Totals	$37,331,987	$36,429,095

BUSINESS TROUBLES

BLOCK BROTHERS.—Jacob E. and Abraham E. Block, of the firm of Block Brothers, cigars, 34 Maiden Lane, have filed a petition in bankruptcy, liabilities, $6,354; assets, $1,448.

LOUIS THIRER.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Louis Thirer, cotton goods, 80 Eldridge Street, by Louis Siegbert & Brother, $700. Liabilities, $10,000; assets, $2,500.

CHARLES LAKS.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Charles Laks, shoes, 133 Avenue C, show liabilities of $4,535, and assets of $490. He transferred all his stock, valued at $2,800, to J. P. McGovern for benefit of creditors.

MORRIS GOTTESMAN.—Judge Hough has appointed E. B. Hamlin receiver for Morris Gottesman, furs, 34 West Twenty-seventh Street, bond $1,000. Liabilities, $10,000; assets, $1,800. On Aug. 1 it is said he transferred all the stock and assets to Jackson & Brod.

HENRY MORITZ.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Henry Moritz, clothing, 1,241 Broadway, by Cohen & Lang, $932; Cohen, Goldman & Co., $409, and Currick, Leiken & Bandler, $382. Judge Hough appointed Samuel J. Goldsmith receiver with a bond of $3,000. Liabilities, $19,000; assets, $10,000. He was formerly a partner in the firm of Alsberg, Moritz & Co., clothing manufacturers, who dissolved Oct. 1, 1909.

BAY STATE BRASS COMPANY.—Judge Hough has appointed Fred C. Smith receiver for the Bay State Brass Company, plumbers' brass goods, offices 150 Nassau Street, factory Haydenville, Mass., on application of the Nassau Bank, $50,000. At a meeting of creditors on July 19, the officers of the company resigned, and new ones were elected, composed of the largest creditors. Since then the affairs of the company have been in the hands of a committee composed of the Nassau Bank, Thomas C. Boswell, H. L. Arnold, H. J. B. Willis, and others. The factory at Haydenville is valued at $15,000, and there is unfinished product, which if completed will result in a gain to all creditors of about 40 per cent. of their claims.

Gans Dying on Way Home.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Joe Gans, former lightweight champion pugilist, may not live to see his mother and father in Baltimore, whither he is hastening from Arizona. Gans was unable to arise from his cot when he arrived in Chicago to-day, and oxygen was brought to maintain the spark of life. He was taken to the home of his first wife, Mrs. Madge Gans, who opened her house to him and the woman who succeeded her in his affections.

Gans left here on an eastbound train at 5:30 P. M. to-day. His physician said he believed the effort to reach Gans's old home would be fruitless, as it was improbable the fighter would live longer than to-day, but a start was made to please the patient.

May Sutton to Promote Cricket.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Big Cedar Street Sale in Heart of Insurance District—West End Avenue Deal Gives Purchaser Desirable Corner—Investor Buys 98th Street Apartments —Forsythe Building Sold.

An important deal in the downtown district that seems to indicate the erection in the near future of another insurance building was the sale by the City Investing Company of the plot, 65.6 by 59.7, at 21 to 27 Cedar Street, now occupied by old buildings. The property adjoins the building known as 68 William Street, at the northeast corner of Cedar and William Streets, and the rear portion of the Bishop Building at the corner of Maiden Lane and William Street. It has been held at $275,000. The purchaser was simply said to be an investor.

In connection with this sale it is an interesting fact that the adjoining plot, 19 Cedar Street, extending through to 82 and 84 Maiden Lane, was bought a short time ago at the auction of the Lorillard Spencer estate by Henry Evans, President of the Continental Insurance Company, who is said to control the ownership of the property to the east, 78 and 80 Maiden Lane.

Recently there was incorporated at Albany the Fire Companies Building Company, with a capital of $1,500,000, in which Mr. Evans is a Director. Should this company be the purchaser it will have a frontage of 90.8 feet on Maiden Lane and 91.7 on Cedar Street.

Controls Big West End Ave. Corner.

R. E. L. Mordecai and Leroy Coventry, representing the owners, have sold to A. R. Nicol 371 and 373 West End Avenue. The same brokers sold to Mr. Nicol 375, 377, and 379 West End Avenue about six months ago, so that he now owns a valuable corner, 75 feet on Seventy-eighth Street and 102.2 feet on West End Avenue.

The property is located diagonally opposite the Apthorpe, owned by the Astor estate. It is not known whether Mr. Nicol purchased the property simply as an investment or to improve it by a twelve-story apartment.

Two 98th Street Apartments Sold.

Charles R. Hubert has purchased from the Plousky Realty Company 6, 8, 10, and 12 West Ninety-eighth Street, two six-story apartment houses, each occupying a plot 50 by 100. Mr. Hubert bought the property as an investment. S. H. Raphael & Co. of Harlem, who succeeded George H. Picken, negotiated the sale.

Buys Forsythe Building.

The building formerly known as the Forsythe Building at 865 Broadway, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth Streets, on the west side, has been sold by the Duross Company to a Mr. Kates. It is a five-story structure on plot 25 by 108. The Forsythe Company recently leased for a long term the Goldsmith Building at 22 to 26 West Thirty-fourth Street.

East Sixty-fourth Street Sale.

Henry E. Decker has sold to Emanuel Schieffner 171 East Sixty-fourth Street, a three-story and basement dwelling on lot 16 by 100.5, between Lexington and Third Avenues.

Purchaser for Tenement.

Jacob Moersfelder has sold 410 East Tenth Street, a six-story tenement on lot 20 by 92.3, between Avenues C and D.

Harlem Flats Sold.

David Henry has sold to a client 217-219 East 122d Street, two four-story double flats, on plot 50 by 100.

Franklin Street Warehouse Sold.

Edward Hermani has purchased the newly completed six-story warehouse at 178 and 180 Franklin Street, between Hudson and Greenwich Streets. The sellers were Uhlfelder & Weinberg, who erected the building and leased it upon completion to Roethlisberg & Co. for a term of ten years.

Recent Buyers.

M. T. McAvoy is the buyer of 50 West Eleventh Street, sold recently for David Lapsley by the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company.

Anna Englander is the purchaser of the six-story apartment at 604 and 606 West 125th Street, a plot 63.4 by 100.11, between Broadway and Claremont Avenue, sold by Heller & Sussman for Hyman Kantor.

Bronx Sales.

Louis Cowan has sold for Mrs. A. Wirth 801 East 136th Street, a four-story double flat on lot 25 by 100, to C. E. Randrup, who gives in part payment 1,981 Crotona Avenue, a three-story dwelling on lot 18 by 100.

The Roth Construction Company has sold to Charles Krouske the building, on plot 37.5 by 85, on the east side of Tinton Avenue, 151.7 feet north of Westchester Avenue, for $28,750.

Brooklyn Sale.

Charles A. Wessell has sold for the Iron Clad Realty and Trading Company a plot of eight lots, 160 by 100, on the northwest corner of Lott Avenue and Chester Street, to a client for improvement.

Suburban Sales.

Frederick S. Fisher of Central Avenue, White Plains, has sold about sixty acres of land to Felix M. Warburg of Lander's Road. The price was said to be more than $1,000 an acre.

A Mr. McGeachim has purchased the Murray property at Larchmont, through the Hayden Realty Company of New Rochelle, for $13,500.

Cocks & Willets have sold the property of the Russell estate, near Oyster Bay, to Frederick Johnson, who will erect a residence. The tract consists of eighty acres of land and has frontage on three roads. It immediately adjoins the grounds of the Mill Neck Club and the Piping Rock Association.

Sale at Long Branch.

L. J. Phillips & Co. will offer at auction at Long Branch, N. J., to-morrow, on the premises, the dwelling, complete, at the southeast corner of Bath Avenue and Westwood Avenue, also stable in rear, on plot 200 by 360.

Rental for Mrs. Russell Sage.

Pease & Elliman have rented for Mrs. Russell Sage her place at Lawrence, L. I., known as the Palmer House. The place adjoins her own residence, and runs from Ocean Avenue to a lake on her property. The tenant is William C. Orr.

55th Street House for Business.

Plans have been filed for making over the three-story and basement dwelling at 234 West Fifty-fifth Street into show rooms and offices at a cost of $6,500. The front is to be extended twelve feet and the old front removed and entirely rebuilt for William Wiese & Co., lessees.

REFEREES' NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW YORK—THE EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES, Plaintiff, against HARRY L. TOPLITZ et al., Defendants.—Action No. 1.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action and bearing date the 28th day of July, 1910, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 26th day of August, 1910, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Joseph P. Day, Auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All those three certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of Manhattan, of the City of New York, in the County and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the southerly side of Eighty-sixth Street, distant two hundred and thirty feet westerly from the southwesterly corner of Third Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street; running thence southerly parallel with Third Avenue one hundred and two feet two inches to the centre line of the block between Eighty-fifth and Eighty-sixth Streets; thence westerly along said centre line seventy-six feet eight inches; thence northerly parallel with Third Avenue one hundred and two feet two inches to the southerly side of Eighty-sixth Street, and thence easterly along said southerly side of Eighty-sixth Street seventy-six feet eight inches to the point or place of beginning; said premises being now known as and by the street numbers One hundred and forty-eight, One hundred and fifty, and One hundred and fifty-two East Eighty-sixth Street; the westerly wall being a party wall.

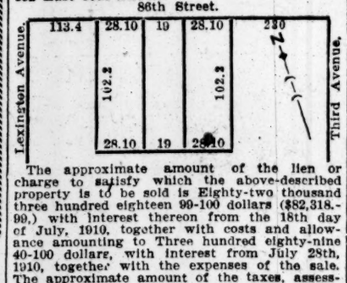
Dated New York, August 4th, 1910.

EDWARD L. PARRIS, Referee.

ALEXANDER & GREEN, Attorneys for Plaintiff, Office and P. O. Address 120 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, N. Y. City.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold; its street numbers are 148, 150, and 152 East 86th Street.

86th Street.



The approximate amount of the lien or charge to satisfy which the above-described property is to be sold is Eighty-two thousand three hundred eighteen 99-100 dollars ($82,318.99,) with interest thereon from the 18th day of July, 1910, together with costs and allowance amounting to Three hundred eighty-nine 40-100 dollars, with interest from July 28th, 1910, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments, and water rates, or other liens, which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the Referee, is $3,850.98 and interest.

Dated New York, August 4th, 1910.

EDWARD L. PARRIS, Referee.

SURROGATE CITATION.

SURROGATES' COURT, COUNTY OF NEW YORK.—In the matter of the application for letters of administration on the goods, chattels, and credits which were of ADELAIDE LIVINGSTON, Deceased.—To the creditors of ADELAIDE LIVINGSTON, Deceased:

Whereas Elizabeth Livingston, sister and one of the heirs and next of kin of the said Adelaide Livingston, deceased, has presented to the Surrogates' Court of the County of New York her petition praying, and intends to apply, for the appointment of herself and the Lawyers Title Insurance & Trust Company, as administrators of the goods, chattels, and credits which were of the said Adelaide Livingston, deceased; and

Whereas, she, the said Elizabeth Livingston, has in and by her said petition further prayed, and intends to apply, that she may be so appointed administratrix of the goods, chattels, and credits of the said Adelaide Livingston, deceased, and that letters of administration thereon may be issued to her and the said Lawyers Title Insurance & Trust Company without her giving a bond the penalty of which shall exceed double the amount of the claims of creditors, as provided by Section 2,664 of the Code of Civil Procedure; and

Whereas all of the heirs and next of kin of the said Adelaide Livingston, deceased, have consented that she may be so appointed such administratrix, and that letters of administration may be so issued to her without giving a bond the penalty of which shall exceed double the amount of the claims of creditors, as provided in and by the said section of the said code;

You, and each of you, are hereby notified and required, under and by virtue of the said section of the said Code, and in pursuance of an order of this Court, bearing date and filed in the office of the Surrogates of the County of New York on the 14th day of July, 1910, to present any and all claims that you may have against the said estate of the said Adelaide Livingston, deceased, to the Surrogates of the County of New York, at their office in the Hall of Records, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, N. Y., on or before the 22nd day of August, 1910, at and after which date the penalty of the bond to be given by the said Elizabeth Livingston upon her appointment as administratrix of the goods, chattels, and credits of the said Adelaide Livingston, deceased, will be fixed by the said Surrogates, or one of them.

Dated July 18th, 1910.

GAYNOR DENOUNCES POLICE STUPIDITY

Two-thirds of Arrests Needless and Due to Patrolmen's Lack of Intelligence, He Says.

PLAIN CLOTHES MEN PUT OUT

The Mayor Takes Steps to See His Order Abolishing Them Is Carried Out.

The result of Mayor Gaynor's visit on Wednesday evening to the Night Court was manifest yesterday. He issued a statement, in which he spoke scathingly of the stupidity of many of the patrolmen who brought prisoners before the court and praised highly Magistrate Murphy's conduct on the bench. Acting Police Commissioner Bugher also transferred to regular duty in one order five Lieutenants, eleven Sergeants, and twenty-two patrolmen, who, in spite of the order of June 21 doing away with all plain-clothes men attached to the precincts have managed to recover their pleasant details.

It was evident on Wednesday night that the Mayor was astonished and angry as he found that the plain-clothes system was flourishing once more, and it was thought at Police Headquarters yesterday that Commissioner Baker, when he gets back from his vacation, will have a good deal of explaining to do. The thirty-eight men whom Acting Commissioner Bugher transferred yesterday were men, it was explained, who had managed to evade the Mayor's order and escape their regular police duty.

The right of Captains to assign a patrolman to plain-clothes duty for forty-eight hours in a week and of the Inspector of the district to extend this term for another twenty-four hours, so long as such details are reported to the Commissioner, has never been interfered with. It is the regular employment of men on special non-uniformed assignments from week's end to week's end which was supposed to have been abolished, and it is this which the Mayor found was again in force. As none of these thirty-eight could have been thus reassigned without the knowledge and permission of the Commissioner it is expected that he will be called sharply to book.

The first attack by the Mayor on the plain-clothes system was made in a letter on April 22, in which he declared he was unable to see what police service these plain-clothes men were doing. One hundred of them were immediately sent back to ordinary duty. On June 21 203 other men were relieved of "inspection duty," and from that date the time-honored wardman was supposed to pass out of police history.

Got Their Easy Jobs Back.

It appears, however, to take individual instances, that Patrolmen Frank Caddell, Thomas Lynch, William C. Ryan, and Daniel Clare, who had been attached to Inspector McClusky's district and were transferred to patrol duty on June 21 at the two West Twentieth Street Police Stations, were just a month later transferred back to "clerical duty" in Inspector McClusky's district. In the same way other men have got their old jobs back, till old-timers had begun to expect that all the ex-plain-clothes men who were really valuable to the Inspectors would soon be reinstated.

The comments that Mayor Gaynor had to make yesterday on the cases which he had seen in the Night Court and the intelligence of the patrolmen were in reply to questions by the City Hall reporters. This is what he said:

"Since so much, and some that is untrue, is being said of my visit, maybe I should say a word, since you ask for it. What I saw convinced me that the only necessity for the night court is for the prompt discharge of persons stupidly or unjustly arrested by stupid or vicious policemen instead of having them locked up all night, or making them the victims of the professional bondsmen.

"It is no injustice to hold over night persons justly arrested. They should look out. But two-thirds of those brought in last night were stupidly and needlessly arrested, and one or two of them corruptly, to extort money, and I understand that proportion is the rule. The careful and prudent Magistrate, who presided in the most admirable manner, had to discharge them one after another.

"The policemen who make these stupid arrests are the stupid men of the force. The intelligent men do not do it. I saw few intelligent policemen arraign prisoners. One policeman brought in a boy who threw a rubber ball in the street. He should have stopped him only. Another brought in a boy what danced on a building platform on the street. Another brought in two men who were quarreling. He had only to separate them and send them off. They had done no harm at all.

London Policemen's Methods.

"Another brought in two men on a similar charge of battery. Their dispute was perfectly harmless. It was only necessary to tell them to stop and go along. A London policeman would hardly notice them. Another brought in a man for disputing in a hall with his sister-in-law. The officer assumed to interfere, and when the man took his number he arrested him. There was no ground for the arrest.

"Three men were brought in for talking in 'a loud and boisterous manner,' as the policeman put it. The officer was unable to state a thing they said or did. Three men were brought in charged with 'drinking out of a can.' The kind Magistrate asked what that mattered. A few minutes later another stupid officer brought up three other men on the same charge. A boy who drives a delivery wagon until late every night for a large department store, and walked out to the corner within five minutes after getting home and eating the supper his mother saved for him, was stupidly lugged off for loafing and obstructing the street. It was painful to see the poor fellow's lips tremble as the Magistrate looked at him.

"One officer arraigned a cook whom he arrested as he came off a boat for stealing a cold chicken. Some one said he stole it, and the officer made the arrest unlawfully. That an officer may not arrest without a warrant for a misdemeanor unless he saw it committed seemed never to have entered his head. He looked too stupid to understand it. There was no evidence of the larceny.

Blames the Law.

"These are a sample of what I saw. It was discharge after discharge. When an intelligent officer now and then arraigned a prisoner it was for good and serious cause. Intelligent officers know better than to make trivial and foolish arrests. They smooth things over and pass along. Cases of small larcenies came up. It was plain that the best way was to have them finally disposed of then and there.

"But no. The law has been tinkered with until the Magistrate cannot even take a plea of guilty. Misdemeanor cases, however trivial, have to be held for the Court of Special Sessions, and there delays and vexations occur. This ought to be done away with. Justices of the Peace all over the State try these petty cases, and there is no reason why the same should not be done here."

The reference Mayor Gaynor made to the way in which the law has been "tinkered with" is concerned, apparently, with a case of shop-lifting in which the evidence was clear. Magistrate Murphy was obliged by law to send the prisoner to Special Sessions, as she was charged with a misdemeanor, and the Mayor, as the prisoner was led away, remarked on the absurdity of not allowing a Magistrate to pass on such a case as much as a Special Sessions Justice.

Police Bitter at the Mayor.

Comment in police circles yesterday on the strictures on the capacity of patrolmen who made arrests was bitter. It was pointed out that the Mayor seemed to forget the number of complaints of trivial incidents which arrive at Police Headquarters and are forwarded to the precinct commanders. On the one hand citizens and the heads of city departments complain that they cannot get the law enforced because arrests are not made, and on the other hand the Mayor and the Magistrates are complaining of the police because they arraign so many prisoners.

A patrolman, the police say, finds himself liable to criticism as inefficient if he does not put down the small breaches of order, which he can only accomplish by making arrests, and then is called stupid by the Mayor for doing what he believes to be required of him.

QUIET IN NIGHT COURT.

A Noticeable Change in the Number of Prisoners Since Gaynor's Visit.

Old-timers would not have recognized the Night Court last night. The unexpected visit of Mayor Gaynor on Wednesday night and his subsequent remarks on stupid arrests had its effect. There were few prisoners brought before Magistrate Murphy and for the first time plain-clothes men were not in evidence. When the clerks arrived at 8:30 o'clock there was no waiting line of policemen ready to have complaints drawn up. It was not until 9:30 that the first prisoner was brought in, and he was arrested by a special policeman of the Interborough, charged with being intoxicated on the elevated platform at Third Avenue and Forty-second Street.

When the Magistrate went on the bench there were only five prisoners, where on other nights there have been twenty-five or thirty waiting. Up to recess time at 10:30 there were only twenty prisoners brought in, where on other nights there have been seventy-five or eighty in line. Magistrate Murphy was lenient, and there was a noticeable lack of that self-confident air on the part of the policemen.

William Ratching of 19 Essex Street had been arrested for amusing himself by throwing boys into the Rutger's Square fountain. Policeman Delaney of the Madison Street Station, who made the arrest, admitted he had not seen the act.

"Where are your witnesses?" asked the Magistrate.

"I haven't any," replied Delaney.

In discharging Ratching Magistrate Murphy said he thought being thrown in a fountain was pretty good treatment, considering the weather.

When a man arrested for fighting in the street was brought before the Magistrate the latter asked the policeman why he had not told the man to be good and go home. The policeman admitted that he had not done so, and his prisoner was discharged.

"You would hardly recognize the old place," said a court policeman in one of the long waits between prisoners. And this was the comment of many who contrasted last night to the bustle and excitement of other nights.

SOUTHERN GIRLS SEE MAYOR.

He Tells Them It Must Have Been a Beauty Contest They Won.

The twenty prize-winning Tennessee girls, who are visiting the city as the guests of The Nashville American, called on Mayor Gaynor yesterday, and, after being received by him, had their pictures taken on the steps of the City Hall, with the Mayor in the centre of the group.

Mayor Gaynor was introduced to each of the young women by Mrs. James Chappell, chaperone of the party, and then he said:

"They tell me that you are here as the result of a contest. I don't know what kind of a contest it was, but from your looks I should say that it must have been a beauty contest.

"If I had the time I would like to go around with you and show you the sights. I would even pay for one of those big wagons. I hope you are enjoying yourselves."

"We are," replied one of the girls. "The only trouble is we haven't any men to talk to."

WANT ALIENS TO GO SOUTH.

Agents Abroad Are Urging Them to Go to Texas, Railroad Man Says.

Among those who arrived yesterday on the Hamburg-American liner President Lincoln was John Sebastian, third Vice President of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company. He has spent two months abroad, whither he went as delegate to the International Railroad Convention, in Berne, Switzerland. He said he saw nothing disquieting in the business situation abroad or in the feeling that European investors have for American securities.

He said he was of the opinion that Government legislation in regard to the railroads is keeping the roads from spending money. He said the railroads are giving much attention to the immigration question. They have representatives abroad in the hope of turning the tide south, principally to Texas.

HOSPITAL PRISONER ESCAPES

Disguised in Orderly's Uniform, He Passes Through Throng of Visitors.

Disguised in the uniform of an orderly, James Madden, 38 years old, who was being held in the prison ward in the Newark City Hospital, escaped yesterday from that institution. Madden had been arrested by the police of the Third Precinct Station on a charge of larceny.

He had planned his escape well, for at the time he disappeared the corridors were filled with visitors. Madden slipped out of his ward into the attendant's room, donned a uniform, and then went out by the front door unnoticed.

NO PENALTY FOR PIE DUEL.

Middy Who Umpired Eating Contest Will Get His Diploma.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Midshipman Herbert O. Roesch of Oregon will not be court-martialed because he umpired a pie-eating contest of lower classmen. The Navy Department has decided the affair was too trivial to be taken seriously.

Roesch's diploma had been withheld because it was said he had hazed the freshmen by compelling them to eat pie. Roesch replied that he merely umpired the contest, and pointed out that a first class man never hazes freshmen. He will get his diploma.

REA WANTS SUBWAYS BUILT BY THE CITY

Extension of Interborough Preferable to New Lines, Says Pennsylvania Official.

NEEDED FOR NEW TRAFFIC

Especially for Passengers at the New Terminal—Shonts's New Offer for Third-Tracking the Elevated.

Vice President Samuel Rea of the Pennsylvania Railroad, on his return from his vacation yesterday, entered the subway discussion with another letter to the Mayor and the Public Service Commission favoring the latest subway proposal of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company as against the Broadway-Lexington Avenue system, plans for which are now being prepared by the Public Service Commission. Printed copies of Mr. Rea's letter were sent to the newspapers yesterday afternoon. As the Public Service Commission had not received the original up to the close of business, no one representing that body would comment on it.

Here is Mr. Rea's letter:

Aug. 4, 1910.

The Hon. William J. Gaynor, Mayor of the City of New York;
The Hon. William R. Willcox, Chairman Public Service Commission for First District, 154 Nassau Street, New York City:

Gentlemen: I note with pleasure the announcement of plans regarding new subways for the City of New York, which contemplate extensions of the present Subway up the east side to the Bronx and down the west side under Seventh Avenue, with a Brooklyn connection, and also a Manhattan crosstown connection, permitting convenient transfers from one line to another, and serving the most densely populated sections of your great city. These extensions are among those recommended by the Board of Rapid Transit Railroad Commissioners as far back as 1905, and there is no question as to the practicability of their construction and operation, nor in my judgment as to their profitable operation, and as to the necessity for the construction of these extensions to the city's Subway is so apparent, I am gratified at the hope of some progress.

While as a general proposition I am in favor of private capital being provided for subways, and always with the right for the city to acquire the same, yet under present financial and business conditions, and because these are extensions to the city's present Subway, necessary to round it out as a complete system, coupled with the right of the city to obtain possession thereof on short notice, and the fact that they will undoubtedly be profitable in their results, I believe that the idea for the city to raise the capital for these extensions is a sound, economical, and justifiable proposition.

In addition to the present transit demands the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will on Sept. 8 open its station at Seventh Avenue and Thirty-second Street, and the four tunnels to Long Island, bringing passengers from Queens and Brooklyn, and the necessity for Subway accommodations will become more imperative than ever. This station will be one of the important centres of New York City, where great numbers of people will daily concentrate and will require prompt distribution to all parts of the city.

We have with you a deep interest in the subway development and are not merely critics or observers of the situation, but have given the matter serious consideration for several years and our own system, including the Long Island Railroad Company, has spent over $125,000,000 for the improvement of transportation facilities in and adjoining New York City. In making these large expenditures we relied upon an up and down town subway with proper connection for the east side and reaching Brooklyn being provided, because the greater number of passengers using our station will be citizens of New York City traveling daily to and from Long Island, and its citizens will also use it in reaching New Jersey and other States.

Failure to Build a Calamity.

I do not doubt that the plans submitted, which are not confined to the extensions of the present Subway, to which I refer, may contain some features which prevent unanimous approval and adoption of the entire proposition, but a failure to proceed at the earliest possible moment with that part of the plans about which there is no question, and thereby also fail to provide rapid transit facilities for the city to and from the Pennsylvania station and tunnels, which represent such a large expenditure of private capital, and command universal public approval as by far the most important addition to transportation for the City of New York since the opening of the present Subway, would be obviously calamitous to the future interests of the city.

On a final review I feel it will be conceded that the construction of a separate subway paralleling the existing one on the east side of Manhattan south of Forty-second Street would not appear to be justified at the present time when the same or even less money can be applied to provide a new four-track subway on the west side below Forty-second Street, serving a new section of the city as well as the imperative needs of the public at the Pennsylvania station; furthermore, the construction of an independent subway would tend to indefinitely postpone the logical and necessary completion of the present Subway system.

Summing up the situation: The matter of immediate importance is to complete the present Subway system, giving the citizens two substantially straight four-track subways, one on the east side of the city and the other on the west side, between the Harlem River, the Battery, and Brooklyn. These two lines being connected at Forty-second Street by the existing Subway in that street, and operated with a shuttle service so as to give free and convenient transfer between the east and west sides of the city.

The advantages of the proposed extensions of the present Subway of the city are that compared to any other routes; they (1) can be built for very much less money; (2) in a much shorter time; (3) they are practical to operate; (4) will no doubt be profitable from the start; (5) will complete the present Subway, and as a result the city will own two straightaway subways on the east and west sides, and into Brooklyn and the Bronx, permitting convenient transfers; (6) will give city a fair share in the profits and open up a method whereby the city can obtain possession, under fair conditions and on short notice, of subways built by its additional investment; (7) will give greater relief to a wider area than any other lines proposed; (8) will avoid the waste of capital that a duplication of the present Subway on the east side would occasion until the present system has first been completed and has reached its capacity; (9) will serve the large numbers in the territory on the lower west side of Manhattan and the needs of the traveling public at the new Pennsylvania station, the pressing importance of which I feel sure will be realized by the citizens immediately the station is opened for traffic; (10) will not prevent any future subway developments that the city may require, but first completes the work the city now owns by the most necessary, logical, and profitable extensions.

I cannot conceive of any plan for the city's subway extensions which will bring greater benefits to the citizens, or for which more can be said in their favor than those I mention, and I trust that prompt building of these subway extensions will be announced in the future. Yours truly,

SAMUEL REA,
Second Vice President.

Interborough's New Offer.

Through correspondence given out yesterday at the Public Service Commission it became known that President Shonts of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company had made a new offer to the Public Service Commission concerning the third tracking of the elevated roads, the construction of the Sixth Avenue line out Jerome Avenue from its present terminus at 155th Street. The new proposal was in answer to a letter sent to Mr. Shonts by Acting Chairman McCarroll of the commission on July 23, following prolonged interviews between the commission and officials of the Interborough Company.

Mr. Shonts proposes, with respect to the third tracking of the elevated roads, that a franchise be given for the balance of the term of the present lease of the Manhattan Elevated to the Interborough, which was made for 999 years. This is subject to the right of the city to acquire at any time after ten years on payment of cost and 15 per cent. profit, but Mr. Shonts remarks naively that if the lease runs to maturity the extensions will revert to the city without cost.

The financial basis offered for the extensions during the negotiations with the commission was 2 per cent. of the increased earnings for the first twenty-five years and a sum thereafter to be determined at that time. As to the extension up Jerome Avenue, Mr. Shonts states that he is not now prepared to say what his company will do. The Steinway tunnel he offers to the city at half what it cost to build as an extra, under Subway Contract No. 1, and let the operating company work out the amount so paid.

LONG CHASE TO CATCH LINER.

Tug Catches Up with the Tennyson Off Sandy Hook.

There was a chase down the bay yesterday afternoon afternoon after the Lamport & Holt Liner Tennyson, which sailed for South America. Important papers which did not arrive here in time to go out on the vessel were put on board by a tug.

The Tennyson sailed at 2 P. M. She rounded the Battery and was almost out of sight when Paul F. Gerhart, a shipping agent, of 8 Bridge Street, accompanied by a Philadelphia importer, appeared at the Battery pier. They hailed Capt. James Ellis of the tugboat Thomas F. Timmins and explained that they wanted to overhaul the fast disappearing Tennyson. Money and time was no object, they said.

The men climbed aboard the tug, and she was soon steaming at top speed down the bay. Mr. Gerhart explained that the Philadelphia man represented a number of consignees. He had with him a number of negotiable bills of lading which must go out on the same steamship with the consignments. It was absolutely necessary that they go on the Tennyson.

A telephone message had been sent to Quarantine asking the skipper to slow down and await the coming of the Timmins. The message reached there too late to allow the vessel to be signaled, and she went out the Narrows. Behind her, and a long way behind, came the tug. It was not until Sandy Hook was reached that the Timmins got close enough for her whistle to be heard on the Tennyson. Then with Capt. Ellis yanking the whistle cord she reached out to Sandy Hook.

The Tennyson had passed out when her Captain noticed that the tug was pursuing him. He slowed down, and soon after the Timmins ran alongside. A line was dropped from the liner's deck and the papers were made fast to the end and hauled on board. With a parting blast of her whistle the Tennyson gathered speed again and the tug returned to the Battery.

THIEF HAS A SWEET TOOTH.

Thrusts His Caramels in Conductor's Pocket and Then Robs Him.

Samuel L. Rothenberg, 17 years old, of 611 East Sixth Street, boarded a southbound Eighth Avenue car yesterday afternoon, munching caramels, a bag of which he held in his hand, and gave some to the conductor, Michael Culloty.

When the car reached Fifteenth Street Rothenberg, getting off, thrust a handful of the caramels into the righthand pocket of the conductor's coat, known as "the silver pocket," in which dimes and quarters are carried.

Culloty clapped his hand to his pocket, which had grown perceptibly lighter. Then he stopped the car and gave chase to Rothenberg. Patrolman Anthony Grieco of the old West Twentieth Street station, joined in the pursuit, and at Ninth Avenue overtook the fugitive just as Culloty came panting up. Counting his change, the conductor found that $3.45 was missing. Silver amounting to $3.10 was found in Rothenberg's pocket when searched at the station house.

In Jefferson Market Court Magistrate Corrigan held him in $1,000 for trial.

SNOWBALLED ON A HOT DAY.

Washington Man Complains of an Ice Cream Vender's Assault.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—To be snowballed with the official thermometer showing 91 in the shade was the unique experience here this morning of a short little man named Daniel Cohen. It made him hot, and he rushed to the Municipal Building as fast as he could and demanded a warrant.

"What's the matter?" asked Assistant District Attorney Weyrich.

"He hit me with a snowball," was the unexpected reply.

Mr. Weyrich made sure that two policemen were within call before he soothingly told the complainant that it was August and snowballs were out of season.

"That's foolish," was the indignant retort, "and this snowball was flavored with strawberry. I didn't mind that part, but it was too squashy."

Cohen then explained that in the course of an altercation with an ice cream vendor the peddler had taken a handful of cracked ice soaked in strawberry juice, which is sold to children under the name of snowballs, and had dashed the melting mass into his face. The warrant for the peddler's arrest was then issued.

MISS "BATTERY DAN" FINN.

Market Men Say City Wouldn't Move Their Stands if He Was Alive.

Market men at the old Washington Market stood about disconsolately yesterday and watched the preparations under way to remove their stands, which have stood for upward of fifty years along the sidewalks. "If Battery Dan Finn was alive to-day this would not happen," said some of the old, white-aproned marketmen. "Dan was always our friend, and he appealed for us many a time."

The edict that the outside stands must go still stands. The market men are not certain when the removals will be made. The first order from Commissioner of Public Works Frothingham read for to-day, and then came a later one with the date set for the 15th.

The marketmen are not taking chances of eviction. Most of them have moved inside the market house, as the cards on the empty stalls testify.

SUED FOR OVERWORKING MEN.

Baltimore & Ohio Must Answer Under Hours of Service Act.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 4.—Suit was filed in the United States District Court here today by John H. Jordan, United States District Attorney, against the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company for the recovery of penalties aggregating $2,000 on four alleged violations of the Hours of Service act of 1908. The action was brought at the request of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, which furnished the information on which the suit is based.

It is charged that the railway company required and permitted certain of its employes engaged in moving inter-State traffic to remain on duty for a period longer than sixteen consecutive hours, and that the employes again went on duty without having remained away from their employment ten consecutive hours.

LIFE GUARDS TO THE RESCUE.

Save a Drowning Man in the Surf at Rockaway Beach.

A large crowd saw the rescue of a drowning man in the surf near Steeplechase Park, Rockaway Beach, yesterday afternoon.

Edward Groom, 21 years old, of 1,408 Nostrand Avenue, Brooklyn, who is a strong swimmer, was far out beyond the life lines when he suffered an attack of cramps. His cries for help were heard by Frank Williams and Jesse Mitchell, life guards on the beach, and they plunged into the breakers to the rescue. Groom had gone down twice when the life guards reached him. They caught him as he reappeared, and after a hard struggle succeeded in getting him to the beach.

After he had been attended by a physician Groom was able to go to his home.

SEEK ARGUS-EYED THIEF.

Burglars Stole 500 Glass Optics, but They're Worth Little, Owner Says.

A burglar broke the show window of an optical shop at 54 East Twenty-third Street yesterday and carried off about 500 artificial eyes. The store is a few doors from the Subway station at Fourth Avenue and Twenty-third Street.

M. H. Harris, the proprietor, said there were some gold-mounted lorgnettes taken with the eyes, and he estimated his loss at about $200.

Stealing artificial eyes, he said, was ridiculous, as they had little value until they had been matched to the eye of a person needing one.

LONG ISLAND TRAINS IN TUNNEL SEPT. 8

North Shore Passengers to be Transferred at Winfield to Electric Cars.

RUN 18-MINUTE EXPRESSES

Through Trains Will Be Put In Operation as Soon as the Division Is Double-Tracked and Regraded.

When the Pennsylvania Railroad tunnel service is inaugurated on Sept. 8 trains of the north shore division of the Long Island Railroad will transfer passengers at Winfield, where they will take the electric trains direct to this city.

The regrading and double-tracking of the north shore division has been going on all Summer, but it will be next year before the road will be able to run through trains. An agreement has been made with the city as to the grade crossings between Woodside and Winfield, and the work of eliminating these will be started this Fall. With the passing of these grade crossings, about six in number, the Long Island Railroad will have a four-track line from its terminal in this city to Jamaica. An eighteen-minute express service will be run between Manhattan and Jamaica.

For the last few weeks experimental trains have been running over this division for the purpose of breaking in the men and making them familiar with the change from steam to electricity. These trains have moved so smoothly that the road expects little if any trouble when the service is started. While all the steel cars necessary for the tunnel service are not delivered yet, the company will have enough for the maintenance of its schedule.

The original intention of the road was to erect a great office building in Jamaica to house all the general offices. The plans, however, have been altered, and only the lower floors, containing the waiting rooms, will be built.

All the officers will have offices in the new terminal building in this city. The Traffic Manager, the General Freight Agent, the General Passenger Agent, the Auditor, the Secretary, the law and claim departments, &c., are there now, and several other departments will be there in a few days.

President Peters, however, will not move from the present offices of the company in the Long Island City terminal until the end of August.

INVESTIGATE HOBOKEN FIRE.

Authorities Think Blaze In Which Four Lives Were Lost Was Incendiary

Chief of Police McCauley of West Hoboken, N. J., is making an investigation of the fire which resulted in the deaths of four persons late Wednesday night. The Chief has learned that one of the tenants smelled oil in the hallways of the house a short time before the fire was discovered. From this it is believed that the fire was started by an incendiary, who may have been on unfriendly terms with some of the families in the house.

The four victims of the fire were Louis Biscaotti, 32 years of age; his wife, Marie, 30 years of age, and their two sons, Paul and John, 8 and 4 years of age, respectively.

The fire partly destroyed the house at 252 Spring Street at a time when all the tenants were in bed. The Biscaotti family lived on the second floor of the house. The owner of the house, Peter Libell, occupied the third floor with his wife.

When the firemen reached the house it was aflame from top to bottom. Libelli and his wife were standing at their windows crying for help. A ladder was run up against the house and former Fire Chief Mostder and some of the other firemen carried them safely to the ground. The family on the first floor had escaped from the building before the firemen arrived, and it was also reported that the Biscaotti family had also got out. Instead they were trapped by the flames.

The firemen succeeded in extinguishing the flames, and then made an investigation. They found the bodies of the four dead Italians on the floor of their apartment, indicating that they had been aroused from their sleep, but were unable to make their way to the stairs or windows because of the intense heat and thick smoke.

Jersey Officers to Ignore Subpoenas.

County Register John J. McMahon of Hudson County and members of the present and former North Bergen School Boards who have been summoned by the New Jersey State Senate Investigating Committee to appear in Trenton to-day to testify in the school site scandal will decline to obey the subpoenas. Their lawyers have found some law, it is said, which protects them in ignoring them. The hearings have not been held in Trenton heretofore, and counsel for the desired witnesses said there was no way in which they could be made to leave their county to appear.

Voting Machine Goes in Sussex, N. J.

SUSSEX, N. J., Aug. 4.—With only 167 out of 357 voters taking the trouble to register their opinions, the last voting machine in Sussex County has gone by the board. The vote was 143 to 24. There is not more than one case on record where the voting machine test has resulted in anything but defeat.

Wireless Operator Missing.

The Government employes stationed at the wireless station in the Brooklyn Navy Yard are trying to learn the whereabouts of Joseph L. Barttro, a young operator there. His mother, who has come on from her home in St. Lambert, Quebec, is also anxiously seeking him. Barttro left the yard on July 29 on a furlough and announced that he was going home to visit his mother. He did not reach home and has not returned to the yard.

McAneny Starts on His Vacation.

Borough President McAneny of Manhattan left the city on vacation yesterday afternoon. He will be gone until Sept. 10, spending most of the time with his family at his Summer place at Bolton Landing, Lake George.
